A Mother's Day Idea.
Another Kidnaping.
Why Blackmail Russia?
What? Cheap Milk for Mothers?

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

DOCTORS AND others, in connection with "Mother's Day," say it might be a good idea for our sentimental nation to pay attention to mothers that die in childbirth. About 17,000 die, two-thirds of them needlessly, every year. According to Dr. Thomas Parran, Jr., New York State Health Commissioner, 1,168 mothers died in his state alone during childbirth last year and 800 of these mothers could have been saved by decent care.

Further, three thousand babies died within twenty-four hours of birth, and three thousand more in the first month, and many of them could have been saved.

IN GOOD modern hospitals, where money makes everything easy, when you call politely to contemplate the new-born baby of a friend or relative, you stand outside a door of plate glass and look at the baby through the glass. You are not allowed to come near it or breathe on it, and it lives.

That is how they treat gorillas in the London zoo, put glass in front of them to prevent their inhaling tuberculosis germs, scattered by humans. They also live.

WILLIAM F. GETTLE, 47-year-old oil operator, described in accordance with custom as "a millionaire," was kidnaped yesterday on his own grounds, while celebrating with friends the opening of a new swimming pool. Masked men climbed a seven-foot wall, topped with barbed wire, and said in soft voices:

"Put them up, gentlemen."

Three men obeyed. One was tied to a tree, Gettle was carried away. The kidnapers would tell you that it is difficult to make a "decent" living in any other way, now that prohibition has gone and bootlegging and hijacking are not available.

NEW YORK is discussing a law to make the parole system for criminals "more liberal," which would mean turning criminals loose after an earnest lecture and a brief prison residence.

It is not desirable to concentrate attention on any particular highlight of banditry, but Mr. Dillinger, a resolute bandit, was turned loose in that way in his own state. Later he turned himself loose by bribery, and since that time thirteen men have been killed along his trail.

QUITE REASONABLY the Washington government is asked why it forbids lending money to Russia. The present Russian government does not owe anybody in the United States a cent. Every dollar spent by Russia, for merchandise, in the United States has been paid. Our biggest industrial concerns, General Electric and others, will testify to that.

LOANS THAT Americans foolishly made to the comic opera Kerensky government were actually used by "White Russians" to invade Russia in an attempt to conquer its present government. Can you expect Soviet Russia to pay that debt?

This government passed a law that no American money must be lent to defaulters on war debts. The government of Russia is not in default on any war debt to this country and Uncle Sam should not attempt to blackmail that government into paying debts of Kerensky or the Czar.

MAYOR LAGUARDIA, of New York, who knows that farmers sell good milk for three cents a quart and less, thinks mothers in cities ought to be able to buy two quarts for fifteen cents, which would be a little more than double what the farmers get. He even suggested that New York City go into the business of selling good milk in bulk. You will admit that comes pretty close to Bolshevism, anarchy and Communism.

BAD NEWS becomes much worse news in the farm belt. Unless heavy rain comes within five days, serious crop failure must be expected. In addition to heat, parasites and dust storms are hurting wheat, which may drop to a fifty per cent yield.

This bad news for us is good news for other countries that grow wheat.

This optimistic country, that apparently never heard of a crop failure, practically compelling farmers to cut their crops, leaving their land idle, will improve markets for foreigners.

STOCKS dropped rapidly yesterday. Those who believe that discouraging short market sales will hurt values may be right.

All governments learn that in this world things "grow," farming methods, babies, industries, crops. Any sudden plan to change methods that experience has established may turn out magnificently. But it may turn out otherwise.

Food in some big cities has gone up fifty per cent in price in the past year, which suits those that wanted to raise the prices of products. It does not suit so well the millions that have thus far failed to raise the value of their own services, or even to find a job.

THE PRESIDENT has signed another tax bill to raise four hundred and seventeen million dollars of new revenue. Small incomes will pay less, big incomes will pay more. A man once had a theory that eating

'Pretty Teachers' Linked in Divorce

WIFE SUED, JEALOUSY CHARGED

Tried to Prevent His Serving on School Board, Mate Says

His wife's "jealous" objections to young and pretty school teachers, choir singers and women church members, acquaintance with whom was necessary because of his activities, made life "unbearable," W. D. Carnahan testified today in his contested divorce suit.

Carnahan, former president of the Elizabeth Township School Board, Sunday school superintendent and church choir leader, is seeking to break the ties that have bound him to his wife, Isabel, for more than 30 years.

He told Judge Frank P. Patterson in Common Pleas Court that although his wife's jealousy was "entirely unfounded," it had forced him to abandon the interests that made "life worth while."

MADE RACE ANYHOW

"If you run for the school board I'll divorce you."

That, Carnahan testified, is what Mrs. Carnahan told him before a delegation of citizens urging him to make the race. He said:

"She thought meeting the teachers wouldn't be good for me."

Accepting the threat, Carnahan was elected and served for five years as president.

Carnahan told of his activities in the Boston, Pa., Methodist Episcopal Church:

"I was superintendent of the Sunday school and leader of the choir, but my wife didn't like the idea of my having women associates in the work. She always sent our little girl along to watch me."

Finally Carnahan resigned his church membership in 1929, because, he said:

"She nagged me."

Carnahan accused Mrs. Carnahan of using profane language. He said:

"But I never swore until I quit the church."

DEATH THREATS CITED

Alleged death threats likewise figured in Carnahan's testimony. He said that once she had tried to hit him on the head with a book rack and quoted her as saying:

"'You've lived long enough.'"

On another occasion, he declared, she brought a woman friend to their Boston home to help with the job, with the threat:

"'All right—now is the time for you to die.'"

Carnahan said that he had turned his pay check over to his wife for the last 30 years. He is a superintendent for the National Tube Company. The couple have several children and a grandchild.

After today's hearing the suit was continued until Monday, when Carnahan will resume the stand. He is expected to call several witnesses, including some of their children. After that, Mrs. Carnahan will take the stand.

Giving Away Her Cats

MARIE KWIT, 6 . . . . . HER PET CATS: AMOS AND ROSIE

Marie, 4419 Butler street, with the two cats she'll give to people who can give them good homes—as good as the one she found for her pet dog, Cheeko—because the little family is having a difficult time of it since her daddy died. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

POVERTY PARTS CHILD, PETS

Little Marie Kwit, 6, of 4419 Butler street, is offering to give away her pets.

She does not like to give them away, but she is forced to because Marie and her mother and her two sisters find it hard enough to feed themselves since the head of the Kwit family, Adam Kwit, died of pneumonia on April 2.

Marie insists on one thing, though—her pets must have a good home. They were such a happy troupe that the little mistress cannot bear the thought of turning them over to cruel hands.

There are the two cats, Rosie and Amos, and the kitten, Sunshine, which is always scampering playfully about the modest Kwit home. Also there is a parrot, never baptized.

First to leave Marie's troupe of animal friends was a Pekingese pup, Cheeko by name. Cheeko has been turned over to a good home, the kind that Marie is seeking for the rest of her little pets.

POLICE WORKING FOR M'NAIR

By MARK SHIELDS

Orders have sifted through the police department to vote and work for Mayor William N. McNair for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

No direct instructions to this effect have emanated from the Mayor's office, but police officials, sensing the winds of politics, and not wishing the Mayor to have any cause of displeasure with them, have passed the word to subordinates to work for the Mayor, just as they did when the city's chief executive was a Republican.

McCULLOCH INDORSED

Similar instructions have filtered through other departments but not the Treasury, which is headed by James P. Kirk, lieutenant of Democratic County Chairman David L. Lawrence, whom the Mayor is opposing for re-election as party leader. McNair revealed his animus against Lawrence yesterday in a statement indorsing Attorney Francis

SMITH DEFIES M'NAIR ON OUSTER

Safety Head Awaiting Action by Council On Bell

Public Safety Director Ralph E. Smith, whom Mayor McNair has been attempting to ease out of his job in a diplomatic way, is "going to stick around" to see if the Mayor's latest efforts prove successful.

Smith said today he won't fight for the job, but he will hang on until he sees whether Council confirms the Mayor's new appointee, Archibald Marshall Bell, on Monday.

Smith said:

"If Bell is confirmed, I will be on the skids."

M'NAIR'S COMMENT

The Public Safety Director admitted that McNair has the power to fire him, but said that he has not done so yet.

McNair contributed this thought to the situation today:

"Certainly, Smith won't quit; he'll be there until Monday. But if Council confirms Bell on Monday, Bell will be the Safety Director."

The Mayor appeared to be doubtful whether Council would confirm his new appointee. He said:

"I'm not running the town; Council is."

INVITES PROBE

Smith said today he invited a "most thorough" investigation of the conduct of his department.

He referred to McNair's bringing into the situation the proposed probe of the Police Department under a commission sponsored by Councilman John J. Kane.

Smith said:

"I don't think the Mayor meant to cast any suspicion on me."

COUNCIL MAY BALK

From all indications today the Mayor will be unable to secure councilmatic confirmation of Social Registerite Bell.

What likely will be the highest barrier in the path of confirmation is the fact that Bell is a resident and duly qualified voter of

Candidate Answers Quiz on $5,000,000 Surety Firm Case

Attorney General William A. Schnader, candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, today denied any responsibility for events leading up to the State Insurance Department's $5,000,000 suit against the Pennsylvania Surety Corporation.

His statement was made in answer to four questions asked by the Sun-Telegraph in yesterday's editions.

Schnader said:

"I have seen the four questions in yesterday's Sun-Telegraph regarding the Pennsylvania Surety Corporation. I have already answered them but am glad to do so again.

'NEW LEASE ON LIFE'

"Question 1—'Why did the Attorney General's Department, of which W. A. Schnader was a member, give the Pennsylvania Surety Corporation a new lease on life in January, 1930?'

"Answer—In January, 1930, I was a special deputy attorney general. As such I handled only such matters as were especially assigned to me.

"I was never consulted about the Pennsylvania Surety Company matter, had no knowledge of it and nothing whatever to do with it.

"Therefore, I am not in a position to answer this question.

'INDEPENDENT AUDIT'

"Question 2—'Why did W. A. Schnader refuse an independent audit of Pennsylvania Surety Corporation's affairs in 1931?'

"Answer—I did not refuse an independent audit. The audit was refused by the Insurance

Eight singles matches tomorrow will wind up the play for the trophy, which never has been won by the Britons.

Eric McRuvie and Jack McLean registered the lone victory for Great Britain. They defeated Francis Ouimet, American team captain, and George Dunlap, United States amateur champion, 4 and 2.

American victories were turned in by Johnny Goodman, American open champion, and W. Lawson Little, who defeated Cyril Tolley and Roger Wethered, 8 and 6; Gus Moreland and Jack Westland, who won over Harry Bentley and Eric Fiddian, 6 and 5, and H. The men released were Raymond Lohr, of Wilkinsburg; Norman Beckley, of 618 Ross avenue, Wilkinsburg, and Charles Hough, of 1173 South avenue, Wilkinsburg.

Filing Divorce

GLORIA SWANSON

Miss Swanson, the film actress, who in Chicago today explained that within a week or 10 days she'll file suit for divorce from Michael Farmer. She "hears" he's starting a cruise.

GLORIA TO FILE DIVORCE SUIT

International News Service.

CHICAGO, May 11.—Gloria Swanson will file suit for divorce against her husband, Michael Farmer, in a Los Angeles court within a week or 10 days, she said today.

The motion picture star said:

"Mr. Farmer, I hear, is just about to start a cruise around the world, the lucky dog. He just got back from Norway on a fishing trip. I don't know just which direction he will go, but he starts, I think from somewhere on the Mediterrean."

The charges Miss Swanson announced, will be incompatibility. She said she is finding it necessary "to work to support my children while Farmer finds it neccessary to fish and to cruise."

Miss Swanson refused to comment on the report that she will wed Herbert Marshall, English actor now in Hollywood. As soon as his wife, Edna Best, gives him a divorce. Concerning the possibility of a divorce between the Marshalls, she said:

"I don't know whether Mrs. Marshall is going to give her husband a divorce, or not. I wouldn't know about that, of course."

GIRL SEIZED AS LAWYER CONTACTS BAND

Early Break Promised As Police Push Manhunt

LOS ANGELES, May 11.—(AP.)—A ransom of $75,000 has been demanded for the release of William F. Gettle, kidnaped Beverly Hills millionaire, the District Attorney's office announced today.

Ernest E. Noon, attorney for Mrs. Gettle, informed District Attorney Buron Fitts he had received a telephone call "from a party who informed him they had Gettle alive and wanted $75,000 ransom." Noon reported:

"About 8:30 o'clock this morning I had a telephone call from some man.

"The conversation went somethink like this:

"'Mr. Noon?'

"I said 'yes.'

"'Will you pay seventy-five grand?'

"'Why yes, why—yes.'

"'Well, make up your mind.'

"'All right.'

"'Now you follow the instructions and everything, and you will be all right,' the man told me."

FIND KIDNAP CAR OF JUNE ROBLES

International News Service.

TUCSON, Ariz., May 11.—Discovery of a dilapidated automobile which the kidnapers used when they seized June Robles, 6-year-old heiress, as she was leaving school 15 days ago, was the highlight of developments today.

The abandoned automobile was found near Nogales, Sonora, Mexico, by Mexican police. Detectives described the automobile as the one used in driving the child across the border as the abductors were forced to flee before the greatest manhunt ever organized in the Southwest.

Other disclosures today were:

1—The Mexican Cordada, a law enforcement body similar to the Texas Rangers of pioneer western days, ordered several hundred armed men to make a thorough search through Western Sonora.

2—June's father, Fernando Robles, has issued a second appeal to the kidnapers, declaring he could raise only $10,000 ransom money. He also asserted the "donors of the $10,000 stated that money must not be paid except upon delivery of the child."

3—Police revealed the kidnapers had submitted the child's answers to five questions propounded by the father in order to avoid a hoax. The replies, all of which were to childish queries, were correct.

Blood for Dying Baby Offered by Sleuth

Gasping for life, an 11-day-old baby lay fighting through a night and a day in the Children's Hospital while officials waited in vain for response to an appeal for volunteers fo ra blood transfusion.

The baby's plight became known when it was learned no volunteers had appeared at the hospital over a period of 22 hours, despite repeated broadcasts for aid through the police radio station, WPDU, since 4:15 p. m. yesterday.

Curiously alone in his mission, a single policeman showed up after the 22-hour siege this afternoon.

His blood tested affirmatively with that of the child's, it was found, and the transfusion was to be performed late today by Dr. John Snyder, chief resident physician.

The lone volunteer was Joseph Shaner, of the Oakland Police Police Station.

Hospital attaches were at a loss to explain the absence of volunteers. Usually, they declared, from a dozen to 20 persons anxious to help appear immediately.

Skeleton Hints Murder Of Missing Bootlegger

The murder of a bootlegger who mysteriously disappeared six years ago was believed by county detectives today to be indicated by the unearthing of a skeleton in the yard of his former home in Ella Hollow, Forward Township.

The skull, according to County Detectives David Drexler and James O'Brien, has been identified by neighbors as that of John Calsoni, a coal miner who operated a moonshine still to support his four children.

Missing teeth on one side, shoes and a piece of suspender led to identification, they asserted.

Paul Omachal, who recently bought the property, discovered the skull protruding through the earthen floor of a dismantled coal shed while he was digging post holes.

Detectives say that a 13-year-old stepson of Calsoni was arrested by prohibition officers on a charge of making moonshine and that he was the youngest such offender taken into custody. The stepson gave as his reason that he had to earn money to support his three brothers and sisters because his father had disappeared.

The story caused widespread comment and led to the childen being cared for by charitable organizations, the detectives said.

A search was begun for the stepson as well as the other children to question them about their father's disappearance and to confirm identification of the skeleton as that of Calsoni.

U. S. RULES 'TOKENS' WON'T SAVE NATIONS FROM DEFAULT

BRITAIN SEEKS WORLD DEBT PARLEY

Penalties to Be Invoked On Stubborn Debtors, Roosevelt Warns

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Irked by the relentless drive of the European debtor nations to force by one method or another a drastic reduction of the 12 billion dollars owed the American taxpayers, Uncle Sam today had notified Europe it no longer can escape the penalties of default by drop-in-the-bucket payments.

Holding the dignity of the United States at a price dearer than the 12 or 15 million dollars some of the debtor nations were expected to pay if assured they would not be considered in default, President Roosevelt had the State Department notify the debtors' envoys their governments could not escape the penalties of the Johnson Act by continuing to make small partial or so-called "token" payments.

BRITAIN SEEKS PARLEY

Meanwhile high British officials suggested informally, through International News Service, that President Roosevelt should call an international conference to reach a final settlement of all foreign debts.

It was promptly made plain here, however, that the President would reject such a proposal if formally advanced, pointing out that only a week ago he said the United States would deal with each creditor individually.

Great Britain, the statement to International News Service revealed, is determined to make no further large debt payments to the United States, regardless of the fact that her recent budget statement showed a large treasury surplus.

SERVED NOTICE

Notice that the money markets of the United States would be closed to the governments of those nations which hereafter default on their obligations to this government was served on the European debtors' representatives by Under Secretary of State Phillips at the direction of the President.

Phillips told the inquiring debtor diplomats this government did not consider itself in a position to promise that those nations which paid virtually anything they wanted would be exempt from default in view of the Johnson act.

This act provides any nation hereafter in default on its obligations, "or any part thereof," to the government shall be prohibited from floating loans in this country.

ITALY MAY NOT PAY

ROME, May 11.—(AP.)—Italy may not make any war debt payment at all in June, said official circles today, in consequence of the United States' notification that it will accept a token payment but that countries paying "tokens" will be considered in default.

These authorities said the American announcement was equivalent to putting countries such as Italy and Great Britain, which demonstrated their good will by paying portions of the installments, on the same level with such countries as France, which refused to pay at all.

I. T. & T. URGES WIRE MERGERS

WASHINGTON, May 11.—(AP.)—Legislation to permit consolidation of telegraph services was advocated today before the House Interstate Commerce Committee by Sosthenes Behn, president of the International Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Testifying on the Rayburn bill to create a new commission to regulate communication systems, Behn said companies he represented favored transferring administration of existing laws to a new agency but advocated that it be required to make a complete study of the communications business before further legislation is enacted.

R. B. White, president of the Western Union Telegraph Company, said his company "has carefully considered the proposed bill and find we can adjust our practices to conform with its requirements without much difficulty and without many changes."

FILM OPERATOR PAY SCALE SET

Wage rates for movie operators in approximately 78 independant theaters in Allegheny County have been fixed at a minimum of $1 an hour and a maximum of $1.25 an hour at a meeting held in the NRA headquarters in the Law and Finance Building here.

Charles T. Douds, labor compliance officer for Western Pennsylvania, and Morris Legendre, assistant deputy administrator for the movie code, sat in on the arbitration proceedings.

It was brought out in some instances operators had previously received as little as 28 cents an hour, Douds said.

About 100 operators will be affected by the new rates.

Department. Mr. Grubbs attempted to get me to reverse the Insurance Department. I refused to do so.

"Grubbs (W. Clyde Grubbs, special counsel for the Insurance Department), attempted to persuade Gov. Pinchot to reverse both of us. The Governor refused to do so.

"An independent audit at this time would have been unbusinesslike and an extravagant waste of a very large percentage of the assets in the hands of the Insurance Commissioner.

"Mr. Grubbs was told to start suit, compel the defendants to file their answer, and thus learn whether an independent audit was necessary.

"This was the orderly and economical way to proceed.

"When Mr. Grubbs could not dictate, he resigned.

"Since then he has asked my consent to represent some of the defendant directors.

"Question 3—'How did the First National Company of Baltimore obtain its big interest in Pennsylvania Surety Company?'

"Answer—I have no knowledge and no means of knowing. Except for the question of the audit, I have never had anything whatever to do with this case.'

"Question 4—'How did $300,000 in government bonds get out of the Insurance Department's hands and back into Pennsylvania Surety Company?'

"Answer—I have no personal knowledge of this transaction.

"I am informed that this occurred in 1929 and that the Department of Justice was not consulted about it and had nothing to do with it."

BREAD AND GAS STRIKES FOUGHT

CLEVELAND, May 11.—(AP.)—Gasoline in Cleveland and bread in Akron, as the subjects of strikes, gave mediators and government officials added worries today.

The rejection of a six-point peace plan, made by Secretary of the Interior Ickes for the settlement of the gasoline strike in Cleveland, in a meeting of union filling station operators, was followed by indications that union representatives will take their case directly to Ickes in Washington.

At Akron, Mayor I. S. Myers called a meeting of 600 striking bakers and bakery truck drivers and their employers in an attempt to forestall a threatened bread famine.

Strikes at Cincinnati included a new walkout, that of 1,100 employes of Remington-Rand, Inc., who left the plant on the issue of union recognition. Similar action has been taken in Remington-Rand plants elsewhere.

ASKS BANK SUIT AGAINST U. S.

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Aroused by failure of the New York Clearing House to meet losses in the Harriman National Bank, Representative Bloom (Dem.), of New York, today introduced a bill authorizing suit against government officials for these losses.

The measure specifically confers jurisdiction on the Federal Court in New York to entertain a suit on the claim of Elizabeth Ziegler, of Rockaway Beach, N. Y., for losses "resulting from the negligence, misfeasance or nonfeasance of officers and employes of the United States in failing to protect depositors from losses."

Bloom explained:

"The government says the clearing house agreed to meet losses, but the clearing house has not met them.

"Officials of the government were at fault if they did not have an agreement in writing or a binding contract to protect depositors. If the government cannot collect from the clearing house, it is liable itself."

The Bloom bill was referred to the Claims Committee which is expected to make a favorable report.

SILVER MONEY BLOC SCORES VICTORY

Morgenthau Agrees to Senate Program in Favor of Metal

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—A virtual agreement for use of silver as primary American money was reached today between Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and the Senate silver bloc.

The agreement, subject to ratification by President Roosevelt, called for an outright declaration in favor of the use of silver as primary money.

It further provided for government purchase of silver, to be paid with new issues of silver certificates. The goal will be to establish silver as 25 per cent of the base of American currency.

Nationalization of silver may be abandoned.

Some members of the silver bloc expressed outspoken opposition on the ground that it would close the free silver market of New York City and turn the world's silver exchange business over to the market in London. This argument apparently prevailed with Morgenthau although at a previous conference he indorsed nationalization.

Senator Thomas (Dem.), of Oklahoma, who sponsored the nationalization plan, continued to urge its adoption. He said it would pevent speculators reaping huge profits. This, too, will be put uu to the President to decide.

CITY METER TAX FIGHT OPENS

The United States Supreme Court recently upheld the right of cities and states to impose any taxes they deem fit, because of the present emergency, Assistant City Solicitor John J. Kennedy, declared today in arguing for the $2 utility meter tax imposed by City Council.

Judges Elder W. Marshall, Frank P. Patterson and W. H. McNaugher heard arguments on the injunction proceedings by the Bell Telephone Company and five other utilities to restrain the city from collecting the tax. Solicitor Kennedy told the court:

"The public utilities do not bear their share of the burden in contrast with the benefits they receive."

For the telephone company Attorney C. F. C. Arensberg argued that the act of 1932, under which the tax was levied, did not give the city specific authority to tax utilities; that the tax was discriminatory and confiscatory and that utilities should be excluded from payment of the tax because of taxes they already pay.

Trolley Wage Pact Parley Resumed

Negotiations over their new wage contract were being continued today by street car operators and officials of the Pittsburgh Railways Company. The old wage contract expired May 1, but company heads and officials of Street Railway Employes Union, representing the men, agreed to continue the old terms during negotiations.

Auto Body Strike Shuts Buick Plant

FLINT, Mich., May 11.—(AP.)—The Buick Motor Company plant closed here today, close on the heels of a walkout of union employes in the Fisher Body Corporation No. 1 plant, which makes Buick bodies.

Fourteen thousand Buick employes and an estimated 5,000 Fisher employes were idle.

STOCK CONTROL MEASURE NEAR FINAL VOTE

Senate 'Gag' Clamped In Battle for Showdown

WASHINGTON, May 11.—(AP.)—Called into session an hour earlier than usual, the Senate clamped down a limitation on debate today in an effort to enact the stock market control bill before quitting time.

An amendment to exempt railroads from making reports required by the measure was adopted today. It was offered by Senator Steiwer (Rep.), who argued the railroads should not be required to make the reports demanded of other corporations because the carriers are already compelled to make detailed reports to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Another Steiwer amendment, to exempt telephone, telegraph and pipe line companies from the reporting provisions of the bill, subsequent to the registration of their stock, also was adopted.

Before a final vote, leaders predicted approval of the Fletcher amendment to modify the securities act of 1933 and place its administration under the proposed federal securities exchange commission, designed to regulate the stock markets.

Major provisions of the stock market bill, as it approached a final vote, were:

Creation of a commission of five members appointed by the President to regulate the exchanges.

Registration of exchanges with the commission.

Supervision by the commission and the Federal Reserve Board over margins extended by brokers and banks, respectively.

Prohibition of manipulative practices.

Power for the commission to limit the combination of broker and dealer activities by members of exchanges.

Registration of securities listed on exchanges, with submission of reports from the parent corporations on their financial operations.

Requirements for reports by officers, directors and large stockholders of their holdings in the stock of their companies.

Authority for purchasers of securities to collect damages when their purchases were based on misrepresentation or misleading statements.

BLUE LAW FOES WIN IN TEST

HUNTINGDON, Pa., May 11.—Blue law advocates today had lost their court fight to close Huntingdon County forever against a "liberal" Sunday.

A temporary injunction, banning a referendum on modification of the statutes of 1794, was dissolved in a decree handed down yesterday by President Judge Thomas F. Bailey.

Declaring constitutional the legislative act authorizing municipalities to vote on Sunday baseball and football, Judge Bailey denied the appeal for a permanent injunction, dismissed the bill in equity, and placed the costs on the plaintiffs.

The action, filed against the County Commissioners last fall, prevented a county referendum on Sunday sports in November. The case has attracted state-wide attention because of its challenge to the constitutionality of the modifying act.

Insull Assails Arrest by Turks, Arranges Bond

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

CHICAGO, May 11.—Samuel Insull, formerly America's public utilities "king," attacked the legality of his arrest in Turkey and subsequent extradition and challenged the jurisdiction of the court in his case, when he and eight other former business associates were arraigned in Federal Court today.

The case was continued until next Tuesday, when attorneys for the government asked for time to study Insull's plea and answer it.

APPEARS TIRED

Insull, neatly attired in a blue suit, blue and white tie and gray spats, was brought from the county jail to the Federal Building. He looked tired when he appeared before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

After the court proceedings Insull became nettled at photographers when he was making arrangements to sign surety bonds totaling $250,000 which would effect his release from jail pending trial.

Insull and his eight former associates were arraigned on an indictment charging violation of the national bankruptcy laws through tansfer of securities from the Corporation Securities Company in contemplation of a receivership.

In addition, Insull was arraigned individually on an indictment alleging fraudulent misuse of the mails.

FIGHTS ARREST

Insull, in claiming the court had no jurisdiction, declared he was forcibly removed from the Greek steamer Maiotis contrary to international law; that the warrant for his arrest was illegal; that his seizue by Turkish police in Instanbul Harbor was unlawful and that his extradition to this countty in the custody of Burton Y. Berry of the American embassy at Turkey was contrary to law.

The court procedure required but a short time and Insull, accompanied by his counsel, Floyd E. Thompson, and his son, Samuel Insull, Jr., went to the office of United States Marshal Henry C. W. Laubenheimer to post a surety bond of $200,000 covering the amount fixed by the federal authorities for his bail.

This was a preliminary step designed to bring about his release from jail pending trial. Later he was to go to the Criminal Courts Building to post a $50,000 bond covering the state charges.

$75,000 ASKED BY KIDNAPERS

brunette about 30 years old and fairly well dressed, fell into a police dragnet early this morning along with six other persons, who also were questioned.

After apparently examining the woman at some length, Capt. Norris Stensland, sheriff's office extortion expert, and a figure behind the solution of a number of other kidnaping cases here, said:

"It looks hot, boys! I think we have something. It is possible that we will have this solved within five hours."

WOMAN QUESTIONED

The woman was taken into custody by three police homicide officers in ferreting out haunts of the underworld. She was turned over to the Sheriff and District Attorney's offices for examination, but the officers who questioned her declined to disclose the nature of the information obtained.

Information that a contact had been made with the kidnapers was given a short time later by noon, engaged by the distraught wife to deal independently with the abductors. He was asked:

"Have you considered offering areward for the safe return of Mr. Gettle?"

"No, he replied because we don't want to disturb the contact."

He declined to be quoted as saying whether there had been an actual contact with the kidnapers.

"Are there any devlopements?"

"No, but I think I can promis something for you this afternoon."

WIFE STRICKEN

As the hours passed without direct word, a grief-stricken family of a mother and four children appealed to the abductors to spare the husband and father from any harm and expressed willingness to pay any sum for his freedom. The appeal issued by Mrs. Gettle said:

"I beg you not to harm my husband and father of my four children.

"Please realize that I am ill and that this tragic turn of events has seriously aggravated my condition. Realization of the detention of their father has seriously and pathetically affected our four children."

LITTLE FELLOW SOON MAY GET OUT OF NRA

Drastic Shakeup Looms To Ease Grip of Blue Eagle

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—The blue eagle of the NRA is preparing to loosen its grip on the little fellow.

Almost a year's experimenting with the numerous codes has convinced some of the best minds in the NRA that while they work satisfactorily with the larger industries they do not with the smaller industries, and furthermore they cannot be enforced.

The first retreat probably will be in the so-called service codes, cleaning and dyeing, hotel and restaurant, barber shops and beauty parlors. There have been more violations in these codes than in any others.

Two reports have contributed to the belief that the NRA is to undergo fairly drastic reorganization during the next six months.

DARROW REPORT

One is the Clarence Darrow report, now before President Roosevelt. While its contents have not been revealed officially, it is known that the grizzled old defender of the under-dog had plenty to say about what the NRA has done to the little fellow in business.

The report charges, in effect, that the NRA has fostered monopoly and enabled the big fellow to drive the little fellow to the wall.

Another report from the Consumers' Advisory Board emphasized the impossibility of the board protecting consumers' interests in some 400 codes. This report indicated the board's determination to concentrate on approximately 100 of the major codes and let the rest slide.

Consequently, the expectation is that within the next six months, certainly before the fall elections, the NRA is going to be shaken up and shaken down.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, the recovery administrator, is not convinced yet that the time for drastic revision has arrived. He would like to see a little more experimentation. But not a few of his aides consider that the time has come to retreat from some of the more controversial aspects of the NRA. And these controversial features almost entirely concern the little fellow.

NRA GOOD POINTS

Even critics of the NRA, such as Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, and Senator Nye (Rep.), of North Dakota, who were responsible for setting up the Darrow National Review Board, believe that there is much in NRA worthy of preserving—particularly the limitation of hours of labor, abolition of child labor and sweatshops. But they also contend there is much of it that should be junked forthwith.

Just how the reorganization is to be effected remains to be seen. It is not likely there will be any precipitate retreat because of the psychological effect.

PROBATION FUND SOUGHT HERE

Making an appeal for funds for maintenance of the National Probation Association's program, City Solicitor Cornelius D. Scully today declared prevention is the only solution to juvenile delinquency.

Widespread effect of present economic conditions upon the youth of the country is known to only a few, Scully said, lauding the organization's preventive aims. He added:

"It has helped us plan for improved probation work and better Juvenile Court conditions in Pittsburgh.

"No money—that is the big bugaboo which has made criminals out of our lads and created the need for more adequate systems of probation in every community in the country."

The organization's work, it was pointed out, it in line with the theories of President Roosevelt as outlined in his book, "Looking Forward."

Kneeling Woman Robbed in Church

A purse containing automobile owner's and driver's cards was stolen from Elizabeth Halleran, of 909 Sixth avenue McKeesport, as she knelt in a pew in St. Agnes' Catholic Church Fifth avenue and Robinson street, late yesterday, according to a police report. The purse was lying in the pew.

A bar pin and clothing valued at $150 were reported stolen last night from the home of J. A. Bradley, at 5521 Wilkins avenue.

House Votes Air Mail Bill Kelly Warns of Evasion

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Without a record vote, the Mead airmail bill passed the House yesterday after Representative Kelly (Rep.), of Pennsylvania warned that the Postoffice Department would ignore its contract provisions.

The bill provides for the letting of temporary one-year contracts without discrimination against former carriers, and for the establishment of a presidential commission to evolve a national air mail policy.

Kelly's charge climaxed his attack on the conduct of Postmaster General Farley in letting temporary 90-day contracts under the wagon route contract law of 1872.

The air mail situation is still far from congressional settlement, because of radical differences between the Mead bill and the McKellar-Black measure passed by the Senate.

The Senate bill excludes from new bidding carriers accused of fraud and collusion at the time of the cancellation of the old contracts February 19.

The Postoffice Department announced latest equipment will be used on the routes just returned to commercial carriers. Included is a fleet of six new convertible sleeper planes.

Delay on Payoff Bill Denounced by McLeod

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Sharp criticism of the House Rules Committee for its refusal to act on the resolution to bring the McLeod bill to the floor was made today by Representative McLeod (Rep.), of Michigan, author of the measure to pay off in full the depositors of closed banks.

The resolution has been before the committee, headed by Representative Bankhead (Dem.), of Alabama, for three weeks, McLeod said:

"This manner of burying legislation is not fair. This is a bill that is wanted by a majority of the members of the House, but just because it is not wanted by the leaders of the majority party, it is stuck in a pigeon hole."

Completion of a petition to discharge the resolution from its consideration was nearly realized today. Only 31 names were lacking to force a vote May 21. The chairman of the House Education Committee, Representative Douglass (Dem.), of Massachusetts, was the latest signer.

DYING DOCTOR CHARGED WITH MURDER IN ERIE GIRL'S DEATH

HUSBAND NEAR COLLAPSE IN TRAGEDY

Almost Nude Body of Ex-Actress Found in Brooklyn Office

BROOKLYN, N. Y., May 11.—(AP.)—An autopsy was ordered today to determine the cause of the death of Virginia Allen Ball, 21, former Broadway showgirl, whose body, almost nude, was found on an operating table in a Brooklyn physician's office.

The physician, Dr. Julius Phillips, 54, was found unconscious in a bedroom from the effects of what police said was a self-administered poison or drug. He was taken to a hospital and a charge of homicide placed against him. Attendants said he probably would not recover.

The young woman's husband, Thomas Ball, a theatrical booking agent, rushed into the physician's office yesterday in search of his wife. He nearly collapsed when police, called by the physician's son, showed him the body. Police quoted Ball as saying:

"I wanted a baby; she didn't."

He said she disappeared from their hotel home Tuesday night and he had searched frantically for her, finally deciding to go to the office of Dr. Phillips, with whom they had talked last Sunday.

Police expressed belief a criminal operation caused death.

MOTHER COLLAPSES

ERIE, Pa., May 11.—The mother of Mrs. Virginia Allen Ball collapsed last night upon hearing of her show girl daughter's death in the surgery of a Brooklyn, N. Y., physician's office. Physicians ordered her to bed.

The family moved here in 1926 from Rochester, N. Y., where they had lived since 1917.

The former "Scandals" star and her booking-agent husband spent Christmas here with her mother, Mrs. L. Allen, a widow; three sisters, Althea, 17, high school student; Kathlyn, 19, and Ivalle, 25, and one brother, Justus, 21.

The brother said arrangements were being made to have the body sent from New York for funeral services here.

'DILLINGER TIP' TRAPS GANG IN BANK HOLDUPS

Arsenal Revealed After Tear Gas Routs Girl, 2 Men

International News Service.

RICHMOND, Ind., May 11.—Two men and a girl, believed to have participated in the recent bloody bank robberies at Fostoria and South Vienna, O., were arrested by federal agents and police here today who acted on a tip that John Dillinger was with the gang.

No trace, however, was found of Dillinger, and belief was expressed that the notorious Indiana desperado had no connection with the gang here.

Those arrested gave their names as Harry Hopkins, 23, of Jamestown, O., Vernon Taylor, 23, and Thelma Mitchen, 22, both of Springfield, O.

CRIMES CHARGED

The two men also were suspected in the $1,200 holdup of the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank at Milford Center, O., on April 17; the $1,200 robbery of the Farmers Bank at Plain City, O., last Saturday, and numerous filling station holdups, including one at Plain City, O., April 10 and one at Blanchard, O., April 9.

In the South Vienna Bank robbery the president of the victimized bank was slain. In the Fostoria holdup on May 3, five persons were shot and $17,000 loot taken.

The capture was made after eight federal agents and several squads of police virtually besieged a house east of here all night, and fired one shot when one of the occupants sought to leave. The officers threw tear gas bombs into the house when daylight broke and the occupants then surrendered.

ARSENAL FOUND

A veritable arsenal was found in the house, it was learned. Taylor alone had four guns, one of them a German Luger pistol that had been rebuilt into a sub-machine gun. He also had a sawed-off shotgun and a Springfield Army rifle. In his pockets were found $600 in cash.

An automobile found at the place resembled the one used in the Fostoria bank robbery in which five persons were machine-gunned about 10 days ago. Investigation showed the machine was purchased recently at Muncie, Ind.

Taylor and Hopkins were believed to be Ohio ex-convicts.

Following the arrest it was learned that federal agents had the house under surveillance for several days following a tip that Dillinger and his lieutenant, John Hamilton, were hiding there.

BABY TWIN DIES BUT BROTHER BATTLES ON

People Pray in Street For Infant Victims Of Pneumonia

BROOKLYN, N. Y., May 11.—(AP.)—One lost and the other won today in the effort of twin 6-month-old brothers to stave off death.

Roy Barry, the smaller and the weaker, succumbed to pneumonia at 3:40 a. m. in the little Brooklyn flat that was his home.

But Ross Barry, who weighed six pounds at birth to two and a half for his brother, was reported in "good condition" and apparently out of danger.

Just a year ago today the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Barry, lost both of their first twins, Vera and Eileen, 1 year old, also because of pneumonia.

Neighbors and the family had prayed that the second pair might be spared, and police, a volunteer doctor and nurse, and two gas companies worked that they might live. The gas companies contributed oxygen.

Roy's temperature mounted to 107; Ross's to 106. Then Ross gained in strength and the stamina that Roy did not have carried Ross from the threshold of death. But Roy passed through it.

The father, a clerk and carpenter, has been unemployed for nearly a year. There are three other children—Ronald, 8; Marie, 7, and Robert 3.

People Pray in Street For Twin Baby Boys

NEW YORK, May 11.—(INS.)—At various intervals last night men and women and a few children stopped in front of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Barry in Brooklyn.

The women, unashamed and oblivious to the stares of passersby, dropped to their knees. The men took off their hats and stood with their eyes turned downward. Some of the children crossed themselves, while others glanced appealingly heavenward.

It was the first time in the memory of the oldest Brooklyn policemen that people have openly prayed on the streets for the recovery of the sick. It was a remarkable occurrence.

The women, for the most part, uttered long prayers. The men contented themselves with a simple, "Father, have mercy!" or "Lord, hear us!" Children voiced their sing-song appeals for divine aid.

In the Holy Name Church, a few blocks away, other prayers—more detailed and more ritualistic—were uttered. And candles were burned.

For 48 hours police emergency squads had been battling to save the lives of Ross and Roy Barry, 6-month-old twins.

Today Dr. Joseph Glassman, the physician on the case, said that Ross, the bigger and stronger of the twins, had a fair chance to live. Roy lost his battle in the early morning.

MATE SPENDER, WIFE CHARGES

Mrs. Bessie A. Hood, of 60 Woodhaven drive, Mt. Lebanon, testified today in her divorce suit against Fred A. Hood that she gave him large sums of money to aid him in his business, but he squandered it on "other women and fast horses."

The wife, an attractive brunet, told Judge Thomas M. Marshall she had given her husband $8,000 on one occasion to buy cars when he was in the automobile business in Morgantown, W. Va.

Later she testified, she and her father paid $35,000 to clear her husband of financial difficulties. She added:

"He had nothing when I married him. I had money I got from home and what I earned by teaching painting."

Weather Conditions

The low pressure that caused the showers over this section yesterday afternoon is now centered over the St. Lawrence Valley, and the weather has cleared over the Central valleys and eastward to near the coast. High pressure is centered over the plains states and covers most of the interior of the country. The highest pressure reported is 30.30 inches, over the eastern portion of the Dakotas and 30.32 inches over Southern Manitoba. The high is causing cool weather over the plains states and eastward to the Atlantic coast. There is no frost reported except in Norin Dakota, where the temperature is 28 degrees. Rainfall for the past 24 hours was limited to scattered showers over the Upper Ohio Valley states eastward to the coast and southward to the Gulf.

River Conditions

Showers were general over Western Pennsylvania yesterday afternoon. The rainfall was light generally, but rather heavy scattered areas received generous amounts. In Allegheny county it averaged less than one-fourth inch, while Parkers Landing reported 1.37 inches; Lock No. 8, Allegheny River, 1.20; Ridgway, 65, West Newton, .70; Johnstown, .68, and Wheeling, .70. Stage at Franklin is 1.2 feet; Lock No. 7 (Mon.), 11.0; Pittsburgh, 19.8; Dam No. 4, 9.2; No. 6, 7.2; No. 10, 8.4, and No. 12, 7.6. The dams are up. The rivers will change but little.

'Test Tube Baby' Will Be Lion, Also Tiger

MOSCOW, May 11.—(AP.)—A "test tube baby" with a lion for a father and a tiger for a mother—or maybe it is the other way around—is the latest undertaking of the Moscow zoo, which has gone in for hybrids in a big way.

The announcement of the lion-tiger experiment does not say for what purpose the expected animal is to be used, probably because the scientists conducting the experiment can't tell in advance what the "what-is-it" will look like.

Successful cross breeding, all with artificial insemination, at the zoo to date includes: Mongolian wild ass with American race horse; Ukrainian cow with bison; Australian wild dog with domesticated canine; wild ox with barnyard cow.

Ex-Follies Beauty Awarded Alimony

NEW YORK, May 11.—(AP.)—Betty Randolph, former "Follies" beauty, was awarded $35 a week alimony and $200 counsel fees yesterday in her separation suit against Paul Sweinhart, newspaperman.

The decision must be approved by the Supreme Court.

$1.50 TOO LATE, WIDOW DROWNS

The relief order she had waited for was in the mail when the body of Mrs. Elizabeth Harrison, 77, destitute North Side widow, was pulled out of the Allegheny River yesterday, it was learned today.

Informed that the widow had been refused relief at the North Side branch of the Allegheny County Emergency Relief Board, George P. Mills says he learned that Mrs. Harrison applied for aid last March but refused to give references supporting her claim for relief until the latter part of April.

According to Mrs. Anna Paros, of 225 East Lacock street, where Mrs. Harrison roomed, the widow left her home Wednesday morning presumably to get the relief order which was in the mail at that time.

The relief order was for $1.50.

Dust Darkens Towns In Central Penna.

HARRISBURG, May 11.—(AP.)—Heavy clouds of dust rolled over Central Pennsylvania today, bringing darkness to many towns in the vicinity of Lancaster.

A thin haze spread over Harrisburg.

Weather bureau officials said that the dust storm probably was partially due to that in the Midwest in the past few days, but that most of it probably originated in Western Pennsylvania.

U.S. MISSIONARY KIDNAPED

HANKOW, China, May 11.—(AP.)—The Rev. Howard Smith, of Washington, Pa., missionary of the Christian and Missionary Alliance at P'eng Shui, in northwest Szechuan Province, has been kidnaped by "Rouges," crimson-clad Chinese irregulars, it was learned here today.

WASHINGTON, Pa., May 11.—(AP.)—The Rev. Howard Smith, of Washington, Pa., reported kidnaped by Chinese bandits and held for $100,000 ransom, was said today by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Smith, to have been in China three years.

The Smiths live at Zediker, three miles from Washington. They told of receiving a letter from their son last fall, but they had not heard from him since.

The missionary was said by his father to be 29 years old. He is married and has a small son.

JAILED TELLER LACKS BAIL

Unable to raise $3,000 bail, Robert A. Cunningham, 32, head teller of the Forbes National Bank, Oakland, who a week ago walked out of that institution with $26,500 cash in his pockets, was in the county jail today awaiting a hearing on embezzlement charges.

Cunningham voluntarily surrendered yesterday to United States Department of Justice officials after he had returned all but $3,700 of the missing funds. This amount, federal investigators quoted him as saying, he spent.

The teller is said to have disappeared from the bank last Friday with the funds. He was located yesterday by fellow workers and persuaded to surrender. He had been drinking heavily, friends said.

'TOY GUN' TRIAL NEARS END

International News Service.

CROWN POINT, Ind., May 11.—Ernest Blunk, fingerprint expert charged with aiding John Dillinger in his escape from the Lake County Jail, took the witness stand today to testify in his own behalf.

Court attaches expected the case to be concluded today.

Telling the story of how Dillinger made his "toy gun" break on March 3, Blunk said that Sam Cahoun, the turnkey, called him from the fingerprint room to the cell corridor and that when he got there, Dillinger confronted him and said:

"You do what I tell you to do, and you won't get hurt. Here is your chance to be a dead hero."

$25,000 REWARD FOR MONSTER

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, May 11.—The Loch Ness sea serpent (myth, legend or fact) is worth $25,000 to the man who can bring it back alive—Frank Buck take notice.

The Bronx Zoo is willing to put up the $25,000, according to Dr. W. Reid Blair, director of the zoo, who said today:

"A young man, whose name I will not tell, came to me and said he planned to capture the monster. I told him we'd pay $25,000 for it, and so we will."

Dr. Blair is not a man to deny any zoological legends. He pointed out that the "monster lizards" of the Dutch East Indies were thought for decades to be mythical. But William Harkness, Jr., and Lawrence Griswold have just came back from the Indies, bringing with them two of the lizards.

Gloria Stuart Ready To Divorce Sculptor

DEATH BULLETS LINK MILLENS

DEDHAM, Mass., May 11.—(AP.)—The state today linked shells found in Needham after a bank robbery and murder on February 2, with weapons seized at the time of the arrests of Murton and Irving Millen and Abe Faber, now on trial charged with the crime.

Charles J. Van Amburgh, state ballistics expert, said the shells found in the bank after the crime, had been fired from weapons which police seized in a Boston garage to which they had been led by Faber. The expert said the shells had been discharged from a machine gun and from shot guns. The state claims bullets fired from a machine gun killed Policeman Forbes McLeod as he answered an alarm for help from the bank.

The jury sitting on the case saw the arsenal seized by the police for the first time today. The exhibit, which Van Amburgh identified piece by piece, included machine guns, shot guns, 209 sticks of dynamite, masks, gas guns and gas bombs.

TRUNK YIELDS BRIDE'S BODY

PHILADELPHIA, May 11.—(AP.)—The slashed body of a bride has been found stuffed in a steamer trunk and police are seeking her stepson.

Jacob Hoge, 48-year-old railroad worker, told police that his son, Joseph, 21, sat on the trunk while awaiting an expressman to remove it. The expressman did not take it, police said, and in it the elder Hoge found the doubled body of his wife of 10 months, Mary Hoge, 30. By that time Joseph had left the house.

Detectives quoted Hoge as saying that Joseph, eldest of his five children, formerly "kept company" with the woman who became his stepmother, and that the marriage caused family differences.

An ice pick and chisel, stained with blood, were found in the cellar. Investigators also confiscated a half-laundered shirt which they identified as Joseph's and recovered from an adjoining yard bloody garments belonging to Mrs. Hoge.

ADMITS SLAYING OF HIS BRIDE

LORIENT, France, May 11.—(AP.)—Michel Henriot, 23-year-old nephew of Deputy Philippe Henriot, confessed today, police said, that he shot and killed his wife Wednesday in their farm home.

Police found her lying dead on the floor, a telephone in her hand, and her husband's rifle, from which six shots had been emptied into her body, beside her.

The confession, police said, followed their discovery that young Henriot had recently insured the life of his bride of five months against murder.

His father, who is the public prosecutor, was shaken by the tragedy.

Nevertheless, he asked that "justice do its duty" and indicated tearfully that he would resign his office in order not to be required to prosecute his son.

"Oh, that's it."

GHOSTS OF ARAB WARS HAUNT LAWRENCE

Universal Service.

LONDON, May 11.—Aircraftsman Shaw, who was Col. T. E. Lawrence (Lawrence of Arabia) won fame on the hot sands of the Hejaz in the World War, is going to quit the Royal Air Force next year and fears he can't get a job because of his "reputation" as a secret agent.

This he disclosed to the London News-Chronicle today in an interview in which he bitterly revealed that he is being "haunted" by the ghosts of his old life among the Arabian tribes and by tales of his efforts to gain them their independence.

Lawrence, or Shaw, as he prefers to be known, was asked by the News-Chronicle to give his views on the political situation in Arabia, of much interest in Britain at present because of the subjugation of the ruler of yemen by Ibn Saud. Instead, Shaw said:

"I have to deny that I am unhappy, but here is the position in which I find myself because of the specter of 'Lawrence of Arabia.'

"I am banned from every country because I am supposed to be a secret service operative. I am nothing of the kind and never was. But no reputable firm will have me because of my reputation. I am going to leave the air force next year.

"I don't know what I am going to do, but I know I do not intend to soil my hands with sensational stories of my alleged exploits."

Shaw has a reputation not only for his Arabian exploits, but also for his attempts to speed up Britain's military planes and her coastal speedboats. He is also known as a student and scholar. His recently published translation of Homer's "Odyssey" from the original Greek received wide acclaim.

Arab King Sends 3 Armies Against Ancient Capital

LONDON, May 11.—(AP.)—King Ibn Saud, climaxing his crushing drive to subjugate all Yemen, spurred three separate armies today in a combined movement upon Sana, Yemen's walled and ancient capital.

The powerful ruler's largest army, under Crown Prince Emir Saud, had opened an offensive against Sada, key city northwest of Sana and the gateway to the picturesque capital.

The second division was advancing from Hodeidah, Yemen's important Red Sea port, already smashed by Ibn Saud's Saudi Arabian forces and now policed by them while British, French and Italian warships lie watchfully in the harbor.

The third army, now east of Sana, was ordered to advance immediately upon the capital.

Saudian sources in London revealed Ibn Saud's new campaign plans to the Associated Press today, asserting that "once Sada falls, it will be only a short time until our armies enter and control Sana."

BEGGAR'S GRAVE HOLDS JULIAN

SHANGHAI, May 11.—(AP.)—C. C. Julian was buried today in a beggar's coffin.

The body of the oil promoter whose meteoric career ended in suicide here March 25 reached its final resting place in an obscure corner of Shanghai's foreign cemetery.

Miss Leonora Levy, who sought to accompany Julian in death by taking the same kind of poison, but who recovered, was the sole mourner.

When the cheap, unadorned pine casket entered the earth, the young woman wept bitterly. Then, alone, she trod dejectedly away.

From the time of death to the grave, Julian's body occupied three coffins—the first two being luxurious caskets provided in anticipation of shipment for burial in America. As no funds were received, except a modest sum from his wife in Winnipeg, the promoter's body was relegated to the cheapest pine box available.

Gems Discarded!

GRETA NISSEN

GRETA'S GEMS IN THAMES

International News Service.

LONDON, May 11.—Although the jewels he stole from Greta Nissen, film star, were worth $5,000, according to her estimate, they seemed worthless to George Swindler, 18, a costermonger, so he "threw them in the Thames."

Swindler, charged with robbing the apartment of the actress on May 3, was arraigned today in Marlborough Street Police Court. He admitted stealing a diamond and sapphire bracelet, six Indian gold bracelets, a pair of jade earrings and other jewelry. He also admitted taking clothing Miss Nissen valued at $1,000. Swindler said:

"I threw the fur coat away, the jewelry seemed worthless so I threw it in the Thames."

Miss Nissen was in court and identified a suitcase and two dresses which the police found in Swindler's possession.

COAL MEN PLAN TAX STRIKE

SOMERSET, Pa., May 11.—(AP.)—Claiming "non-tax paying competitors are under selling us," five of Somerset county's largest coal producing companies are threatening a "tax strike."

The firms presented this ultimatum to the County Commissioners yesterday, demanding that other coal companies be forced to pay their delinquent taxes.

The five firms, which claim they pay $200,000 in taxes annually and employ 4,000 of the county's 7,009 miners, are the Wilmore Coal Company, the Consolidation Coal Company, Hillman Coal and Coke Company, Davis Coal Company and Merril & Son Company.

The commissioners said they are trying to collect the back taxes.

POLA COUNTERS ARTIST'S SUIT

Universal Service.

PARIS, May 11.—Pola Negri's often voiced protest against inclusion of a ghost-like figure of Rudolph Valentino in her portrait painted by Beltram Y. Masses, noted Spanish artist, is scheduled to reach a Paris court shortly.

Beltram Y. Masses asks $5,000 for the portrait. Miss Negri demands $6,600 from the painter.

The actress appeared at Valentino's New York funeral in '926. She revealed that she and Valentino had been engaged. Later she met Beltram Y. Masses in Beverly Hills. He suggested she sit for a portrait, which she did in 1931.

According to her allegations, she was startled to find a shadowy figure of Valentino painted in the background. She was even more startled, she alleges, when the artist told her his fee for the picture would be $5,000. Miss Negri says she objected:

"But I thought it was a compliment."

According to her, Beltram Y. Masses replied cryptically:

"Painters must eat."

'Red' Profs Smoked Out By Bill, Sponsor Says

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, May 11.—Passage of the Ives bill by the Legislature has brought to light an increasing number of teachers who openly advocate Communism and Fascism in the public schools, Assemblyman Irving M. Ives, author of the bill, declared today.

The Ives bill, now awaiting the Governor's signature or veto, would require all public school teachers to swear allegiance to the state and federal constitutions. Assemblyman Ives declared:

"More of these ultra-radical teachers than even I believed existed have been smoked out by the bill's passage in both houses of the Legislature.

"To their teaching can be attributed much of the blame for such student-Communist demonstrations as those recently staged in several New York City high schools. They openly teach the forcible overthrow of the United States Constitution."

The assemblyman referred to the Teachers' Anti-War Committee, which has urged defeat of the measure. He said the committee with a membership of 700 persons, is affiliated with the U. S. Congress against War, which includes many leading Communists.

WOMAN DOCTOR WINS BALM

PHILADELPHIA, May 11.—(AP.)—Although the trial judge said she had failed to prove her charges, a jury awarded Dr. Virginia Alvarez Hussey $25,000 in her suit for alienation of affectioss against Mrs. Grace T. Sauveur, wealthy resident of suburban Broad Axe.

After Judge Albert S. C. Millar stated yesterday in Common Pleas Court that the woman physician's charges had not been proven, defense counsel announced no witnesses would be called. In summing up the case, the defense attorneys branded it as insignificant and not worth bringing their client into court.

Dr. Hussey, who testified she had signed a release agreeing not to prosecute Mrs. Sauveur on an alienation charged, had asked $100,000. Her husband, Lindley M. Hussey, is a novelist and chemist.

RETAILER 'AD' DRIVE URGED

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, May 10.—Pennsylvania retailers today were urged by Harry D. Adamy, of Wilkes-Barre, chairman of the local code authority, to make greater use of newspapers in publicizing the aims of the NRA retail code.

Speaking at a round-table discussion of the code at the convention of the Pennsylvania Retailers' Association, Adamy said:

"We are in the business of selling and we know the most effective means of presenting anything of value is through the daily newspapers. Yet, we overlook the importance of it in this educational program in connection with the retail code.

"Newspapers are the one medium of reaching every retailer because he usually looks at the newspaper to see what his competitor is up to."

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

Silverites Suspicious Of Roosevelt's Agony at Deal

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Agony was written all over President Roosevelt's face when he consented verbally last Tuesday to a compromise with the silverites.

They knew they were getting a good bargain because it obviously pained him so much. He looked like a man who had just been drained of the last drop of his blood in a trade. He was too weak to protest longer.

The general supposition here is that Mr. Roosevelt has been reading David Harum again. At least that great horse trader of fiction would unquestionably sue the President for plagiarism if he could. Agony was Harum's trade mark. He was always groaning about someone getting the best of him, but no one ever did.

Remembering that, some of the silverites have been looking over the silver horse they bought at the White House more carefully. They are beginning to get suspicious that he is blind in at least one eye.

THOROUGHBRED

As a matter of fact there were two horses in the trade.

One was the nationalization of silver. Nationalization is a big word, but its meaning is not commensurate with its size. The idea behind it is that Mr. Roosevelt will take the silver off the hands of those speculators (investors is a more polite term) whose names were recently sent to the Senate by Treasury Secretary Morgenthau. He will pay them 50 cents an ounce for their silver. That will net them a neat profit, not as much as they hoped for, but at least as much as they had reason to expect.

That will cost Mr. Roosevelt around $100,000,000, which is small change as far as the currency problem goes.

It is a cheap price to pay for keeping the silver agitaors quiet for a few months.

The other horse is a ghost.

That is the one which involves a congressional decree that the currency basis should be changed sometime in the future to establish a 25 per cent silver backing for money and 75 per cent gold.

The "some time" is what makes that colt look nebulous.

Mr. Roosevelt would be permitted to work toward the goal fixed by congressional decree in any manner he wishes.

Disinterested inquiry shows that, if he proceeded to carry it out in the normal way, it would be about 30 years before he accomplished the 25-75 ratio.

PROBING

Our gold backing now is about five billions. Some people count it seven and three-quarters billions, but they include the stabilization fund and the general fund, which should not, strictly speaking, be counted as gold reserve for currency purposes.

Our silver bullion reserves May 7 were a puny one and one-half millions, not billions. The Treasury also had a half billion silver dollars, most of which are used as backing for silver notes. By the most optimistic estimates, you could not consider the existing silver backing in the Treasury at more than one-third of a billion (roughly) because the silver dollars are only three-fourths silver.

On this basis, Mr. Roosevelt will have to acquire somewhere between one and one-half billions and two billions of silver at an average price of $1 an ounce before he reaches the 25-75 ratio.

But there are only 50,000,000 ounces of silver produced in this country at the peak of production. So, if Mr. Roosevelt purchases only from domestic producers at the average of $1 an ounce, it means only $50,000,000 of purchases a year.

To get one and one-half billions of silver reserve that way would take him 30 years.

Even the most optimistic Democrat will concede that Mr. Roosevelt will not be President 30 years from now.

PROSPECTS

If Mr. Roosevelt were Senator Wheeler, he would not wait that long. He would hop out now into the world market and bid up silver prices and buy all the silver in sight.

But Mr. Roosevelt is not Senator Wheeler.

In fact, Mr. Roosevelt recently was bitten by the gold bug. He went out into the world market to buy gold on the theory that increasing the world gold price would increase commodity prices. That idea did not work out. He bought the gold all right, but commodity prices refused to budge commensurately.

In view of that experience, there is no reason to believe Mr. Roosevelt will be in a hurry to try that same thing with silver. No one anywhere near the White House expects that he will do it.

CALIFORNIA'S DISTINGUISHED SENATOR, HIRAM JOHNSON HAS DENOUNCED "TOKEN PAYMENTS."

SENATOR JOHNSON, AUTHOR OF THE ACT CLOSING THE AMERICAN MONEY MARKET TO DEFAULTING NATIONS, SAYS THAT TO ACCEPT A TOKEN FROM GREAT BRITIAN — THAT COUNTRY WHICH BOASTS OF ITS EXCELLENT FINANCIAL CONDITION, WOULD BE "AN ABSURDITY, A FARCE, AND A DELUSION."

New Tax Law Lightens Load on 'Little Fellow'

Large Earner Must Pay More; 'Nuisance' Levies Dropped

WASHINGTON, May 11.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt today had signed into law a measure designed to cut the taxes on small incomes, hoist those on large ones, close administrative loopholes in the tax laws and raise an additional $417,000,000 toward balancing the budget.

The new law creates a new income tax rate structure, abolishes consolidated corporate income tax returns, boosts estate taxes and surtaxes and removes certain nuisances levies. In addition, it partially makes public income tax returns.

The new law levies a flat 4 per cent on all normal income, instead of 4 per cent on the first $4,000 net income plus 8 per cent on all above as at present. Exemptions of $2,500 for married persons, $1,000 for single and $400 for each dependent are retained. In addition, earned income deductions of 10 per cent on incomes up to $14,000 is allowed.

The new surtax provisions start with 5 per cent on incomes in excess of $4,000 and range to 59 per cent on those above $1,000,000.

The rate structure is so arranged as to decrease the tax to the taxpayer on net incomes of less than $30,000, and still produce an estimated increase in revenue of $18,000,000 from the income and surtax changes.

The new rates go into effect on 1934 incomes and are payable before March 15, 1935.

Under the estate taxes changes, inheritances of $10,000 are to pay 1 per cent. The schedule is graduated to 60 per cent on estates of $10,000,000, compared with the 1 per cent now levied on those beginning at $50,000 and ranging to 45 per cent on those of $10,000,000.

Gift taxes are adjusted to the increased estate rates, beginning, however, with three-fourths of 1 per cent on those not in excess of $10,000 and ranging to 45 per cent on net gifts in excess of $10,000,000.

A processing tax of three cents a pound is imposed on cocoanut and other vegetable oils from the Philippines, and a five-cents-a-pound levy is put on the same oils from foreign countries.

The act repeals the present tax on clocks, soft drinks, candy and furs valued at less than $75. The bank check tax is repealed as of January 1, 1935. Gasoline and oil taxes are tightened up to make the original producer pay the levies.

Problem of New Taxes Laid Before Retailers

HARRISBURG, May 11.—(AP.)—Additional forms of taxation undoubtedly will be proposed to the next Legislature, the Pennsylvania Retailers' Association was told yesterday by John E. Means, reporting for the legislative committee.

Means also forecast a prominent place on the legislative calendar for social legislation—minimum wage-maximum hour, child labor and similar bills. Noting that retailers have "not been particularly active" either in favoring or opposing such legislation, he said the question must now be given "serious thought."

Resolutions adopted at the second annual convention of the state association yesterday put the group on record against a retail sales or consumers' tax.

Other resolutions expressed support to legislation that will continue "the beneficial results" of minimum-maximum hour regulations and asked that no state legislation be passed on these subjects so long as emergency national legislation remains effective.

Various changes were portrayed as possessing "the will and the ability" for self-regulation by William H. Hager, of Lancaster, re-elected president, in an address at the annual banquet last night. He appealed to the administration to give retailers "freer rein so that we can help best to do our part."

He emphasized his belief in the New Deal, "in spite of its dangers and weaknesses" and maintained that "a new day has dawned in retailing and all of living."

Directors elected yesterday include H. M. Phifer, Pittsburgh; W. J. Collins, Erie; George P. Gable, Altoona, and S. W. Metzler, Uniontown.

SMITH RETAINS JOB DESPITE M'NAIR

South Fayette Township, where he owns an impressive colonial house and 450 acres of rolling farm lands.

Despite the fact the Council this year repealed that section of an old ordinance which required a director to be a resident of the city, it is known to frown on the idea of going outside the city limits for its department heads. Nobody in the memory of political observers was ever installed as a director who was a non-resident.

TOWNSHIP VOTER

Bell told the Sun-Telegraph yesterday that he had voted in South Fayette Township for the last two elections and was now registered as a Democrat in that township. He said:

"I own a home in Ridge avenue, North Side, but I closed it up two years ago and came here to my summer home to live all the year 'round. It was too costly to maintain two houses. I suppose I'll now have to make some arrangements to establish myself in Pittsburgh again."

How did he get the appointment of safety head? He wouldn't say. He did, however, say that he has known McNair only a few days.

NEVER MET MRS. SMITH

As for Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, he says:

"I've never met her. But I know her sister, Mrs. J. O. Miller. I am also a life-long friend of Southard Hay, welfare director."

Bell said he met Mrs. Miller when the committee appointed to probe into the affairs of Mayview asked for his opinion of the Mayview farm.

Council may also conclude that Mr. Bell's experience is not especially designed to fit him for the post of safety head.

Since 1920, when he severed his connections as an executive of the Spang-Chalfant company, he has devoted himself to farming, he says. Fruit orchards are his forte.

LIKES HIS DOGS

His two dogs, Mike, a bird dog presented by Dr. Maitland Alexander, and Spot, who "has to be yelled at because he's so old and hard of hearing," are close to Bell's heart.

Bell's education was received at Shady Side Academy and Yale. His immediate family is composed of his wife, Genevieve; two sons, Archibald, [illegible] and Charles, and a daughter [illegible]evieve.

Bell said [illegible] he has no immediate plans for conducting the office of safety director, but averred that he has no intention of going into the office and ousting anyone for political reasons. He promised to do all in his power to conduct the office efficiently.

Here's what he thinks of Mayor McNair:

"That man's doing things. He's going to make a name for himself."

Judge, Prohibition Foe, Not Candidate

PRINCETON, N. J., May 11.—(INS.)—Judge William Clark, of the Federal District Court, whose decision the prohibition amendment was unconstitutional was a milestone in the path toward repeal, today announced he would not be a candidate for governor of New Jersey.

Judge Clark issued a lengthy statement bitterly attacking the existing political system in New Jersey.

Back McNair at Polls, Orders Given Police

N. McCulloch for county chairman.

The high spot of his indorsement was that McCulloch would be considered in the distribution of city patronage, should he be elected, a privilege which has been denied Lawrence, and which has resulted in considerable bickering within the party.

AIMS AT LAWRENCE

McNair also shot at Lawrence when he said that under McCulloch there would be no party trading, but that Pittsburgh would have a red-blooded Democracy. Obviously his reference to party trading was the 1931 County Commissioner election when Lawrence was backed in the general campaign by Senator James J. Coyne, Republican, against County Commissioners Charles C. McGovern and C. M. Barr.

In that year McNair managed Lawrence's campaign, but knew little of the negotiations which went on behind the scenes, involving County Commissioner William D. Mansfield and the late Mayor Charles H. Kline.

OUT FOR M'NAIR

A city bureau official, admitting that orders had gone out to at least a portion of the city payroll to work for the Mayor in the primary campaign, explained that nothing had come from the Mayor himself in the form of instructions but explained:

"We can't make out what is going on around City Hall most of the time. We are not supposed to be in politics, and we hear a lot to that effect, but then things happen which make us wonder how much is tinsel and how much is gold, so we're going down the line for McNair for Governor as a matter of self-preservation. It's a cinch he won't be sore if he gets a good vote in the city."

It was intimated also that a mere hint would turn the strength of the payroll to Theodore A. Mortiz, the Mayor's secretary, and a candidate for the Democratic congressional nomination in the Thirty-second District.

BACKING FOR MAYOR

The orders to the police preceded the removal of Safety Directory Ralph Smith, but that episode, it was reported today in police circles, has intensified the department's support for the Mayor. While Smith was the only cabinet head to indorse the Mayor, he has been close to Lawrence, and the Mayor has been openly resentful of the fact that some city employes, through Lawrence's influence, were backing George H. Earle, of Philadelphia, for the gubernatorial nomination.

Entering the campaign in a jocular manner, the Mayor has become extremely serious on the subject, being especially desirous of receiving a good vote in Pittsburgh. He wishes the vote as a vindication of his administration and a refutation of some of the criticism which has been visited upon him.

PLAY FOR LEADERSHIP

Through McCulloch he is making a play for party leadership in the county, and in this and the removal of his safety director, is reported to have the backing of Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, of the League of Women Voters, and Leslie M. Johnston, director of the Department of Public Works, whose refusal to dispense patronage to workers in the last election has earned the enmity of Lawrence and the Democratic organization.

Both have been warm admirers of Police Supt. Ben Marshall, between whom and Safety Director Smith—no relation, not even political to Mrs. Templeton Smith—there has been a continuous feud.

LEAGUE BACKS BONNIWELL

The Young Peoples Democratic League of Pennsylvania has announced indorsement of Judge Eugene C. Bonniwell for Democratic nomination for Governor.

The league also indorsed Alexander H. Schuliman for Congress in the Thirty-second District.

The Roosevelt-Garner Democratic Club has given indorsement to the following slate:

Bonniwell, for Governor; Henry L. Snyder, Lieutenant Governor; Roland Morris, Senator; Norbert J. Fitzgerald, Secretary of the Interior; Van A. Barrickman, Democratic county chairman; Mrs. Annette T. Johnson, vice chairman, and George A. Schenecker, Legislature in the Twelfth District.

Club meetings will be held today in Veterans' Hall, Saw Mill Run boulevard, and Kingsley House, Larimer avenue, and Monday in Carrick High School.

Other Bonniwell meetings are scheduled tonight in Arsenal Junior High School; tomorrow in Irene Kaufmann Settlement, and Monday in Watt School, Webster avenue.

LEADERS BACK MARGIOTTI

Samuel J. Grenet and Dr. F. H. Frederick, North Side Republican leaders, today had indorsed the gubernatorial candidacy of Charles J. Margiotti, William S. Sunderman, of Mt. Lebanon, also announced he was in the Margiotti camp.

All three praised Margiotti's sincerity and his determination to work for the people.

Speaking for Margiotti last night, James F. Malone attacked Republican leaders for not permitting the people to make their own choice for Governor.

Margiotti will wind up his campaign with a mass meeting in North Side Carnegie Hall tomorrow night.

Senator Frank J. Harris heads a list of speakers including Malone, L. T. Stevenson, former president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards; George Proesel, past state commander of the American Legion; W. B. Secrist, Mrs. Robert K. Cochrane, Attorney Bessie K. Sacks and James Duff.

DUNN STRESSES PLATFORM

Congressman Matthew A. Dunn is citing his support of progressive legislation as his platform for re-election in the Thirty-fourth District.

Dunn states he took an active part in establishing the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, the Public Works Administration, the National Recovery administration and the Civil Works Administration.

He says he backed more money for education and eradication of the depression and less for battleships and agencies that destroy human life.

Support of pensions for the aged, unemployment insurance, reimbursement for unpaid school teachers, abolition of sweatshops, chain gang systems and slum districts was also cited.

VOTERS LEAGUE INDORSEMENTS

The Voters' League of Allegheny County today announced the following indorsements:

Governor, John A. McSparran; Lieutenant Governor, A. B. Davidson; G. R. McQuaide, R. C. Shaw; Secretary Internal Affairs, Merle K. Custer; Mabel D. Parsons; Judge Superior Court, Charles Fahnestock; James J. Regan, Jr.

REED BACKERS FLAY PINCHOT JOB PADDING

Gov. Gifford Pinchot jumped the State Highway Department payroll more than 100 per cent in April to increase his payroll vote, Raymond D. Evans, campaign chairman for Senator David A. Reed, has declared.

January 1 the number of highway employes was 27,572, Evans said, but during April it rose to 60,925.

Characterizing the action as politics and coercion, Evans charged:

"Pinchot realized he needed votes election day, and for that reason laid the men off during the months intervening. But when election day neared he told his henchmen to put them back on the payroll with the stipulation that if they voted for him they could expect to continue their jobs."

HITS CHEAP ROADS

Pinchot's "prodigality" in spending state highway funds for construction of short-life rural roads may compel a raise in truck and automobile license fees, Mrs. Walter L. Riggs, vice chairman, charged yesterday from Reed headquarters.

Pinchot's announcement that $6,000,000 more was to be put into rural roads is causing disruption of the state financial system, she said. Low cost roads, she stated, must be rebuilt every six years.

Pinchot has made a political football of the Compensation Bureau, Attorney Nicholas Unkovic has declared, by dismissing honest, experienced and capable commissioners and referees and appointing political favorites.

Meanwhile, Reed has worked tirelessly for labor, Unkovic said.

Reed has fought consistently for disabled veterans, A. Yahres said last night. He pointed out Reed had introduced the World War Veterans' Act, in effect up to 1933.

Evans will speak for Reed at 6 p. m. today over WJAS, and Mrs. Riggs at 6:30 p. m.

MEETINGS LISTED

Reed meetings, scheduled for today, are in Lincoln Park School at 3:30 p. m., and in the evening at Osceola School; Nazareth Baptist Church, Tioga street; Italian-American Civic Club, and Thad Stevens School, Penn Township.

Meanwhile, Reed, campaigning throughout Schuylkill County, demanded that the Governor "quit generalities and personalities and get down to real issues." He said:

"Gov. Pinchot poses as a friend of the people and then he sets up these liquor stores and sells them terrible liquor at terrible prices."

Labor Meeting Condemns Reed Urges Defeat

PHILADELPHIA, May 11.—(AP)—The Pennsylvania Federation of Labor today adopted a resolution "condemning the record of Senator Reed" and calling on "all Republican voters of Pennsylvania to eliminate Senator Reed and his influence for the selfish interests from public life."

Senator David A. Reed is a candidate for Republican renomination.

A motion to condemn George H. Earle, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, was tabled after the former United States Minister to Austria had been vigorously defended by Thomas B. Kennedy, of Hazleton, secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers, whose candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant Governor has been indorsed by the Federation.

REED ASSAILED

The resolution condemning Reed declared he has "given every aid and support to those seeking special privileges, as against the welfare of the people."

The resolution was introduced by the committee on political action.

The motion to oppose Earle as a "foe of labor," was introduced by George Rhodes, president of the Federated Trades Council of Reading, who declared that Earle, while minister to Austria, had sided with the Dollfuss government against the Socialist workers of Vienna.

PINCHOT 'COMMENDED'

The Pennsylvania Federation of Labor "commends all candidates who have benefited labor, and Gov. Pinchot is no exception to the rule."

Beyond that the federation refused to commit itself regarding the Governor's candidacy for Reed's seat in the Senate after a spirited debate at yesterday's session of the organization's convention.

Thomas B. Kennedy, international secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers of America and candidate for Lieutenant Governor, was given unqualified indorsement. The convention adopted a resolution of its political policy committee urging "every effort" to aid Kennedy.

Clark Opposes Foreign Alliances

Opposing entangling alliances with foreign powers, Louis C. Clark is a candidate for Congress in the Thirty-fourth District. Clark proposes readjustment of national taxes so that people are taxed according to their wealth.

He favors preparedness, special consideration for disabled veterans and closer co-operation between representatives at Washington and Harrisburg.

PINCHOT BACKED BY LAGUARDIA AND NORRIS

HARRISBURG, May 11.—(AP)—Senator George W. Norris, of Nebraska, and Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia, of New York, call on Pennsylvania's Republicans to nominate Gov. Gifford Pinchot for the Senate.

The salvation of the nation "depends on men like your Governor," the fiery Nebraskan declared at a rally in Harrisburg last night. He described Pinchot as "the defender of the people against the greedy."

Pinchot, Norris said, would "help our little band of progressives fight for the rights of the people."

LaGuardia, in New York, said:

"Progressives certainly have to stick together. Surely there is great need for vision, progressive thought, ideas and ideals and the courage to fight for them in the United States Senate today. We need less political thinking and more economic understanding in government today."

LaGuardia said Pennsylvania's state government was in a "deplorable condition" when he first took office as a Governor opposed to the party organization. His two successful administrations are "political miracles," the Mayor declared. His address was broadcast over an NBC network.

Pinchot was in Scranton, where he said:

"I want no Russian coal to cut the wages of Pennsylvania miners and I shall do my level best to keep it out."

Referring to his opponent for the nomination, Pinchot said:

"Even if Senator Reed should be sent back to the Senate, he could not help Pennsylvania. He could get nothing from Congress. His breed of reactionary has almost died out. And, what is just about as important, Reed's influence with the national administration is zero."

Schenecker Given Group Indorsement

The Greek-American Association of Ittsburgh has announced indorsement of Charles M. Schenecker, for Congress in the Thirty-eighth District; George A. Schenecker, for Legislature in the Twelfth District, and Eugene C. Bonniwell for Governor.

The association claims 1,800 members.

BUNIONS

Urges Tax Upon Public Utilities

A levy on real estate of public utilities to relieve the small home owner is proposed by Dr. William A. Renne, candidate for Legislature in the Sixth District. Renne is urging unemployment insurance and a program of humanitarian legislation.

BAN ON OWN JOB URGED BY RIDGE

Abolition of his own job is proposed as a governmental reform by John S. Ridge, constable of the Fourth Ward and candidate for Legislature in the Third District.

Ridge has announced he favors elimination of the minor judiciary. Aldermen, justices of the peace and constables are remnants of ox-cart government, he said, and have outlived their usefulness.

Ridge also declared in favor of constitutional revision and a progressive metropolitan charter—to include the clause against the minor judiciary.

He wants extension of the act on which the Kane meter tax was based so that utilities may pay their share of governmental cost.

Veterans Deny Favoring Candidate

Thomas Williams, comman r of Arthur C. Woestehoff Post, No. 435, Veterans of Foreign Wars, today denied that the post had indorsed the candidacy of Joseph G. Armstrong for re-election to State Senate in the Thirty-eighth District. Armstrong announced the indorsement yesterday. Williams said his post did not meddle in politics.

HUMES ASSAILS GUFFEY RECORD

The record of Joseph F. Guffey would make him an easy prey for Gov. Gifford Pinchot in the fall campaign, Maj. E. Lowry Humes has declared.

Speaking in Italian Hall, Thirty-first Ward, Humes cited, in contrast to Guffey's, the record of his opponent for Democratic nomination to senatorship, Roland S. Morris.

Morris, Humes said, among other posts, holds a position as member of the Council of Foreign Bondholders seeking to protect American bondholders against loss from defaulting debtors.

He is chancellor (president) of the Philadelphia Bar Association, president of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, president of the American Philosophical Society, and a members of the advisory council of the Salvation Army, Humes said.

Morris will speak tonight over a statewide radio hookup, transmitted here over KDKA, at 10:30 p. m., D. S. T.

9th Ward Democrats Hold Meeting Tonight

The Ninth Ward local of the New Deal Democratic Club will hold a meeting in Arsenal Junior High School tonight. Among speakers are Councilman Walter R. Demmler and Attorneys Harry Shapera, Alexander H. Schullman and R. Rhody Brenlove.

League Indorses Corbett Candidacy

The candidacy of Samuel J. Corbett, for State Senate in the Fortieth District, has been indorsed by the Independent Republican League of Shaler Township, William Connelly is president.

MARGIOTTI JIBE FOR SCHNADER

PHILADELPHIA, May 11.—(AP)—Charles J. Margiotti, candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, charged last night that the strength of Attorney General William A. Schnader, rival candidate, "is based on one thing—money."

He told meetings at Ardmore and Wayne that "the Republican voters are not for Schnader, they are in rebellion." The Pittsburgh and Punxsutawney attorney predicted defeat for the party in November "unless we nominate a candidate free of the entanglements of old line politics and great wealth."

ACTRESS TO SUE DIRECTOR MATE

Universal Service.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 11.—Eugenie Leontovich, noted actress, declared yesterday that Gregory Ratoff, film director, is "the most charming man I ever met," but in the same breath she confirmed reports that she plans to divorce him. She said:

"I will ask the decree on the grounds of incompatibility. There are no other grounds. I have not seen him for nine months, but believe he now is in London making a moving picture."

As man has advanced through the ages his progress is but the history of his gratified desires. Institutions that filled man's wants survived—or, failing to do so, crumbled into dust.

SCHNADER FOES STRESS LINK TO COYNE

Attorney General William A. Schnader last night was labeled as the Coyne candidate in Allegheny County for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, while at the same time some "independent" supporters of Lieut. Gov. Edward C. Shannon, for the same nomination, were referred to as "disgruntled former members of some organization which didn't give them something they wanted."

The attack on Schnader was made by Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell, while the onslaught upon Shannon came from Attorney Joseph A. Bialas, treasurer of the Schnader committee, and head of the law firm of which Mackrell is a member.

This family fight was a bristling radio exchange, in which Mackrell accepted the challenge of the Schnader people, who last week had virtually dared any Shannon supporter to link the name of Coyne to the Attorney General.

LINKED TO COYNE

Mackrell said:

"Local leaders of the Schnader campaign want the Coyne votes and the Coyne influence and at the same time wish to make it appear he is not active in the campaign. Every political factor who looks to Senator Coyne for guidance is supporting Schnader and opposing Shannon and that reduces the campaign to nothing more than Shannon against Coyne in this county. There are some splendid men, including Chairman William B. McFall, in the Schnader activity, and they are being used as a curtain to hide the same old gang which is making its final stand against political elimination here."

Mackrell said Shannon stood for the things which had been defeated in the last Legislature by the supporters of Schnader, and added:

"That action led the repudiation of the Coyne city administration last fall. It is the same fight over again."

SCORES BOLTERS

Bialas was equally unsparing in his language, and appeared to have in mind Mackrell, who supported a Democratic mayoralty candidate last November, when he said:

"In this campaign we hear much talk about independents. Some are political turncoats who change their colors with each campaign. Some are professional independents, and there are some like myself, who know no boss.

"Bear in mind that Mr. Schnader was for weeks an independent candidate for Governor, on his record as Attorney General under Govs. Fisher and Pinchot, before the Republican organization recognized in him the best equipped man to lead the party to victory next fall. There isn't a candidate in the field who wouldn't welcome such support.

"Mr. Schnader's supporters are not a clique of office holders who are interested in divvying up the county office plums for the campaign of 1935."

Bialas pointed out that as an independent he had supported Judge Frank P. Patterson in 1927.

Schnader returned to the Pittsburgh district today for a campaign through the boroughs and townships, ending with a radio speech tonight.

He found some additional support through a declaration in his favor by Councilman P. J. McArdle.

Democratic Rally In Homewood Tonight

The Thirteenth Ward Democratic Club will hold a mass meeting in Homewood Carnegie Library tonight. Congressman Henry Ellenbogen, Councilman John J. Kane, and Attorney Charles J. Scheif will speak.

McSparran Calls Rum Plan Worse Than Saloon

BEDFORD, Pa., May 11.—(AP.)—State Secretary of Agriculture John A. McSparran last night termed Pennsylvania's present system of liquor control as "worse than the old saloons" in a talk to a regional conference of the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

McSparran, a Republican gubernatorial candidate, told more than 100 delegates attending the conference:

"Now a person has to go into a place where liquor is served to eat."

McSparran said wherever prohibition has been voted out 45 per cent or less of the qualified voters cast an opinion on the subject and he predicted that if all had registered their convictions the Eighteenth Amendment would not have been repealed.

Mrs. Ella Black, state president of the W. C. T. U., pledged McSparran the support of the organization in his race, after his speech.

CHURCH PRAISES T. W. PHILLIPS

Thomas W. Phillips, gubernatorial candidate, will give Pennsylvania a judiciary divorced from politics, Samuel Harden Church has declared.

Citing the Bar Association's criticism of one judge for political activities, Church, in an address last night, declared Phillips would make judicial appointments, not among ambitious young lawyers who had worn out their shoes in the service of a political ring, but from able men approved by the Bar Association.

Church praised Phillips for his common sense, business ability and courage.

The Fort Pitt Political Club of Allegheny County, claiming over 500 members, has announced indorsement of the Phillips candidacy.

Marcus to Address Hill Tax League

M. A. Marcus, candidate for Legislature in the First District, will address the Hill District Taxpayers League in Irene Kaufmann Settlement at 2 p. m., Sunday. William Lando is president of the league.

M'KAY DEFENDS FARM LEVIES

Processing taxes and marketing agreements are given credit for contributing to a rise in prices by Marion K. McKay, candidate for Congress in the Thirty-second District.

Processing taxes on wheat, cotton and hogs have resulted in wheat farmers receiving approximately $100,000,000, cotton farmers $160,000,000 and hog and corn producers $350,000,000 since going into effect, McKay declared.

More, he said, would be paid in 1934 and 1935—perhaps $800,000,000 for each of these years.

Marketing arrangements have worked to regulate the flow of goods and keep prices uniform, he said.

McKay will speak tonight in Peabody High School and in Forester's Hall, Tenth Ward, and in Arsenal High School Monday night.

Real Estate Tax Cut Advocated

Real estate cannot continue to stand 80 per cent of the taxation when it represents only 40 per cent of the wealth, Merle D. Long, candidate for Legislature in the Twelfth District, has declared. Long, tax collector of Bethel Township, advocates lessening the real estate tax to enable citizens to keep their homes.

M'GOVERN TALK LAUDS PINCHOT

Allegheny County is closing its supremacy in the great industries of coal, iron and steel through the policies of politicians of both major parties, County Commissioner C. C. McGovern believes.

Speaking last night in support of Gov. Gifford Pinchot for United States Senate, Edward C. Shannon for Governor, and David E. Kaufman for Lieutenant Governor, McGovern struck at overlapping governmental agencies.

Pinchot's policies, as shown in his public acts, would work to remedy the condition of the county, McGovern said. He praised Shannon as a soldier and statesman who understood both state and county government.

McGovern presided at the noon meeting today in Shannon headquarters, Magee Building. Recorder of Deeds Samuel D. Foster will deliver a Shannon radio address over WJAS at 10:30 p. m. tonight.

Parade Arranged To Boost Balsam

A parade and mass meeting in behalf of the candidacy of Max Balsam for Legislature in the Third District will be held in Hazelwood Monday night. The parade will form at Flowers street and Second avenue at 6:30 p. m. The meeting is in the Grand Theater at 9 p. m.

RELIEF CRISIS HERE BRINGS SURVEY

Warnings that the relief problem is not merely a temporary one have resulted in a request by City Councilmen for a survey of the situation here, it was learned today.

The request was made at a secret conference yesterday between councilmen and officials of the Allegheny County Emergency Relief Board, from which Mayor McNair absented himself.

The conference, it was learned, resulted from recent warnings, several of them from the Community Fund, that even a noticeable pickup in business would not remedy the relief situation.

The Community Fund pointed out that thousands of men over 45 years of age would probably never get jobs again unless a new occupational setup is arranged.

George P. Mills, director of the relief board, said he is completing a survey which will show the approximate number of people expected to be on relief a year from today.

He has promised to give Council a complete survey next Wednesday, he said. Mills declined to state what, if any, plans Council might take to meet the situation.

PULITZER PRIZE RULES CHANGED

NEW YORK, May 11.—(AP.)—Three changes in the regulations governing the annual Pulitzer prize awards in letters and journalism have been made by the advisory board of the Columbia University School of Journalism, which this year overruled several of the juries' selections.

The amended regulations will be in effect next year.

Two of the changes, interpreted today as a move back to the spirit of the original will of the late Joseph Pulitzer, consist of the addition of the phrase, "preferably dealing with American life," in the novel and drama award clauses.

The third is an amendment in procedure, described today by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia, as follows:

Henceforth, the juries in each prize field will not be expected to make recommendations for the award of any prize. Instead, they will present an eligible list of candidates, with a statement of the reasons why the particular candidate is thought worthy of serious consideration.

6,000 RESUME RWD JOBS

Six thousand men have been ordered to report for work on Relief Works Division projects which were resumed in the Pittsburgh district today. This number will be augmented by 2,000 next Monday, James L. Stuart, county administrator, said.

When the RWD program again gets under way Thomas O. Hasley, director of county highways, will move to have work done with RWD labor, which will safeguard dangerous curves on roads through erection of barriers. At least 40 miles of roadway will be safeguarded in this manner within a few months, he said.

Although it had been approved by state officials, a city traffic survey, 90 per cent completed, and employing 40 "white collar" workers, was suspended yesterday. No reason was given.

Police Battle Crowd At Relief Offices

PHILADELPHIA, May 11.—(AP.)—A battle between police and several hundred demonstrators ended with minor casualties, torn clothes and two arrests, but police do not know what it was all about.

The trouble began when the crowd was denied admission to the Philadelphia County emergency relief headquarters last night, and leaders refused to state their demands unless they were admitted to see officials.

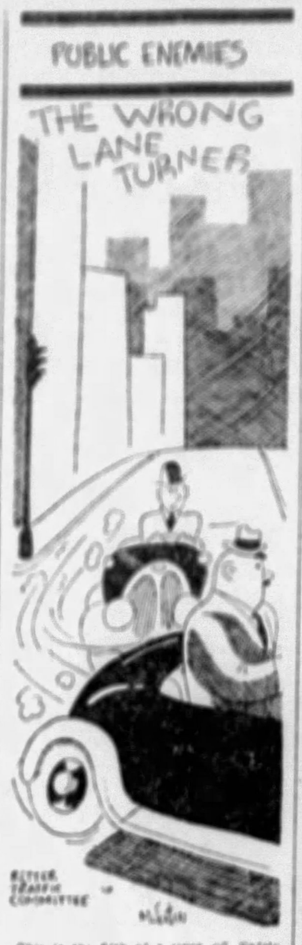
PUBLIC ENEMIES



This is the fifth of a series of Safety Cartoons drawn by a CWA artist for the Better Traffic Committee as an educational aid in reducing the growing number of traffic accidents in Pittsburgh. The artist, Frank McFeaters, was one of 100 CWA workers assigned to the Traffic Committee and his art ability was an accidental discovery.

One of the few plausible explanations of the Wrong Lane Turner is that he learned his tactics playing football. He is "blocking" as he cuts in front of other cars.

The rules for turning a corner are simple. The curb lane is reserved for right turns, the other for left turns.

Watch out, Wrong Lane Turners. Many of you are killed or injured in traffic every day.

BAKERY DRIVER SHOT, ROBBED

Two bandits who robbed Fred Seibel, of 235 Magazine street, Glendale, a baking company employe, of $50 after shooting him in the arm and dragging him from his truck in Ewing road, Collier Township, late yesterday, were sought by police and county detectives today.

Seibel was driving on his daily route when the bandits, both masked and armed, halted him. They fired three shots, two through the windshield and the third through a window of the door of the truck. The latter struck Seibel in the arm.

The pair leaped on the truck when Seibel stopped and dragged him out. After taking his cash the robbers ran down the road.

DINNER TO AID ORCHESTRA

The Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra will present a concert at a dinner of the orchestra in the Hotel Schenley next Tuesday, which will mark the opening of the association's drive for $100,000 to carry on activities of that body. It will be the first time in the history of Pittsburgh that a symphony orchestra has played at a banquet.

Samuel Harden Church will be toastmaster, and Dr. Walter Damrosch the principal speaker.

The dinner will be arranged by a committee composed of Mrs. J. Frank Drake, chairman; Mrs. Joseph Dilworth, Mrs. Harvey Childs, Mrs. E. W. Mudge and Richard S. Rauh.

DUQUESNE DEAN SPURS FIGHT ON LEAGUE

Two prominent speakers, an educator and a United States Army officer, warned against United States entry into the League of Nations and World Court in radio talks delivered over station WCAE yesterday.

Speaking at 6 o'clock last night, Dr. Albert Bayard Wright, dean of the School of Business Administration, Duquesne University, charged that the League of Nations and the World Court were purely European political bodies, constructed to compel other nations to conform to the advantages and dictates of the dominate European nations. He declared that the United States would do well to mind its own business and remain free of the league.

DEPLORES ARMY CUT

The other speaker was Maj. William A. Kimble. He said that the United States Regular Army today consisted of 132,000 persons, one-third smaller than it was in 1920 and 1921, when the war-time Army had been demobilized. Deploring the size of the Army today, Maj. Kimble said:

"During the decade of peace we have gone on reducing the size of the Army, and I think we have gone every bit as far as it is safe to go.

"Our Army exists not for offense, but for protection. Unless we are to place ourselves as a nation at the mercy of every country that covets our wealth, our land, our trade, our climate, or our civilization, we must be prepared to defend it."

CITES DANGERS

The Duquesne University dean in further discussing the dangers of entry into the league, declared:

"Mark this well—the aim of the League of Nations is to make every nation's business its business; to reduce armies, navies and air forces; to control for good or ill, the welfare of its members in the interests of those who dominate the league. Should the United States join the league it will mean that giant America will be restricted to a pygmy land, sea and air defense. Our policies, internal and foreign, may then be dominated by the European powers who dominate the league for their selfish ends.

"In associating ourselves with the allied powers in the World War, we sacrificed thousands of American lives and piled up a staggering war debt. Our sole visible return was the universal dislike for us among the European nations which are indebted to our government.

SPUR FIGHT

"In the Washington conference treaty we sacrificed naval supremacy for the course of peace — that is we scrapped modern battleships while other powers scrapped blue prints. We weakened our national defense. The armament race in Europe still continues —$3,000,000,000 is being spent on war preparation in Europe during this year."

Both speakers urged all loyal Americans to enter their protests against entry of this country into the League of Nations and World Court. This can be done by signing the blank petition appearing in this paper and returning it to the Sun-Telegraph. All petitions are being sent to Washington in time to be presented to the hearing of the league question next Wednesday.

U. S. Leaders to Fight Court Link

By KENNETH CLARK
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—A notable delegation of American leaders will appear before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee next Wednesday to oppose entry of the United States into the League of Nations Court.

Senator Hiram W. Johnson, fighting Republican progressive, of California, leader of the anti-court forces, announced the list of witnesses includes outstanding men and women in the nation's political, civic, patriotic and educational life.

He said speakers include Ex-Senators James A. Reed, of Missouri; George Wharton Pepper, of Pennsylvania, and J. Reuben Clark, former American Ambassador to Mexico.

Witnesses will warn that the effort of internationalists to get the United States into the court is part of a drive to drag the country ultimately into full membership in the League of Nations. All this comes at a time, they will point out, when the rest of the world is abandoning the league as a failure.

Senator Johnson declared:

"Senators Reed and Pepper and Ambassador Clark will devote themselves to an analysis and a demonstration which will serve as a textbook for the public and the Senate in the court fight."

JAPS TO WARN LEAGUE ON AID TO CHINA

By JAMES R. YOUNG
International News Service.

TOKIO, May 11.—The Japanese government, which scored an easy victory over the League of Nations in the international controversy over Manchuria and then withdrew from the Geneva organization, is out for another win.

The Foreign Office, International News Service learned today, will protest any further efforts by the league to aid in the financial and economic reconstruction of China as recommended by Dr. L. W. Rajchman, technical advisor on China, in an 80-page report presented to Geneva.

Rajchman's proposals, the Foreign Office holds, might alienate Japan and China in the future and possibly provoke a new war in the Far East.

The Foreign Office reached these conclusions after an exhaustive study of the Rajchman report. Japan objects to league assistance to China on these grounds:

First—That the fundamental grounds on which the league would proffer aid in stabilizing China might not coincide with Japan's views (virtually a statement of the Japanese "Monroe Doctrine" declaration.)

Second—There is no assurance that the league program would work toward the salvation of China.

Third—The Rajchman report does not agree with the knowledge the Japanese Foreign Office possesses of Chinese conditions.

CHINA'S CONDITION

In certain quarters here it is believed that China's internal condition is now worse than it was before the Washington Naval Conference at which the Nine-Power Pact, signed by the United States, Great Britain and other powers, was drafted.

The Rajchman recommendations, it is held here, take on political coloring and far from tending to stabilize conditions in China would increase the present unrest, if carried out and eventually disrupt order in the Far East.

The handling of past loans to China has been blundering, it is argued, proving that financial aid is impractical and making it imperatively necessary to oppose the Rajchman scheme.

PRIMARY ELECTION TUESDAY, MAY 15TH

For the Republican Nomination For U.S. Senator

A REPUBLICAN

U. S. SENATOR DAVID A. REED

Out of national legislation comes the help or the harm that determines the welfare of this great industrial empire called Pennsylvania.

Because we are an industrial empire, with all the activities pertaining to it, including mining, agriculture and the great diversity of business and professional pursuits; and because, too, we contribute, normally, about one-tenth of the entire cost of operating the National Government—

There is scarcely a Federal law or regulation that relates to industry or labor, agriculture or transportation, mining or merchandizing, taxation or finance, which does not affect Pennsylvania and its people with consequences more important and direct than is the case with any other State or its population.

Laws which give foreign producers and wage-earners an advantage over domestic producers and wage-earners, bear down upon the people of Pennsylvania with destructive consequences.

Laws which create subsidies for special groups or activities are like a suction pump working day and night to draw off the wealth created in this State, which should go back into other developments and widened wage-paying.

Laws which are designed to give especial advantages to the agriculture of the West and South, discriminate directly against our own farmers, inflicting losses from which they have every right to be protected.

Our activities are so diversified, our interests so many and varied, that they need to be watched over and safeguarded by those who were first chosen for their integrity and ability, and then wisely retained because of their increasingly valuable experience and their widening prestige and influence.

Especially is this so in respect of a U. S. Senator.

Through a great many generations the people of Pennsylvania have recognized this, and have acted and benefitted accordingly. It is significant that they always have done so through the Republican Party.

From before the Civil War to the present time, six Senators have served this State in the United States Senate for a total of 98 years.

Each of these Senators became a powerful influence in the councils of his party—in Pennsylvania and in the nation. They were able to speak with authority, and command respectful attention, not only in the U. S. Senate, but in the party conventions which drafted platforms and selected the party's nominees.

Thus, over a long period of time, the people of Pennsylvania have been able to promote the principles and concepts upon which this great industrial empire was created and developed, and to safeguard the diversity of activities and interests that maintain our ten million people.

Senator Reed is young, able, courageous, and now possesses an experience and prestige which are assets to the people of this State. He has been a member of the Senate for 12 years and is now one of the Republican leaders of that body. Under a Republican majority he will become chairman of the Finance Committee, the most powerful committee of the Senate.

But it is not only under a Republican Administration, or a Republican majority in the Senate, that Senator Reed commands respect and exercises great influence on behalf of his constituents. Here is what three of the most outstanding Democratic members of the Senate have said about him!

"There is in this body no abler lawyer, no more resourceful debater, than the Senator from Pennsylvania."

Senator JOSEPH T. ROBINSON, Democratic Leader of the Senate
(Senate speech, Jan. 26, 1934)

"I could not allow the occasion to go by without giving vent to the admiration I have for him, regardless of political or other fundamental differences over public questions. I may say in this connection, too, that I think we have all been edified by the fine manner in which he has stood here on the floor of the Senate, often alone, taking uncomplainingly blow after blow, doing his duty as he sincerely believed was in the interest of his fellow men."

Senator DAVID I. WALSH
Democrat, Massachusetts
(Senate speech, June 15, 1932)

"The fact is that the senior Senator from Pennsylvania, as no other Senator on either side of the chamber, assumed the leadership of this question and spent weeks and months delving into it and presenting the statistical aspects of it, and arguing the question with an earnestness and conducting his fight with a skill which I have never seen exceeded on any problem in the Senate since I have been a member of it."

Senator CARTER GLASS
Democrat, Virginia
(Senate speech, April 23, 1930)

The lustre of a Senator so esteemed, even by the leaders of an opposite party, cannot be dimmed by the mud of a political antagonist.

In the Primary, on May 15th, Senator Reed will be a candidate for the Republican nomination to succeed himself. We urge you to vote for Senator Reed and thereby help Pennsylvania to retain the advantage our people have in his ability, experience, seniority and position of leadership in the United States Senate.

DRAGONETTE, DRAMAS :: 'Marvelous Melodies', National Affairs :: ON RADIO TONIGHT

Varieties, Politics On Air

United States Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, is heard over the Columbia-WJAS network tonight at 11 o'clock as the first speaker on a new weekly series of programs presenting the views of leading Republicans on National affairs.

* * *

Jessica Dragonette, heard over WCAE at 8 o'clock with a male quartet and Rosario Bourdoni's Orchestra, sings two old favorites—the Indian "Kashmiri Song" and "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny."

* * *

The "Marvelous Melodies" revues, starring Jack Whiting, Jeanne Lang and Jack Denny's Orchestra, on WJAS Friday nights at 9:30, have been extended for several weeks more.

* * *

Ben Marshall, chief of the Pittsburgh police, marks his twenty-fifth anniversary on the force, at 7:30 p. m., when he appears as guest of the Four Service Men on WCAE.

* * *

MUSICAL CRUISE

Back from a vacation, Phil Harris leads his orchestra in another "Melody Cruise" over the KDKA waves tonight at 9.

* * *

"What Is Home Without a Mother-in-Law?"

Some will and some won't agree with the Court of Human Relations broadcast on WJAS at 8:30 p. m., contending that the answer is "heaven."

* * *

The American Legion of Allegheny County sponsors a stage revue at the Mosque tonight in which 100 radio performers and three orchestras are scheduled to participate.

* * *

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt is to participate in the first of a new series of programs sponsored by a manufacturer of building materials, and featuring Floyd Gibbons and Nat Shilkret's Orchestra.

The series will be inaugurated over NBC-WCAE tomorrow night at 8:30.

GLOBE TROTTING

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

From 731 North avenue, Wilkinsburg, comes another letter about cats. The people there are happy that the cat is getting a break at last.

They tell me that last Easter their cat, Toots, presented the family with four kittens, two of which are sporting paws of six toes each.

Now that we have opened a kitten department, I shall expect all of you to help keep it going by contributing your best true cat story.

Of course, interesting true stories of dogs will be welcome, too. Even monkeys, parrots, canaries, or turtles will be recognized as subjects for stories.

* * *

William Hopkins, McKeesport, suggests that motorists should drive past Olympia Park through the Township of Versailles to be rewarded by one of the most terrifying yet thrilling sights.

It is an area of about two city blocks covered by burning coal and slag. At night the effect is awe-inspiring.

* * *

The Humane Society reported finding a white dog and asked whether I would make an announcement. On the same broadcast was a sorrowful appeal from a little girl grieving over her lost dog.

One announcement followed the other on the air.

It afterward proved out that the same dog reported found by the Humane Society was the one wanted by the little girl.

Boy Scouts to Hold Annual County Rodeo

The third annual rodeo of Allegheny County Council West, Eagle Boy Scouts, will be held tomorrow and Sunday at Guyasuta Reservation, Aspinwall.

The rodeo is held each year to determine the champion Eagle Scout of Allegheny County. Homer Graham, winner of the 1933 rodeo, will be in charge.

Favorite Songbird

Jessica Dragonette, heard over WCAE tonight at 8 o'clock with a male quartet and Rosario Bourdon's concert orchestra, has been a favorite among radio listeners since the early days of broadcasting.

To Aircast From Fast Airplane

By AIRCASTER

Broadcasting from the cabin of a four-mile-a-minute Douglas airliner, John W. Hallock, Pitt alumni secretary, and I will describe a fast flight over the mountains to Horseshoe Curve and back Sunday night from 10:15 to 10:45 over KDKA and W8XK.

During the two-way short-wave relay over the Pioneer station, Dr. Samuel H. Williams and Prof. W. N. St. John, members of the University of Pittsburgh faculty, speaking from the airplane beacon atop the Cathedral of Learning, will alternate with our broadcasts from the airplane.

An object of the flight, arranged through the co-operation of Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc., is to determine, and describe to the radio audience, the distance from which the Cathedral of Learning beacon can be seen by a plane approaching Pittsburgh.

We will attempt to give listeners a picturesque description of the night flight over the mountains, valleys, hamlets, and over the myriad-lighted streets of the city.

It will be a thrill for me, you may be sure. I hope you will enjoy it—10:15 Sunday night.

CAVALCADE

Lyn Morrow, radio representative of Pittsburgh on this week's Good Will Tour of the Chamber of Commerce, tells of the reception the Steel City businessmen received in Fairmont.

With the Fairmont Mayor's car leading the van, the two busloads of Pittsburgh good-willers were escorted into the West Virginia town by a roaring squadron of motorcycle cops.

It was the noon hour, and the motorcycle cops' screaming sirens brought school children on the run from every direction.

"Gosh!" exclaimed a wide-eyed little urchin at the curbstone watching the procession of Pittsburghers pass by, "They've got Dillinger."

A LETTER

George Seibel, who now is heard over WCAE four times a week, gets many letters from fans, but has had none that pleased him more than this from a blind listener:

Geistown, Pa., May 2, 1934.

My Dear Mr. Seibel:

I enjoy your radio broadcasts very, very much. I have often wondered if the radio artists realize just how much they help us blind people to pass pleasant hours, which, otherwise, would be lonely and miserable for us.

Your voice is so distinct and clear, and so soothing to tired nerves, and so different from any other voice over the air.

I suppose you have heard of the talking book for the blind, they are on sale this month and they will read on records. When I hear your voice over the radio I wish I would be able to listen to a book that you had read for the blind.

Thanking you for your broadcasts, and how much they help me, I am

Sincerely yours,
DOROTHY E. NEER.

"Four Service Men" On Air Tonight

Howard Price, tenor, singing with the Four Service Men on WCAE at 7:30, features "All the World's in Love."

At 6:40, the So-and-So girls' trio was enthusiastic with a new novelty number, "He's a Humdinger."

Miriam Young, soprano, and the WCAE String Ensemble present an all-Friml program at 7 o'clock.

LOST 22 POUNDS IN SIX WEEKS
NO FLABBY SKIN OR WRINKLES
MRS. MAX HAAS WRITES: "Have tried different things for reducing, but I have never found anything so satisfactory as SYL-VETTE. Too much cannot be said! I lost 22 pounds in 6 weeks by taking it in place of both breakfast and lunch. I felt better and was much more active after I lost weight, and I did not have any flabby skin or wrinkles. It has been over a year since I used this method and I have not gained back any of my lost flesh. My mother, who was so opposed to my reducing, says I look and act like a different woman."
Mrs. Max Haas, Rayland, O.
NO DRUGS — NO THYROIDS — NO SALTS — SYL-VETTE IS A FOOD
SYL-VETTE is a drugless, safe system of weight control, a condensed hunger-satisfying food substitute of which one teaspoonful equals a breakfast or a lunch.
SYL-VETTE not only satisfies hunger, but supplies nourishment and strength—also prevents sagging muscles, wrinkles, and that distressed, haggard look so common with other reducing treatments. That's because SYL-VETTE is rich in non-fattening proteins and carbohydrates.
HERE'S PROOF—19 out of every 20 users lose 3 pounds or more the first week; 10 to 15 pounds a month—which is pronounced safe by doctors. Economical, too—30 slenderizing meals $1.00.

LINER TO BEAR QUEEN'S NAME

LONDON, May 11.—(AP.)—"Queen Mary" likely will be the name of the much advertised Cunard liner "534," which is to be christened by the Queen at its launching September 26, in the presence of the King.

The choice of a name for the giant vessel has not been announced officially, but it is understood the Queen's assent to the suggestion that it be named for her has already been obtained.

This will be the first time an English Queen has launched a mercantile ship, it is believed, although they have often started warships to sea.

Hopes Women Will Adopt This Habit As Well as Men

Glass of hot water each morning helps us look and feel clean, sweet, fresh.

Happy, bright, alert—vigorous and vivacious—a good clear skin; a natural, rosy complexion and freedom from illness are assured only by clean, healthy blood. If only every woman and likewise every man could realize the wonders of the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place.

Instead of the thousands of sickly, anaemic-looking men, women and girls with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nerve wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking, each morning before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds; and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated ver often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood, while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.

THUNDERSTORM FAILS TO BREAK DROUGHT HERE

POLITICS

North Side Hall Filled by Democrats

By MARK SHIELDS

North Side Carnegie Hall, which hasn't been filled for a political meeting this spring, last night stowed Democrats to the rafters and spilled an overflow out into Ohio street.

Mark Shields

Gov. Gifford Pinchot couldn't fill it. Senator David A. Reed couldn't fill it. Judge Eugene C. Bonniwell couldn't fill it. But the regular Democratic slate of primary candidates nearly burst out the sidewalls with a crowd which cheered, stamped, laughed and had a swell time as Republicans of all brands and Democrats of other factions were lambasted.

The slightest mention of the name of President Roosevelt was signal for applause, and there was some doubt in the mind of this observer as to who the real candidates were. George H. Earle, candidate for the gubernatorial nomination; Joseph F. Guffey, candidate for the Senate; Chester H. Rhodes, candidate for the Superior Court; Congressman J. Twing Brooks, of the Thirtieth District; B. B. McGinnis candidate for the State Senate in the Forty-second District; W. B. Rodgers, candidate for the same office in the Fortieth District; Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller, S. Davis Wilson, Philadelphia City Controller, and Eddie Dowling, actor and playwright, spoke, but it appeared from the remarks of all that President Roosevelt was running for all the offices, and going over with a unanimous vote.

The slogan of the meeting was "support the President," and every candidate pledged himself to that task. Republicans were pictured as foes of his policies, and opposition Democrats were portrayed as opportunists trying to get on the Roosevelt bandwagon after having attempted to sprag the wheels before the Chicago convention.

What Speakers Said Was Unimportant

On the stage were many local Democratic leaders, with County Chairman David L. Lawrence presiding. Mrs. J. Wood Clark, vice chairman, and a city employe, was also on the stand. So was George Evans, friend of Mayor William N. McNair, and recently appointed building inspector by McNair, himself a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination. The Mayor recently has been cold to Democrats who preferred some one than himself for Governor.

What the speakers said was relatively unimportant, and the sum of what all said was practically the same, that President Roosevelt had saved the country, and that the only way to keep on saving it and Pennsylvania was to elect Guffey to the Senate and to choose for state office men and women who claimed to have original title to the Roosevelt stamp.

Dowling was saved for the last, and, after the candidates had completed a recital of what great things they would do for the commonwealth, the Rhode Island Democrat, a master showman, proceeded to knock the audience off its feet, one moment rocking it with laughter and the next moving it with pathos. In the midst of a story of his own boyhood he stopped and said:

"And one of the kind of people I come from its sitting here in the first row. She lives here in one of your suburbs. Stand up, Aunt Mary, and let them see you."

And Dowling's "Aunt Mary," a wisp of a little Irish woman, stood up. Did the crowd like it? Why, at the moment Eddie's Aunt Mary could have beaten Guffey, Earle, Copeland or Morris without a contest.

Dowling stressed the human side of the President and his entire family, told of his own efforts in behalf of Roosevelt, beginning in 1930, and said that the first Pennsylvanian he had seen at Albany in the same task was Guffey. Both Guffey and Earle, he said, were highly regarded by the President.

Another Roosevelt Year Predicted

McGinnis and Rhodes said the Republican-controlled Legislature had not been responsive to the desires of the people.

Wilson said Morgan, Mellon, Vare and Grundy would prefer Roland Morris to Guffey as United States Senator, and almost upset the works, considering some city employes were around, when he said, after criticising the Republican Mayor of Philadelphia:

"I'm a guest in your city and don't care to comment on your own Mayor, but I'm doing a lot of thinking."

There were some Democrats, newly attached to jobs, who winced, but there wasn't anything to do about it.

Guffey said this was another Roosevelt year, and that his entire platform was a pledge to support the President.

Earle said the Republicans jeopardized human rights for property rights, and warned them that Austria and Russia had attended to fellows who did that. He said that veterans of industry and agriculture were as much entitled to pensions as veterans of wars. He warned that federal agents would be in Pennsylvania in the November election, and there would be no stealing.

Some other speakers said some other things.

But the high light of the meeting to this somewhat case-hardened reporter was Eddie Dowling introducing his Aunt Mary Dooley. It may have been showmanship and hokum, but the fellow sounded like he meant what he was saying about the President.

Hit-Run Motorist Wrecks Water Plug

A hit-run driver of an automobile who struck a water plug in Wylie avenue, at Davenport street, early today, was being sought by police. The plug was broken, flooding the street.

ACQUITTAL ENDS 13TH ELECTION FRAUD TRIAL

Jury Clears 3 Election Officials From Third Ward

The government met with its first defeat in prosecution of election vote cases in Federal Court when a jury rendered a verdict of acquittal for Joseph Forte, judge; Frank Audia, inspector, and August J. Manfredo, clerk, of the Third District, Third Ward, election board, tried before Judge F. P. Schoonmaker.

There were convictions in each of 12 previous trials, 54 men and women having been found guilty and eight acquitted, of conspiring to alter and falsify ballots cast for candidates for Congress and United States Senate at the general election in November, 1932. The cases grew out of the grand jury investigation in which 107 members of election boards and others were indicted.

THIRTEENTH TRIAL

The jury in the thirteenth trial, led by its foreman, Charles Fletcher, of Greensburg, took the verdict into court late yesterday, temporarily interrupting the trial of five officials of the Second District, Second Ward, election board, which began after the other case was placed in the hands of the jury. Defense counsel in the first 100 per cent acquittal trial were Attorneys Joseph A. Rossi and Max V. Schoonmaker.

Defendants on trial in the Second District are Thomas O'Malley, judge; John Barosky and Earl Longo, inspectors, and Floyd Kawka and Stanley Carlowski, clerks. The prosecution will probably close late today. Government counsel called a large number of residents of the Second District, Third Ward, for the purpose of establishing that more straight Democrat ballots were cast at the election than shown in the return tally sheets.

PLEADS SURPRISE

Many of these witnesses testified having voted straight Democrat ballots, but some said they could not recall how they voted or had voted straight Republican ballots.

First Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh pleaded "surprise" at some of the testimony of his witnesses, and was granted permission to cross-examine them, and confronted them with testimony they gave before the grand jury. It was testified that Thomas Ford, who was recorded as having voted, died four years ago. Mrs. Mary Henle and her daughter, Hilda Henle, who were on the voters lists as having voted, testified they did not vote at the election involved.

Ralph Guacci, a witness, could not remember how he voted.

Bob Lafollette May Surprise Wisconsin Voters

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

Young Senator La Follette has bobbed up with an egg and a mathematical formula for hatching it.

The egg is another third party. The formula was handed down by the Wisconsin Supreme Court.

Here it is: If Bob gets one-sixth of state voters in 10 Wisconsin counties he can launch his triplex organization and run for the Senate again.

He will make his try next Tuesday at Stevens Point. If there is a bird in the shell it means the start of a national third party.

The Old Guard wouldn't nominate Bob. Neither would the Democrats. So, he ups to them both and runs as independent as a cat on a fence.

It's a thin start, but may make very thick history. No third party has sent a man to the White House for 74 years. That would be about Lincoln's time.

THE THIN MAN :: Dorothy Drunk, Flashes Automatic :: By Dashiell Hammett

Slain Secretary Former Girl of Racketeer, Detective Finds

By DASHIELL HAMMETT

(Soon to appear on the screen at Loew's Penn Theater as a thrilling motion picture made by Cosmopolitan Production for Metro-Goldwyn Mayer.)

Nora had Dorothy over in front of a looking-glass soothing her with powder and rouge. I said, "A guy selling insurance," and went into the living room for a drink.

Some more people had come in. I spoke to them. Harrison Quinn left the sofa where he had been sitting with Margot Innes and said: "Now ping-pong." Asta jumped up and punched me in the stomach with her front feet, I shut off the radio and poured myself a cocktail. The man whose name I had not caught was saying: "Comes the revolution and we'll all be lined up against the wall—first thing." He seemed to think it was a good idea.

Quinn came over to refill his glass. He looked towards the bedroom door. "Where'd you find the little blonde?"

"Used to bounce it on my knee."

"Which knee?" he asked. "Could I touch it?"

Juluia Racketeer's

Nora and Dorothy came out of the bedroom. I saw an afternoon paper on the radio and picked it up. Headlines said:

JULIA WOLF ONCE RACKETEER'S GIRL; ARTHUR NUNHEIM IDENTIFIES BODY; WYNANT STILL MISSING

Nora, at my elbow, spoke in a low voice: "I asked her to have dinner with us. Be nice to the child"—Nora was 26—"she's all upset."

"Whatever you say." I turned around. Dorothy, across the room was laughing at something Quinn was telling her. "But if you get mixed up in people's troubles, don't expect me to kiss you where you're hurt."

"I won't. You're a sweet old fool. Don't read that here now." She took the newspaper away from me and stuck it out of sight behind the radio.

Nora Can't Sleep

Nora could not sleep that night. She read Challopin's memoirs until I began to doze and then woke me up by saying: "Are you asleep?"

I said I was.

She lit a cigaret for me, one for herself. "Don't you ever think you'd like to go back to detecting once in a while just for the fun of it? You know, when something special comes up like the Lindb—"

"Darling," I said, "my guess is that Wynant killed her, and the police'll catch him without my help. Anyway, it's nothing in my life."

"I didn't mean just that, but—"

"But besides I haven't the time: I'm too busy trying to see that you don't lose any of the money I married you for." I kissed her. "Don't you think maybe a drink would help you to sleep?"

"No thanks."

"Maybe it would if I took one." When I brought my Scotch and soda back to bed, she was frowning into space. I said: "She's cute, but she's cuckoo. She wouldn't be his daughter if she wasn't. You can't tell how much of what she says is what she thinks and you can't tell how much of what she thinks ever really happened. I like her, but I think you're letting—"

In Tough Spot

"I'm not sure I like her," Nora said thoughtfully, "she's probably a little viper, but if a quarter of what she told us is true, she's in a tough spot."

"There's nothing I can do to help her."

"She thinks you can."

"And so do you, which shows that no matter what you think, you can always get somebody else to go along with you."

Nora sighed. "I wish you were sober enough to talk to." She leaned over to take a sip of my drink. "I'll give you your Christmas present now if you'll give me mine."

I shook my head. "At breakfast."

"But it's Christmas now."

"Breakfast."

"Whatever you're giving me," she said, "I hope I don't like it."

"You'll have to keep them anyway, because the man at the Aquarium said he positively wouldn't take them back. He said they'd already bitten the tails off the—"

"It wouldn't hurt you any to find out if you can help her, would it? She's got so much confidence in you, Nicky."

"Everbody trusts Greeks."

"Please."

"You just want to poke your nose into things that—"

"I meant to ask you: did his wife know the Wolf girl was his mistress?"

Didn't Like Secretary

"I don't know. She didn't like her."

"What's the wife like?"

"I don't know—a woman."

"Good-looking?"

"Used to be very."

"She old?"

"Forty, forty-two. Cut it out, Nora. You don't want any part of it. Let the Charleses stick to the Charleses' troubles and the Wynants stick to the Wynants'."

She pouted. "Maybe that drink would help me."

I got out of bed and mixed her a drink. As I brought it into the bedroom, the telephone began to ring. I looked at my watch on the table. It was nearly 5 o'clock.

Nora was talking into the telephone: "Hello . . . Yes, speaking." She looked sidewise at me. I shook my head no. "Yes . . . Why, certainly . . . Yes, certainly." She put the telephone down and grinned at me.

"You're wonderful," I said. "Now what?"

"Dorothy's coming up. I think she's tight."

"That's great." I picked up my bathrobe. "I was afraid I was going to have to go to sleep."

'Mimi's Poison'

She was bending over looking for her slippers. "Don't be such an old fuff. You can sleep all day." She found her slippers and stood up in them. "Is she really as afraid of her mother as she says?"

"If she's got any sense. Mimi's poison."

Nora screwed up her dark eyes at me and asked slowly: "What are you holding out on me?"

"Oh, dear," I said, "I was hoping I wouldn't have to tell you. Dorothy is really my daughter. I didn't know what I was doing, Nora. It was spring in Venice and I was so young and there was a moon over the—"

"Be funny. Don't you want something to eat?"

"If you do. What do you want?"

"Raw chopped beef sandwich with a lot of onion and some coffee."

Dorothy arrived while I was telephoning an all-night delicatessen. When I went into the living room, she stood up with some difficulty and said: "I'm awfully sorry, Nick, to keep bothering you and Nora like this, but I can't go home this way tonight. I can't. I'm afraid to. I don't know what'd happen to me, what I'd do. Please don't make me." She was very drunk. Asta sniffed at her ankles.

Flashes Automatic

I said: "Sh-h-h. You're all right here. Sit down. There'll be some coffee in a little while. Where'd you get the snoutful?"

She sat down and shook her head stupidly. "I don't know. I've been everywhere since I left you. I've been everywhere except home because I can't go home this way. Look what I got." She stood up again and took a battered automatic pistol out of her coat pocket. "Look at that." She waved it at me while Asta, wagging her tail, jumped happily at it.

Nora made a noise with her breathing. The back of my neck was cold. I pushed the dog aside and took the pistol away from Dorothy. "What kind of clowning is this? Sit down." I dropped the pistol into a bathrobe pocket and pushed Dorothy down in her chair.

"Don't be mad at me, Nick," she whined. "You can keep it.

Synopsis

Nick Charles, noted detective, who tells this story of "The Thin Man," and Nick's wife, Nora, met Dorothy Wynant, whom he has not seen since she was a child, in a speakeasy. Her eccentric father, Clyde Wynant, and mother were divorced. Dorothy asks Nick where her father is and he refers her to Herbert Macauly, her father's attorney. Next day Macauly calls Nick. Macauly's office phones to say Wynant is in town and wants to see him. Macauly asks what Mimi Jorgensen, Wynant's ex-wife, is up to. Nick explains he has not been a detective since 1927. Macauly tells him Mimi phoned three days ago trying to locate Wynant and yesterday Dorothy called. Next morning Nick reads of the murder of Julia Wolf, Wynant's secretary. Mimi found the body when she went to Julia's apartment to get Wynant's address. Macauly tells the police Wynant failed to keep an appointment with him the day of the crime. Dorothy goes to Nick's apartment and says she dislikes her mother and brother, Gilbert. A Mr. Norman telephones, saying:

"I would like to lay a proposition before you which I can't discuss over the phone."

Suddenly there is a loud report as of a shot; his words end abruptly.

LIGHTNING HITS SCHOOL, HOMES IN DISTRICT

Bolt Strikes Near Lot Where School Boys Met Death

Sweeping over the Pittsburgh district a thunderstorm late yesterday caused damage, but brought no relief to the parched farms and gardens.

Only .06 of an inch of rain, not enough to aid farming, accompanied the lightning which caused most of the damage, fell, the Weather Bureau reported. Lightning struck the chimney of the Watt School, Watt street and Bedford avenue. About 1,000 pupils sat calmly in the building when the bolt struck. A piece of concrete that fell from the chimney struck Charles Johnson, 37, a Negro, of 2520 Upton street, and lacerated his head.

Lightning struck the roof on the home of John Heibner, 1137 Marshall avenue, 100 feet from the field where two Oliver High School boys were killed by lightning during a storm a month ago. Students were watching a track meet in the field yesterday and scattered when the bolt struck the house nearby.

A chimney at the home of John MacClum, at 1221 Winterton street, and a pole near Preble avenue and Stieren street also were struck by lightning.

In Verona poles carrying high-tension wires that fell across the Verona-Oakmont car line in Wildwood avenue tied up service for more than two hours. Passengers on Verona cars were transferred around the scene of the tieup.

Fair skies and cooler weather were predicted for today.

BOY MOTORIST HELD IN MISHAP

Asserting he was unaware that his automobile had struck the boy, Hubert Miller, 18, of 200 Princeton avenue, West View, was held on a hit-and-run charge today after he is alleged to have struck down Henry Roth, 16, bicyclist, on the Perry highway.

Roth was taken to Suburban General Hospital, suffering minor injuries. William Fink, private detective, arrested Miller several blocks from the scene, and Carl Lubitz, neighbor of Roth, made information against Miller.

Two men were injured late yesterday when their truck, en route from Chicago to Pittsburgh, overturned twice after being forced off the Lincoln highway near Clinton.

They were Joseph Derdeckis, 24, Chicago, the driver, and his helper, Edward Macek, 20, Chicago.

Struck by one automobile and knocked against the side of another approaching from the opposite direction in Chartiers avenue, McKees Rocks, late yesterday, Tony Frederovich, 40, of 1146 Eleventh stseet, Stowe Township, suffered a scalp laceration and was treated at Ohio Valley Hospital.

DELAY OPENING OF PARK POOL

The swimming pool in South Park will open June 15, instead of the customary May 30.

The 15-day delay is due, it was explained today, because the torn-up Catfish Run road will not be completed until then. The road provides main access to the pool.

Thomas O. Hasley, director of county highways, bridges and tunnels, today explained that delays due to the transfer of men from the Civil Works Administration to the Relief Works Division were delayed, and that the RWD so far has not approved it. He expects word from Harrisburg soon, he said.

In the meanwhile, 60 county maintenance men have been working on the project, but more than 100 men were engaged on the road during the CWA activities.

DROUGHT SCARE GROWS IN WEST

CHICAGO, May 11.—(AP.)—Apprehension of over middle America's crop prospects grew hourly today.

Parched prairies and plains, long baked by a hot sun and swept by swirling, choking "black blizzards" of dust, swelled the alarm of agrarian and city dweller alike.

The only note of hope was the forecast of local showers tonight in Nebraska and South Dakota, and in Iowa tomorrow. Elsewhere no relief was in sight.

Whipped by strong winds, the dust clouds from the vast plains of Western Canada swept across the border with undying intensity yesterday, befogging the entire area from Montana on the west, Texas on the south and the Ohio valley on the east.

So thick were the floating sheets of real estate that airplane service between Chicago and St. Paul was interrupted.

Squirrel Hill Pair Married 58 Years

Mr. and Mrs. John Paul Schaffer, of West Woodland road and Wilkins avenue, Squirrel Hill, are celebrating their fifty-eighth wedding anniversary at their home today. Children and grandchildren will complete a family circle for the occasion.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 11.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

See where President Roosevelt figures on having a free hand in the foreign debt settlement thing personally. That's fine, Congress sent 'em a bill for the full amount, the Senate threatened to sue 'em, the American taxpayers tried to shame 'em into paying, so let's turn it over to Mr. Roosevelt, and give him a commission on what he can get. Either that, or have the J. P. Morgan Company foreclose on all of 'em. They are more afraid of him than they are of us. The thing has dragged along so far now, that it looks like we will have to loan some of 'em some more money in order to get 'em to even agree to cancel.

Will Rogers

Yours, WILL.

WINNER LOSES IN TECH CARNIVAL SWEEPSTAKES

Victory 'Stumbles' From Grasp of Beta Theta Pi

A fast run by Beta Theta Pi pushers went for naught today in the Carnegie Tech fraternity pushmobile sweepstakes preliminaries when the winning buggy was automatically disqualified.

Seven fraternities entered cars for the qualifying heats run over a course starting at Margaret Morrison Carnegie College, going down through Schenley Park, and back up past the Industries Building as part of their spring carnival.

Relays of pushers shove the buggies, but the rules provide that all changes of pushers must be made in a "neutral" zone.

The Beta Theta Pi entry had a lead of about 50 yards when one of their pushers stumbled and fell. The car coasted out of the "neutral" zone before another man could take hold.

Museum Turns Down Furniture Bequest

A houseful of furniture, mostly 1900 furniture-factory style, owned by the late Miss Anna Hilke, 77-year-old recluse of 3853 California avenue, was unclaimed today by Carnegie Museum.

Miss Hilke willed the museum its choice of her household goods. After an examination yesterday, Dr. Andrey Avinoff, museum director, declined any of the pieces with thanks. He said:

"Miss Hilke, in bequeathing the museum its choice of her furnishings, displayed a fine spirit which I hope others will follow. I am sorry she left nothing suitable for a museum.

"Carnegie Museum now has some fine furniture and silver in safe storage ready for the time when we can display it properly in period rooms, but there is no place to show it now."

The will also leaves about $15,000 in trust with the Union Trust Company. The I. O. O. F. Home, North Side, the Emanuel Baptist Church and the Brighton Road Presbyterian Church receive the income in equal shares.

Junior Patrol

It doesn't do much good to argue, fellows.

Maybe you have some friends who don't think the way you do about things. Maybe you want to have him think the way you do.

The first thing to do is to make sure you are right. There is a right answer to most things and anybody who wants to can find it out.

We have heard fellows argue about how high the Pitt Cathedral of Learning is. Once we heard a boy say—"Gee, I'll bet it's 10 miles high!" And his friend said—"Aw, you're all wet—it's only about 100 feet!"

And they went ahead and kept telling each other the same thing again and again. Neither was right. Neither convinced the other.

But they argued about it just the same. They were like many other people. They were quarreling about something that could have been settled right in a minute—without argument. If they had called up the University of Pittsburgh and asked, they would have been told that the cathedral is to be 535 feet high, but that it isn't quite finished yet, and isn't that high by about 30 feet.

Maybe you have heard fellows saying, back and forth—"Bet you a million bucks!" "Bet you two billion bucks." "Bet you ten trillion bucks!" It doesn't help much, does it?

Discussion, not argument, when you know what you are talking about, helps make a fellow's brain sharp, and it is a good way to learn new things.

But always remember—don't argue about something that is known. Find out the facts. And always try your best to prove all things. Don't say things you can't prove. Never be too sure. The wisest men are those who are positive in their knowledge, and when they don't know about something admit it.

In your club meetings, captains, discuss things. Don't argue.

ARTISTS HOLD JOINT SHOW

By PENELOPE REDD

At Elliott's Little Gallery Thos Courtney and Robert Law are exhibiting a joint show of linoleum block cuts and of water color paintings. Mr. Courtney lives himself to the Ohio Rives for a series of boats, chiefly barges and shanty boats. When not in an aquatic frame of mind, he evidently rambles the hills for abandoned cabins. The best of his prints include "Wayside Cabin," bold and unhampered by his rather arbitrary medium, and "The Storm." The latter shows an upland farm with the storm swooping down.

Miss Redd.

Robert Law's ability is of a high order in an architectural drawing, "Greek Conception," and in two water color studies of Pittsburgh. For the one he chooses a view of the Gulf and Koppers buildings from the Union Depot and for the other the contrasting campus views of Tech and Pitt. In these, he has adhered to a quiet color scheme and in their very forms finds himself at home. They are impressive notes on Pittsburgh. He is less happy in his figure subjects.

Mr. Law has just won a scholarship for Harvard University to continue his studies in architecture after his graduation this summer from the College of Fine Arts at Carnegie Tech.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happening

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt

This week-end society will have a number of things to interest them, in addition to the country clubs which from now on will monopolize more and more time of our socialites.

Among the events, if we wish, like the English, to include Friday in the week-end, will be three today.

Rummage Sale Final Day

To name the events in the order of their time, I'll mention first the second and final day of the Woman's Exchange rummage sale, being conducted at Penn and Stanwix with social leader board members serving as saleswomen.

This evening will find many of the smart set at the Nixon to see young social registerite Rosemary Casey's play, "Love Is Not Important," produced by the Bacchanalians as a part of Carnegie Tech's campus week celebration.

And there'll be another event tonight, too—the dance the Sweetbriar Alumnae Association will give tonight in the Pittsburgh Country Club for the benefit of the scholarship fund.

Willa Smith to Wed Edward K. Davison

Tomorrow will bring an attractive wedding — that of Willa Smith, the Henry William Smiths' daughter, and Edward Kennedy Davison.

The Pittsburgh Field Club will celebrate its opening for spring tomorrow with a cocktail party late in the afternoon and dinner and dancing.

* * *

Among our New York visitors has been Mrs. C. W. Dahlinger, of Maywood avenue, who has been stopping at the Vassar Club at the Hotel New Weston.

Mrs. Mary C. Coudert To Marry in Paris

There's to be a wedding of a Pittsburgh daughter today in Paris. She is Mrs. Mary Callery Coudert, daughter of Mrs. Dawson Callery, of Devonshire street. Mrs. Coudert is to wed Carl Frua De Angeli, of Milan, Italy, according to Mrs. Callery.

* * *

Just home from a winter in Miami Beach, Fla., and a spring visit to Hot Springs, Va., are Dr. and Mrs. Edward C. Leslie, of South Fairmount avenue. They'll spend the greater part of the summer at the Fox Chapel home.

* * *

Today women golfers of the Pittsburgh Field Club opened their season for the year. In the morning there was a business session of the golfers, then luncheon, and then golf.

In charge of women's golf at the Field Club this year will be Mrs. Walter Curley.

Now we know that some time ago there was a certain amount of ballyhoo about these coats . . . and that all of you all but broke legs off getting in to this store to buy yourselves one . . . or two! BUT . . . (great big But!) . . . we think so much of them . . . that we just HAVE to up and warble off a little tune once more.

Because . . . a pique or linen coat for a mere $2.98 is SOMETHING! Especially when they're to be had in white or pastels . . . especially when they have Ascot flip flop effects at the throat . . . or when they button over with an "air!" Yoke shoulders are something else again . . . and maybe you'd have a bow! Sizes 12 to 20.

* * *

And although the word "sweater" sends heat waves to our brain at the present moment of writing . . . still we can't help but perceive the value of these string knit sweaters at $4.98. Because they have the crew neck effects that are so sporty-like for all outdoor sessions . . . because they wear belts (some of them) . . . because of their wooden buttons at the throat (of the uncrew necked ones). Sizes 12 to 20.

What with all the ballyhoo about soap for "hard" water . . . for "soft" water, and such . . . it is with joy that we announce the arrival of an ALL-water soap. The kind that you up and fling into the tub without any qualms about its being this-or-that! The kind that looks well both on the washstand . . . and ON YOU! And . . . lastly . . . the kind that is made up with olive oil and therefore very good for dry little necks and knees!

In boxes of 20 . . . only 59c . . . in bouquet odeurs . . . and assorted or all plain white.

* * *

We suppose you may have heard all about this . . . but . . . the world being a largish place, and you maybe being elsewhere than in town . . . perhaps you'd like to know that you can get extra slip covers for your handbags this summer. We peaked and pined for them up until fairly recently . . . when they made their initial bow.

Now after buying your bag (which is about $1.95) . . . you can get slip-covers for it in any shade you want, for $1.00 each. Which simply means that for the $3 or $4 you'd spend on bags this summer . . . you can have something really distinctive . . . and easy to keep fresh (they're washable, you know).

A new shop! A new corner! A new spot to welcome all you cotton-pickers! A little "jernt" where prices are mere shadows of their usual selves! Anyway . . it has just opened and the styles and types show it.

One-piece frocks of interesting print or stripe or plaid wearing absolutely unconditional guarantees of washability! Same price. And swanky little piques in pastels . . . two-piecers of note . . . piped in contrasting colors . . . and costing just a $2.98's worth!

Conventions Arranged By B. P. W.

The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs will hold state conventions in 13 states during June and July, going to Eaglesmere, Pa., June 15-17 when Miss Lena Madesin Phillips, of New York City, president of the International Federation and a former president of the National Federation, will be the convention speaker.

This year national headquarters has suggested that the states present a convention program featuring the use of the conference method. According to this plan delegates who are experts in their various fields will be assigned to three major discussion groups—organization, education and public affairs. It is believed that if this method is followed, such agenda for the conference prepared in advance and time given for questions and answers, each delegate will find that her contribution is valued as a vital part of the convention.

Classes for the study of parliamentary law and the ten year objective will be included in the sessions. The latter is a plan by which members are fitting themselves to assume real leadership in thinking on economic problems.

The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs is the largest national business women's organization in the world and is non-partisan and non-sectarian. It has 1,350 clubs in 48 states, the District of Columbia, the Hawaiian Islands and Alaska, the individual clubs maintaining scholarship and loan funds for educational purposes. These are the practical working out of the ten year objective of the organization which also expresses itself in the establishment of lecture courses and community economic forums working toward greater security and opportunity for the average citizen.

Junior Birdmen Model Builders' Course for Beginners Starts in Today's Column

By LAWRENCE SHAW, National Director.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Today the first lesson of the Junior Birdmen model builders' course for beginners is published. This course, written in collaboration with Mr. Joseph Ott, author of "Model Airplane Building and Flying," will be published in serial form in the Junior Birdmen column. It is written for the young boys and young girls who have never before built or flown models and will be complete in every detail, making it possible for all members of the Junior Birdmen to learn how to build and fly their own model craft in time to enter the forthcoming Junior Birdmen Model Plane Contest to be held on July 7.—LAWRENCE SHAW.)

JUNIOR BIRDMEN MODEL BUILDERS' COURSE FOR BEGINNERS

Lesson 1—Preface and Work Bench.

PREFACE.

The primary object of this course in model plane building and flying is to give every boy and girl an opportunity to construct model planes under proper guidance and counsel, and to teach them the art of flying these craft at competitive contests in competition for valuable awards.

Most any boy and girl can learn to build models and fly them in a short period of them. However, in competitive meets one must have a proper scientifically constructed model and must know the best method of launching to get the best results. It is the purpose of our model builders' course, therefore, to take the beginners in model aircraft work in hand and through these lessons in our course teach them the principles of construction and flying the easiest way possible.

No builder of great bridges, no architect of giant skyscrapers, was ever able to accomplish this work without first learning the primary fundamentals of his art and trade. Nor has any designer of aircraft or pilot of planes ever been able to gain fame without first being taught, through some means or method, the simple details of design, construction, aerodynamics and navigation.

EASY IF YOU KNOW

The construction of model planes and the flight of these small craft employ the same scientific principles as their big brothers of the sky. In learning to build and fly models you will therefore gain much knowledge of the design and flight of real aircraft.

Model plane building isn't difficult. It's easy. The proper flying of models is still easier. But without the proper instruction the easiest thing can become difficult. One false step, one wrong move, one unintentional deviation from set rules and practices, can discourage you from further work because your model won't fly.

This official Junior Birdmen Model Builders' Course for beginners will attempt to prevent your loss to junior aviation from any such blunders. Our lessons will take you step-by-step, giving you in simple language and with many illustrations to assist you, complete details for building model aircraft as good, if not better, than any made by the advanced model builders.

While the first craft we make will be guided by aerodynamic principles, they will not be one hundred per cent scientific in construction. Let us build our initial craft first, and then develop the next along more scientific lines in a step-by-step order that I suggested earlier in this preface. Then we will have no trouble in constructing our first model.

WORK BENCH

Our first lesson today does not start us on the road to actual construction work, but prepares us for it. For that reason I am suggesting a model builder's bench for members who are fortunate enough to have space in some cool, tidy basement, attic or garage where they might keep to themselves when working on their models.

It is not at all necessary to have a work-bench. I have seen championship models constructed on kitchen tables and back porches. And I have seen models that were constructed in the finest of workshops fail to accomplish any worthwhile flight. However, a proper work-bench is an aid and every boy and every girl should have one if possible.

Any kind of work-bench will do, of course, but if you are going to construct a new one, you might as well have the proper kind, such as is illustrated in our column today. This bench is different from most others in that it has open shelving on the sides instead of drawers.

This is an important detail for you will find it most handy when you begin to accumulate models and materials that often times extend just a bit over the length and breadth of the drawer. The shelving will eliminate the possibility of damage to material or completed models.

SIZE OF BENCH

The size of your bench will depend upon the amount of space you have in your workroom. The top should be of one piece. If you may find a piece of board of this dimension too expensive, two or three pieces may be used. In this event, however, be sure that you glue these boards together with carpenter's glue which can be obtained in any hardware store.

This will keep your boards even and smooth and prevent them from parting when, in hot wather, the boards have a tendency to shrink. The thickness of the top should be at least one and one-quarter inches so that you will have a sturdy bench that you need not be afraid to place pressure on.

By following the illustration accompanying this first lesson in our junior birdmen model builders' course for beginners you should have a very fine place to work on. You can make any changes you may see fit, and can leave out one side of the shelving if you haven't enough space. You may find it difficult to build such a bench yourself unless you have had manual training work at school. However, most anyone will be glad to assist you—if not your friends, try Dad!

The second lesson in our course will be published next week. It will discuss the various tools used in model plane construction and their uses.

Air Dictionary Lists

Because of the various features which are being planned for our column it will be impossible to schedule our air dictionary feature on any specific days. Therefore, instead of being published every Monday, Wednesday and Friday, these lists will be published three times a week on whatever days we find enough space. List No. 9, which was scheduled for today, will appear in tomorrow's column. Be sure to watch for it.

THEY CALLED HER "STONE AGE STELLA" SHE HAD TO SLAVE AWAY EVERY MONDAY AFTERNOON

WHAT ON EARTH ARE YOU DOING IN THE BASEMENT AT THIS HOUR? WE'RE ALL GOING TO THE 2 O'CLOCK SHOW AT THE TIVOLI.
NO MOVIES FOR ME, I'M AFRAID, PHYLLIS. I'VE STILL GOT ABOUT 50 PIECES TO SOAK AND SCRUB, AND THEY'LL TAKE ALL AFTERNOON. AND I THINK I'LL LIE DOWN FOR A WHILE WHEN I GET THROUGH.
WELL, I DON'T WANT YOU TO THINK I'M TRYING TO "SELL" YOU SOMETHING, BUT I DO WISH YOU'D TRY OXYDOL ONCE INSTEAD OF PLUGGING ALONG THE WAY YOU DO.
OXYDOL? THAT'S GRANULATED SOAP, ISN'T IT? BUT I DO USE A GRANULATED SOAP. AND IT SAVES SOME ON SCRUBBING BUT I'D BE AFRAID TO TRY ANYTHING FASTER BECAUSE I SUSPECT THE ONE I USE NOW ISN'T DOING THE COLORS ANY GOOD.
THAT PROVES IT ISN'T OXYDOL! THIS DRESS I'VE GOT ON HAS BEEN WASHED DOZENS OF TIMES IN OXYDOL. YOU REALLY OUGHT TO TRY IT. ALL YOU DO IS SOAK THE CLOTHES FOR 15 MINUTES... NO SCRUBBING OR BOILING.
I COULDN'T BELIEVE IT AT FIRST, EITHER, STELLA. BUT IT IS WONDERFUL.
I GUESS I'LL TRY IT THEN. I CERTAINLY AM NOT GOING TO SLAVE MY LIFE AWAY OVER A TUB IF I DON'T HAVE TO.
LET ME HAVE A PACKAGE OF OXYDOL, PLEASE!
CERTAINLY, MRS. GIBSON. AND I BET YOU LIKE IT. MY WIFE HAS THE PICK OF SOAP IN THE STORE HERE, BUT YOU COULDN'T GET HER TO USE ANYTHING ELSE BUT OXYDOL.
NEXT WASHDAY
NOW WE'LL JUST SEE ABOUT THIS "15 MINUTE SOAKING" MIRACLE. I'LL TRY THESE OLD SUMMER DRESSES FIRST. ALTHOUGH SOMETHING OUGHT TO HAPPEN, IF YOU CAN GO BY SUDS—I'VE NEVER SEEN SO MANY!
WELL, PHYLLIS WAS CERTAINLY RIGHT. WHY, THE DIRT JUST SIMPLY FALLS OUT! AND MY HANDS AREN'T A BIT RED.
THAT AFTERNOON
NOW REMEMBER—IT'S MY TREAT. REALLY, YOU KNOW, I WAS THROUGH LONG BEFORE LUNCH. AND EVERYTHING CAME OUT PERFECTLY BEAUTIFUL. WHY, I FEEL LIKE A CHILD JUST LET OUT OF SCHOOL!
YES—AND IT'S REALLY SAFE—NEVER FADES COLORS. AND WAIT TILL YOU SEE HOW LITTLE OXYDOL COSTS YOU. YOU EVEN GET A THIRD MORE IN A PACKAGE OF OXYDOL THAN WITH OLD STYLE GRANULATED SOAPS.

Discovers Oxydol Rougher On Dirt

But Easiest On Clothes

Mrs. E. P. McDonald
Lincoln, Nebr.

"Oxydol takes the wear out of the washing, because it is so easy on the clothes and at the same time hard on the dirt. Now we wear out our clothes by using them instead of wearing them out by rubbing. And they are clean!"

IF you, too, want the far faster, far whiter way in washing that Mrs. McDonald has found—then you are urged to try this latest discovery of the Procter & Gamble experts, makers of famous Ivory—the New and Improved OXYDOL!

It does 3 things no other soap can do or has ever done:

Cuts washing time 25% to 40% in tub or machine. Hence, gives you your afternoon free!

Gets clothes 4 to 5 shades WHITER, by the scientific whiteness-measuring Tintometer test. Whiter EVEN than other granulated soaps (heretofore considered "whitest washing") can do in TWO washings!

Yet, due to its utterly new and improved formula, colors won't fade; fabric won't wear out! Even cotton prints and children's dainty frocks are safe. Yet, despite its amazing cleaning power, it leaves hands soft and lovely.

It works without back-breaking rubbing. For it works by dissolving dirt—loosens it out in fifteen minutes soaking! So you never have to scrub and boil clothes clean.

Thick 3-inch Suds in Any Water

The New and Improved OXYDOL will make thick "soft water suds" in any water, hard or soft. Without added "softener" or washing preparations. This is why:

It is specially fitted to water conditions in each district where it's sold.

Water in this district, for example, has been tested for "hardness" by expert chemists. Hence, by special formulation, the OXYDOL you get has been "fitted" to it.

You can see the results in the suds. OXYDOL multiplies 500 TIMES in suds—suds as rich as whipped dairy cream! Which means at least twice as much "soap action" as from old-style soaps.

Equally important is the fact that OXYDOL, by dissolving completely, rinses out completely. Thus banishes "soap streaks" from ironing.

And OXYDOL is economical. In buying many ordinary granulated or flake soaps you may have to spend as much as 8⅓ to 30% more to get the same amount of soap. By buying OXYDOL, you get, in some cases, as much as one-third more soap for the same money.

Make This Test

Get OXYDOL today from your grocer and make this two-way test: (1) With a ruler, measure OXYDOL'S thick suds and compare with the suds made by your usual soap—note how long they last; (2) watch the clock to prove to yourself that OXYDOL does loosen dirt out in 15 minutes!

JAGUAR, MEDIC LILY PONS' 2 LOVES

By JANE EADS
(Universal Service)

PARIS, May 11.—Two great loves has Lily Pons. One is a South American doctor, the petite Metropolitan opera diva confided today. The other is her pet jaguar, going away for her at the Bronx Zoo in New York.

Miss Pons declined to reveal the name of the doctor. She said:

"It is enough to say that we love each other and that it is a tragedy.

"To think of marriage now, to attempt marriage again, what with this nomadic career of mine, is simply out of the question. The only solution would be to marry a singer who could go everywhere I went. But I don't love a singer.

"I'm not the kind of person who can fall in love easily and announce every other day my engagement to Mr. So-and-So. I live quietly, simply. For seven years I was married to the same man. Now we are divorced. I love another man, but when, how, where, or if ever I'll marry again, I cannot say. It is tragic—tragic."

Miss Pons' former husband is Auguste Mesritz, Dutch businessman.

As for her pet jaguar, he loved her so much. But he was so jealous she feared for her friends. Sadly she said:

"But every day I have a nostalgia for the animal that is terrible. He was so attached to me and I love him greatly. I feel like I have lost my child. This I know—I am going to get him back in my apartment with me when I return to New York, if I have to get an animal trainer to take care of him."

Miss Pons will shortly give her first concert in London, at Albert Hall. On May 19 she will sail for Buenos Aires for concert appearances.

Auto Victim Collects From Tea Company

James Gally, of North Braddock, was awarded a verdict of $3,500 by a Federal Court jury against the Jewel Tea Company, Inc., of New York. Gally, it was testified, was seriously hurt when struck by an automobile of the defendant company in Hawkins avenue, North Braddock, June 22, 1933.

THE THIN MAN

By Dashiell Hammett

I don't want to make a nuisance of myself."

"Where'd you get it?" I asked.

Got It in Speakeasy

"In a speakeasy on Tenth avenue. I gave a man my bracelet—the one with the emeralds and diamonds—for it."

"And then won it back from him in a crap game," I said. "You've still got it on."

She stared at her bracelet. "I thought I did."

I looked at Nora and shook my head. Nora said: "Aw, don't bully her, Nick. She's—"

"He's not bullying me. Nora he's the only person I got in the world to turn to."

I remembered Nora had not touched her Scotch and soda, so I went into the bedroom and drank it. When I came back, Nora was sitting on the arm of Dorothy's chair with an arm around the girl. Dorothy was sniffling; Nora was saying: "But Nick's not mad, dear. He likes you." She looked up at me. "You're not mad, are you, Nicky?"

"No. I'm just hurt." I sat on the sofa. "Where'd you get the gun, Dorothy?"

"From a man—I told you."

"What man?"

"I told you — a man in a speakeasy."

"And you gave him a bracelet for it."

Still Has Bracelet

"I thought I did, but—look I've still got my bracelet."

"I noticed that."

Nora patted the girl's shoulder. "Of course you've still got your bracelet."

I said: "When the boy comes with that coffee and stuff, I'm going to bribe him to stick around. I'm not going to stay alone with a couple of—"

Nora scowled at me, told the girl: "Don't mind him. He's been like that all night."

The girl said: "He thinks I'm a silly little drunken fool."

Nora patted her shoulder some more.

I asked: "But what'd you want a gun for?"

Dorothy sat up straight and stared at me with wide drunken eyes. "Him." she whispered excitedly, "if he bothered me. I was afraid because I was drunk. That's what it was. And then was afraid of that, too, so I came here."

"You mean your father?" Nora asked, trying to keep excitement out of her voice.

The girl shook her head. "Clyde Wynant's my father. My stepfather." She leaned against Nora's breast.

Nora said: "Oh," in a tone of very complete understanding Then she said, "You poor child." and looked significantly at me.

I said: "Let's all have a drink."

"Not me." Nora was scowling at me again. "And I don't think Dorothy wants one."

"Yes, she does. It'll help her sleep." I poured her a terrific dose of Scotch and saw that she drank it. It worked nicely: she was sound asleep by the time our coffee and sandwiches came.

Nora said: "Now you're satisfied."

"Now I'm satisfied. Shall we tuck her in before we eat?"

I carried her into the bedroom and Nora undressed her.

Young Ministers Called 'Smart Alecks'

ALLENTOWN, May 11.—(AP.)—Dr. Charles A. Schaeffer has a name for those young ministers who say the Apostles' Creed is obsolete and has no place in the worship of the church.

"Smart Alecks" is what Dr. Schaeffer, who is secretary of the board of home missions of the Reformed Church of America, calls them.

ASTOR PARENTS MAY DROP SUIT

LOS ANGELES, May 11.—(AP.)—Indication the parents of Mary Astor, film actress, are ready to drop their suit against her charging failure to support them, was given today by their attorneys.

Mark F. Jones, attorney representing Otto Langhanke, said his client had written him saying he did not wish to be a "burden on our daughter as long as I have anything to support myself and my wife."

He said Langhanke spoke of his wife inheriting a small legacy from an aunt who died recently in Colorado, and that he realized $100 from the sale of furniture in the $200,000 estate of the Langhankes which recently went under the auctioneer's hammer.

The suit charging Miss Astor with failure to support was scheduled to be called for trial late today.

HOMES OFFERED REVIVED DOG

BERKELEY, Cal., May 11.—(AP.)—Dr. Robert E. Cornish, who has been notified by University of California authorities that he must vacate the building in which he is conducting revivication experiments upon a dog, said today he had received several offers of laboratory space, but none had adequate equipment. He said:

"If the animal were moved to any of these places he would probably catch cold and die within a few hours. The university will doubtless allow us a few more days to find a suitable place to keep the dog."

The dog was put to death climatically and revived April 13. Dr. Cornish said it continued to show improvement.

FAVORED CAKE RECIPES ARE SUGGESTED

What an honest sense of achievement we have when our family receives that sincere compliment—"another piece, please!"

Such cakes have a delicate flavor and fragrance, with a fine moist, tender texture which is described by judges of cake as "velvety crumb."

Every one of these cakes is a "velvety crumb" cake if you will follow directions carefully.

LADY BALTIMORE CAKE—3 cups sifted cake flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ cup butter or other shortening, 1½ cups sugar, ½ cup milk, ½ cup water, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ¼ teaspoon almond extract, 3 egg whites, stiffly beaten.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add flour alternately with liquid, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add flavoring; fold in egg whites. Bake in two greased 9-inch layer pans

FREE PORT TALK AT CHAMBER

Roman Kutylowski, of New York, director of the Polish Trans-Atlantic Shipping Company, will speak on the "Free Port of Gdynia," at a noon luncheon meeting today in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium.

The meeting is sponsored by the Henry George Club.

Because of his interest in a free port for Pittsburgh, Mayor McNair yesterday welcomed Kutylowski to the city and conferred with him on his plan to establish a free port here.

Kutylowski pointed out that Gdynia grew in 10 years from a small fishing village to be one of the major European ports because of its free customs zone.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Seating the Dinner Guests

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you kindly settle this argument?

A says if you are giving a dinner party for more than four, the host keeps his place at the table, but the hostess gives up her seat and sits at the right of the guest of honor.

B says the hostess keeps her accustomed seat and the guest of honor, if a gentleman, sits at the left of the hostess, and if a lady at the right of the host, regardless of how many are at the table.

Who is correct?

KATHERINE.

A is not at all correct, and B is only partly so.

The man guest of honor sits at the right of the hostess, and on her left sits the man given the second place of honor. The woman guest of honor sits at the right of the host, and on his left the woman given the second place of honor.

Wedding Reception

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am having a church wedding at four o'clock in the afternoon and following will be a dinner only for the immediate family and bridal party. In the evening I would like to invite about one hundred guests for a reception at my home, and serve light refreshments, such as sandwiches, coffee and cake. Do you think I could enclose a small card with the invitation for this, and if so, how could I express it so that they do not contemplate having a wedding dinner? Could I call this evening party a reception? Z.

If you call this party a "reception" and choose hours that will indicate that they are not a dinner hour, then I am sure that your guests will not be confused. That is, on the card of invitation to the "reception" state the hours, say, "from nine to eleven o'clock."

Bacon Is Nutritious Food, Valuable Diet Aid

Recommended by Physicians for the Child of Two Years. Its Protein, Mineral and Fat Content Are Health Giving Properties.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York. Former Health Commissioner of New York City.

"That bacon smells good—it makes me hungry." This remark seems to be the unanimous verdict when bacon is cooking. It is indeed an appetizing food. Yet even more important is the fact that it is a nutritious food and a valuable addition to the diet.

Bacon is the cured and smoked meat of the breast pieces, sides and back of the pig. Formerly "bacon" meant any part of the meat of the pig, fresh, salted or smoked.

More pigs are raised in the United States than in any other country. We are one of the largest consumers of bacon and other meat products of the pig.

VALUABLE FOOD

This meat is a valuable food and supplies important proteins, minerals and vitamins. These substances aid in the development of strong bones, teeth and the normal growth of the body.

When you purchase bacon be sure that the fat is firm and white and the meat red and lean. Bacon is sold sliced or in whole strips which can be sliced as needed. Keep the bacon covered with wax paper and in the refrigerator or ice-box.

Some persons say they cannot digest bacon. In that event, common sense should cause omission of bacon from the diet. If you know certain foods do not agree with you, avoid them. No one knows better than you what foods to avoid.

I am often asked whether it is best to fry or broil bacon and other fatty meats. The average person easily digests bacon whether it is broiled or fried, but I believe that broiling is the better method of cooking it. If you fry it be sure it is crisp before serving.

EAT WHEN COOKED

The bacon should be cut in thin slices. Best results are obtained by using a hot pan or oven. It is best to eat the bacon as soon as it is cooked because the flavor is spoiled if it is allowed to stand.

I know that it will surprise my readers to learn that many physicians now recommend bacon for the child of 2 years and over. The proteins, minerals and fat content of the bacon are health-giving substances. When properly prepared, bacon is easily digested by the young as well as the old. It stimulates the appetite and aids the digestion of other foods.

Unfortunately you have heard of many unfavorable statements made concerning the value of bacon in the diet. I am confident that many of these are based upon individual opinion and not upon scientific research. May I assure you that for persons of normal health and without digestive complaint, bacon is a beneficial and health building food that may well be included in the daily diet.

MOTHERS' DAY FASHION FETE

More than 175 members of the Irene Kaufmann Settlement will take part in a Mothers' Day fashion fete at the settlement tomorrow and Sunday. Five hundred garments made by sewing classes there will be displayed.

Features of the program will be tap dances on sewing machines and roller skates and a plaid dress drill with 70 girls.

The event is part of the settlement's effort to substitute a national parents' day, which includes a tribute to fathers, for the day now set aside for mothers.

Doctor Praises 'White Wings' For Good Job

NEW YORK, May 10.—(AP.)—New York's "white wings" have learned how to use their brooms to the satisfaction of the City Academy of Medicine's committee on street cleanliness.

Dr. Bernard Sachs, president of the academy and chairman of the committee, reports:

"The men are not only carrying a broom, but they are actually sweeping the streets. Evidently they have been told how to do it."

But, Dr. Sachs added, their white uniforms ought to be abolished. He advocated the substitution of a drab green "as the color white is unsuited to anyone working in the streets."

New Penal Rules Explained By Beck

Changes in regulations governing penal institutions in the state were explained by Attorney Joseph A. Beck, chairman of the western branch, Pennsylvania Committee on Penal Affairs, in Old City Hall yesterday. Prominent among the proposed changes is the replacing of justices of the peace, aldermen and magistrates with an efficient-minded judiciary, modification of parole laws and compulsory purchase of prison-made goods by state institutions.

in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 20 minutes. Spread Lady Baltimore Filling between layers and Lady Baltimore Frosting over cake. Double recipe to make three 10-inch layers.

LADY BALTIMORE FROSTING AND FILLING—1½ cups sugar, ½ teaspoon light corn syrup, ⅔ cup boiling water, 2 egg whites, stiffly beaten, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 6 figs, chopped, ½ cup raisins, chopped, ½ cup pecan or walnut meats, chopped.

Combine sugar, corn syrup and water. Bring quickly to a boil, stirring only until sugar is dissolved. Boil rapidly, without stirring, until a small amount of syrup forms a soft ball in cold water, or spins a long thread when dropped from tip of spoon (240° F.). Pour syrup in fine stream over egg whites, beating constantly. Add vanilla. Continue beating with a rotary egg beater 10 to 15 minutes, or until frosting is cool and of right consistency to spread. Use wooden spoon when too stiff for beater. For filling, add enough frosting to fruit and nuts to make a filling that will spread easily. Spread between layers. Spread remaining frosting on top and sides of cake. Make enough filling and frosting to spread between layers and top and sides of Lady Baltimore cake.

HELD FOR ARSON AFTER PARTY

A bottle of flaming oil, broken in the doorway of a house at 142 Crawford street, today resulted in the arrest of George Taylor, 26, of 22 Congress street, on a charge of arson.

Taylor, police said, had been ejected from the house a short time before after becoming involved in an argument.

Held as material witnesses are Mrs. Jesse Reed, 28, in whose home a party was given; Ellean Constley, 18, of 1842 Arcena street, and I. Cunningham, 35, of 138 Crawford street. All are Negroes.

...TRY THIS TRICK

THERE'S a grand make-over idea in the Spring fashion preference for print coats with print-topped frocks, for plain coats with printed dresses, for ensembles, that contrast rather than match.

Brighten up last summer's dresses with a new contrasting coat—and keep the colors bright with safe, quick, pleasant Silver Dust suds. Silver Dust, you know, is safe for any fabric that water alone won't harm. And Silver Dust actually brightens the colors of any wash material—keeps them looking brighter than the day the dress was new.

P. S. SILK STOCKINGS FREE! Send 10 Silver Dust box tops and your stocking size to Silver Dust, 88 Lexington Ave., N.Y. City. A pair of full fashioned sheer silk hose will be mailed to you free. But if you prefer the big dish towel, send only 2 box tops.

SPEAK UP, SISTERS :-: Glances Into the Realms of Domesticity and Romance :-: By MARION BRUNOT

Strict Father of Former Invalid Spoils Fun

An INVALID all her life. But now she is much better. And her social troubles are just beginning. For her father is very STRICT.

And there are many foreigners among the young people where she lives. For it is a small town from which she hies. These are just a few of the things troubling Lonesome.

She is ALL-AMERICAN is Lonesome . . . and so where is she to locate that illusive boy friend many of the sisters are groaning about to find.

Dear Miss Brunot:

I am one of your girls who read your column every day, and am so interested. I am 19 and have been sick all my life. But this year I am much better. I have always wanted to go out with the other girls and have a good time. But my father is very strict and I have never been permitted to go out with a boy.

Miss Brunot

I am just like a wall flower when I am with my girl friends because all they talk about is the boys. I am attractive looking and would like to have some fun before I am an old lady. I live in a town that is 85 per cent foreign, and that makes it hard to get acquainted. But other girls manage to find the nice boys in my section.

JUST SITS AT HOME

One of the boys has asked me out, but my father wouldn't let me go, and he went and told the other fellows what had happened, and no one else has asked me since. All the girls here have Saturday night dates, but I just sit at home. We all have to go to bed when father does, which is half-past ten o'clock. Please help me.

LONESOME.

My sympathy goes right out to you, sister. It is very uncomfortable to have been ill so much, and that may be one reason why your father is so careful of you now. However, it does seem that every girl of 19 should have some fun, and it is perfectly natural you should crave it. Also no girl can have real friends unless she enters into their conversations, and how can you talk, Lonesome, if everyone converses upon subjects of which you know nothing; boys, for instance.

I suggest you have a serious chat with father, and tell him all your troubles. See that he meets some of the girls you go with and if they are really nice girls, I am sure he will begin to see differently, and let you run around with them.

It is a sad experience for any attractive girl to be sitting at home alone when all her girl friends have boy friends. Saturday night in a small town is no Saturday night at all if one cannot join in the activity of the place.

TACT ADVISED

Surely your father can see reason in this! You are young and tasting of good health for the first time. That ought to rouse his consideration for you. The boy should not have told of his unfortunate experience at your home. And yet perhaps it was natural that he should.

If you are pleasant, talkative, kind and attractively dressed, I am sure the other fellows soon will forget what he told them. Do about it tactfully, Lonesome, and I feel certain your life will right-about-face, and you will be more contented.

Dear Miss Brunot:

I have been going with a doctor for some time. But there seems to be some dirty work going on among some people who know us both. He doesn't answer when I try to talk to him, and doesn't call me up. I was so taken aback when he did all this that I wrote him a letter asking him to send my picture back. But he didn't send it.

Do you think that means he will come back to me? Do you think I was wrong to hang up the receiver? He passed by last Thursday. But I didn't speak to him. I am hoping to hear good news from you. I simply cannot sleep nor eat. I did him no wrong whatsoever.

WORRIED PEG.

Not giving back your photograph looks as if he still is interested. You should have listened to what he had to say over the telephone, and should not have been so quick in hanging up the receiver. Some people are very much insulted when anyone does this, and after all, the very act is rather an insinuation that you are THROUGH. Isn't it?

TALK WITH HIM

You do not say what you wrote in your letter to him, yet you do say you were surprised at the way he acted, which leaves me under the impression you might have written in a hasty manner. Always remember, Worried Peg, that words written in anger often have to be apologized for.

If I were you I would make a special effort to find out exactly why the doctor has been acting the way he does. And if anyone has been trying to come between him and you, stop it by a thorough explanation. Isn't there some place where you will be likely to see him without your having to write or call up? If he is angry, both these methods give him leeway not to answer. Be sure to have a talk with him, though. That is the only way to clear up the trouble.

Dear Miss Brunot:

I am 20 years of age, and go with a boy of 17. He wants to become secretly engaged, and not make dates with anyone but me. And for me to have no one but him. Should I agree? Please consider our ages, Miss Brunot.

A BEFUDDLED GIRL.

Do not become engaged. The lad is too young. Tell him that if you and he both feel the same way two years hence you will then become engaged to him. He should certainly finish high school before entertaining such serious thoughts of any one girl.

Fay King Gets Pathetic Letters From Person Unknown

I'VE KNOW OF A BEAUTIFUL BLONDE SHOWGIRL IN NEW YORK, A NEWSPAPER WOMAN IN HONOLULU AND SEVERAL OTHER PERSONS NAMED "FAY KING"
IF THE LETTERS WEREN'T SO EARNEST I'D THINK IT WAS A JOKE!
I CERTAINLY HOPE HE FINDS HIS FAY KING!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

For a long time some person has written me letters consisting of three or four pathetic lines—as if to a long lost sweetheart.

The letters arrive at my paper every few days, from a city in which I have never been. The first name or initials signed are unknown to me. There is never any return address.

I hope the writer may see this and discontinue them. It is such a waste of good stationery and stamps.

Personally, I have known half a dozen persons named "Fay King," so it is quite likely the writer has known some one of that name.

I do hope he finds again the one to whom he seems so devoted and regrets losing.

I'm not she!

Given in Marriage :: A Sequel to Heart Of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Katie Stands Guard Over Lee Chow

The chagrin and indecision in my little maids' mind at my father's injunction would have affected my laughter muscles in lively fashion had it not been for the seriousness of the problem which confronted me.

But with Lee Chow gone suddenly mad, to all appearances, and placed under restraint in Dicky's vacant room; with Hugh being brought from his self-imposed post by Dicky's hospital bed in answer to Lee Chow's wailing call for him; above all, with the sinister, ambushed shooting of Dicky enveloping me like a smothering blanket, with its terror and mystery, I was in no mood to appreciate Katie's really ludicrous facial contortions.

Katie knew, of course, that there was no possible chance for her to swerve my father from the ultimatum he had given her; but it took her almost a minute to bring herself to the point where she could give up her cherished purpose of "crowing over" Jim.

"All right," she said at last, swallowing painfully. "I no say nuddings to heem 'bout nuddings.

"That is what I want you to do," my father said approvingly. "Come with me now to Mr. Graham's room. But first"—he held up his hand as if he were a court official administering an oath—"word of honor, you're not going to 'crow over' Jim."

KATIE TAKES OATH

Katie gulped again, but put up her right hand in ludicrous imitaton of his.

"Sure ting," she said. "Word of honor."

"All right," my father said, dropping his stern manner and smiling at her genially, "come along."

She followed him out of the room eagerly as might a kitten that scents a saucer of cream at the end of its journey. Lillian went to the door with the evident intention of shutting it, but paused with her hand on the knob.

"He'll be back in a minute or two, I fancy. No use shutting it again."

She relaxed, however, when my father came back, and came into the room. But I noticed with a renewed quivering of my nerves that he shut and locked the door before he did anything else. Patently he was taking no chances upon Lee Chow's getting to our door again.

WAIT FOR HUGH

I was standing with my hands gripping a chair back, and when my father turned back from the door he crossed to me swiftly and put me forcibly but gently into a big chair. Lillian drew two chairs near mine and, sitting down in one, motioned my father to the other.

"Sit down, Chief," she said affectionately. "You'll be worn out with all this."

"On the contrary," he said brightly, "I haven't felt so fit in years. But I will sit down while I wait for Hugh. Literally, there is nothing else to do."

He looked at his watch, then spoke thoughtfully.

"Harry's been gone five minutes. Say five minutes more to the hospital, five minutes to get Hugh away, 10 minutes back here. We've 20 minutes to wait. I fancy Lee Chow will be quiet for that length of time. He appears to be utterly exhausted. And no wonder, poor fellow!"

I could hardly believe I had heard him aright. Was my father actually expressing pity for this man who had so nearly brought death into our household, and was still like a wild beast caged? I did not dare voice that question, but I put another.

"Father," I said hesitatingly, "you promised to tell me what this all meant. Couldn't you do it now, while we are waiting for Hugh?"

:-: :-: Hints for the Household :-: :-:

Leftover pie dough should be securely wrapped in waxed paper and stored at once in a very cold place. It may then be used any time within a week. Strips of dough ½ inch wide and 2 inches long, sprinkled with cheese and browned in a moderate oven are tasty to serve with appetizers, soups or salads. Bits of the dough may be rolled out and fitted into shallow patty pans and when baked the cases serve as containers for creamed foods, pie fillings or fresh or canned fruits.

A circle of pie dough fitted over the top of creamed meat, fish or fowl placed in a baking dish develops into a "pot pie."

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Contrasting Results

Duplicate Contract Bridge unquestionably owes its popular favor to the fact that it so readily lends itself to post-mortems, and the results obtained by one pair or team with a hand can so easily be contrasted with what others have done with the same cards. Thus, while players may not profit from the analysis, they have a chance to see the mistakes they have made both in the bidding and play. The same opportunity does not present itself in Rubber Bridge because only one table of players play the hand and so the benefit of comparative results is lacking.

In a recent team-of-four match in New York City the hand below brought many varying results. At one table South played it at four hearts undoubled, having opened on his sketchy holding with a Preemptive bid, but in most instances it was played for a part-score either in clubs or diadiamonds. The East and West members of the same team in which South was permitted to play the hand at four hearts for a penalty of 450 points reached a contract of three notrump, played by West, who, through accurate reading of the distribution, fulfilled his contract and made an overtrick.

East—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

| 1 ◇ (2) | 1 ♡ (3) | 1 N T (4) | Pass |
| 2 N T (5) | Pass | 3 N T (6) | Pass |
| Pass | Pass | | |

1—West's hand is too strong to pass in Duplicate. In view of the fact that it does not contain the 4 honor-tricks required for a vulnerable notrump bid, West rightly decides to shade the suit biddability requirement, and gives his partner plenty of opportunity for a cheap response.

2—This is a better bid than two clubs at once.

3—Of course, South, with a seven-card suit, correctly overcalls.

4—Rather daring, but West reasons the hand should be played at notrump and hence must show his heart stopper.

5—East assumes that his partner can take care of the heart situation and he has potential tricks in the three remaining suits.

—Again a daring bid.

North, in response to his partner's bid, opened the heart Knave, the deuce was played from Dummy, and South played the seven and West the six. The eight was continued, and South won the Ace and cleared the suit. This told West the distribution of the heart suit. On the second and third tricks West had discarded the two small clubs from Dummy, leaving the Knave-ten alone. It was, of course essential to enter Dummy for a finesse of the clubs, and for this purpose West elected to lead a small diamond to the King. When the club Knave was led South covered with the Queen, and West ofcourse won the trick with the Ace. He returned a club, which North won, and for lack of anything better, returned the suit. When South failed to follow, but instead discarded a small heart, West was able to place at least 10 of South's cards—namely, seven hearts, one diamond and two clubs. After cashing the remaining club, West led the Ace of diamonds, and when South's Queen dropped, the rest of course was easy. The finesse against the Ten of diamonds in the North hand was taken, and the contract of three notrump fulfilled with an overtrick.

BABY BROTHER SLAYS BOY

GILLETTE, Wyo., May 11.—(AP.)—A bullet from a rifle held in the hands of his younger brother, Joel, 4, brought almost instant death to Walter Ohman, 7.

The boys were playing with a .22-caliber rifle which they had taken from the family automobile. When a shot rang out, their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Ohman rushed from the house to meet Joel, who cried out tearfully:

"Boom! Wallie fall down."

The bullet had punctured the boy's heart and spinal column.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Feeding the Invalid Is Problem

"My invalid mother is living with us. She was operated on a short while ago and though she is out of bed, she is still an invalid. I was told to give her a 'soft diet.' Please tell me what is meant by this type of diet."

Dr. Copeland

This is quoted from a recent letter. Also I have received several requests for information about invalid diet. To answer these, it will be necessary to go somewhat into detail.

Sometimes the physician places a patient on a liquid diet. It may be after an operation or when the victim is bedridden, because of sprained or broken limbs. Often it is necessary to institute a liquid diet in the treatment of certain diseases. This is made of milk, orange juice, cocoa, cream soups, broths, thin cereals, raw eggs and fruit juices.

These foods are nourishing and easily digested. They supply the body with important food substances essential to health. A lack of these vital elements deprives the patient of the necessary strength for a speedy recovery.

Milk beverages and milk soups furnish the body with protein. Milk also is an excellent source of minerals. It contains a large supply of lime, phosphorus, iron and magnesia. In addition, all the important vitamins are found in milk. You will see that milk is one of the important foods for the invalid.

Raw eggs are rich in substances necessary for growth. They contain fat, minerals and vitagins. Fruit juices have been used in the liquid diet for many years. They are now being consumed in greater quantities than ever before. They are alkaline in their reaction and help overcome any tendency toward acidity. They also furnish the body with minerals, sugars, vitamins and organic acids.

As the patient improves, his diet is increased and he is put on a "soft diet." This includes all the foods outlined in the liquid diet. In addition, toast, hot cereals, boiled and poached eggs, custards, junkets, ice cream and gelatin desserts are added. Vegetables are frequently included in this diet. They should be carefully cooked and served while hot and tasty. Baked, boiled and mashed potatoes are nourishing and easily digested.

The foods in this diet contain more fuel value than the liquid diet. They are not irritating to the digestive system and are readily digested.

Such foods as salads and raw fruits are generally omitted from the soft diet. Only a small amount of butter or fats is used. Little poultry or meat should be eaten.

A "light diet" is a mixed diet of liquids and solids. But precautions should be taken not to include irritating foods, foods that might place an added burden on the body. It is best to eat simple foods. Cooked vegetables, fresh stewed fruits, chicken, lean meats and fish, soups, simple desserts, cereals and potatoes offer a varied and yet easily digested diet.

Bradford Council Bans Daylight Time

BRADFORD, Pa., May 11.—(INS.)—Citing an act of 1887 limiting their jurisdiction in the matter, City Council today definitely decided that Bradford will not observe daylight saving time in 1934.

Council declined to take action after the city solicitor brought the question of legality to their attention.

FIRE CHIEF DEAF TO AIDE'S CALL

DANSVILLE, N. Y., May 11.—(AP.)—The fire chief, Eugene Steigler, refused to send apparatus to the Sparta home of his assistant, Alonzo Hughes, when a grass fire threatened Hughes' property.

It was because of the ultimatum of the Dansville village board that no aid be given to neighborhood communities unless they gave a $50 guarantee. Sparta did not accept the proposition and Chief Steigler stuck to the bargain.

Neighbors checked the fire before it reached Hughes' buildings.

BOY SCOUTS AID QUEST OF EPIC FOR MOUNT

Exemplyfing the American pride, which its purpose and membership represents, the Boy Scouts of America is bending every effort to provide maximum national participation in the Mount Rushmore National Memorial inscription competition.

Supporting the recommendation of the national executive committee, more than a score Boy Scouts councils in Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and Northern West Virginia are giving enthusiastic support. They represent a membership of approximately 100,000 scouts.

The leaders have augmented the national awards by special prizes for troops in their individual councils. One of these special awards commonly offered is a free week at camp. The idea was originated for the district by Scout Executive H. B. Knepper, of DuBois, Pa. The latest council to follow the example was the Akron Area Council. Theo Foley is scout executive.

The four councils in Allegheny County are conducting their participating unit jointly. Harmar D. Denny, Jr., is committee chairman and all scouts submitting entries from these councils must send them addressed to Mr. Denny, at 2114 Investment Building, Pittsburgh.

Remember that the closing date is drawing nearer. Prepare your 600-word history on the nine specific episodes of history and submit them to the proper committee before midnight, May 30. Do not use more than 600 words and tell the effect each episode had on the growth of the country. The Sun-Telegraph and associated Hearst newspapers invite every man, woman and youth to participate.

CUBA TO 'CRASH' DIVORCE MART

International News Service.

HAVANA, May 11.—A new divorce law, obviously designed to draw the lucrative American divorce trade, was approved by the Cuban cabinet today.

The new law provides for the granting of divorces to foreigners after a residence period of only 30 days in Cuba.

Strongly backed by the Cuban hotel and tourist business, the new law was expected to put the island into keen competition with Mexico, Paris, Riga, Reno and other spots noted for "quick" divorces.

The new 30-day resdence provision for foreigners contrasts with the two-year period required under the old laws, which always did and will continue to apply to Cubans.

Walter Winchell + ON BROADWAY +

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

Wonder why Phil Baker hasn't been signed by the weisenheimers . . . for a feature flicker? . . . Almost all the niggers who started their careers when Phil did—have cooked out there. Considering how popular he is via the air waves—and that he never appeared in a flop show—you'd think the movies would beg him to star for them . . . As a matter of fact—Jimmy Durante waited too many years for the break—but it is here now—and success tastes all the more sugary when it doesn't come easily . . .

For two years a youngster has been parading the Broadway area telling the people that he was my "ghost writer" or that he could arrange news to be printed in my column and even stop it from being published . . . And numerous other fibs . . . I hear so many tales about such birds that long ago I wearied of bothering to catch up with them . . . The same chap had the gall to send me letters with veiled threats—saying among other things—"if I wanted to be nasty, I could tell some things I know about you, etc." . . . Of course, the letters are on file . . . Not long ago he got himself a broadcast job which was described by radio observers as "the most flagrant copy of Winchell yet!" He lasted exactly one broadcast, by the way . . . What to do with such a guy? . . . Forget him, of course, . . . Which was what I did . . . And then I wondered what became of him . . . I just found out—by reading a brief news item in a New York paper . . . It stated: "————, 25 a writer, was sentenced to five days in jail yesterday by Magistrate Erwin in West Side Court. ———— had been fined $10 after he was found guilty of putting a slug in a telephone box."

It was 93 in Chicago the other day—but nobody told me it was that hot until the day ended . . . There ought to be a place in the heavens for the inventor of the theater air-cooling system . . . Cantor's comment in the radio journals didn't surprise me . . . He has been cracking flip about the air critics right along . . . What amuses me is that the boys are taking it that seriously . . . The one critic he likes rarely mentions him? He told me so!

Social News Of Movie Town

By JIMMY STARR

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 11—Hello! Wanderings around Hollywood—the Carmelita Geraghty-Carey Wilson wedding captured the SOCIAL honors with practically everybody showing up for the GORGEOUS reception at the Phil Berg mansion . . . Bill Holmes, Warner film scissor expert (a cutter, you'll say) is the proud poppa of a seven-pound boy . . . . The chairs and hats departments got together at Paramount, in other words, Roy Jones, head of the prop department, married Irene Hulbert, ex of the studios wardrobe dept. . . .

* * *

Sterling Holloway, the latest comic in pictures, just drawled his way into a long-term RKO ticket. He'll be featured.

* * *

The Paramount scenario department must like the masked terror idea. It's used in "Many Happy Returns," just completed, and will be repeated in "Here Comes the Groom."

* * *

Now, you don't have to believe this, but Eddie Nugent was telling about his dog—boasting just like a proud parent, no less.

"My dog," said Eddie, "disappeared for a couple of days. Finally he came back. I looked at him accusingly. "Where is your harness?" I said. And the dog turned around, ran away, was gone for two more days—and came back wearing his harness."

Bill Kay, ex-Paramount scenarist, has just dished up his second novel this year, under the title of "Grub Street, Hollywood."

* * *

About 20 years ago a New York mother with a professional acrobat for a husband tried vainly to maintain peace at home. She had four sturdy boys and one daredevil girl. The boys would insist upon "knocking each other about" while the girl counted the knocks and fastened up innumerable rents with safety pins. Yet they were all good pals.

The brothers are still knocking each other about. Broadway knows them as the Diamond Brothers. They are now known as young riots in an exclusive London cabaret and are also appearing in the British international film, "Give Me a Ring."

Oddest part, perhaps, is that only three brothers work in the act. The fourth is always on hand, however, in case one gets hurt in their "smash" act.

Travel Notes—Hal Wallis, Warner production chief, is in New York (by the time you read this) and planning to do nothing but see shows—and more shows until wifey, Louise Fazenda, arrives (via airplane) and then they'll see Europe for four weeks.

Clare Kummer put her last word on the script of her own play, "Her Master's Voice," for Paramount and grabbed a train for Broadway.

Director Lloyd Bacon yelled "Finished!" to "Hey, Sailor," the Warner movie, and hopped aboard an airplane for a quick glimpse of the bright lights.

* * *

Snoopings . . . Boris Karloff, the Wampas baby star frightener for 1934, has rented the former Katharine Hepburn home for the HAUNTING season . . . Thanks to Hazel Flynn for the letter—and regards to her boss, W. G. Van Schumus (Radio City Theater feller) . . . Mae Clark and Jeannette Loff are the only two (at least, that's all I can find) actresses who really play (and good, too) the pipe organ.

H. B. Warner Stars in Fulton

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

It isn't often that a man who has scored a success in a silent film characterization gets a chance to do the same part in a talkie produced seven years after the original, and again be fortunate enough to merit praise similar to that he received in the earlier photoplay. Yet that is the achievement of H. B. Warner, star of "Sorrell and Son," now on view in the Fulton, with an all English cast in which the name of the star is the only familiar one. "All English" is correct, for Warner, although an American actor for nearly 30 years, is of British birth.

This new talkie version is one that was made in England. Based on the popular novel by Warwick Deeping, it tells the story of a former army officer down on his luck, who is deserted by his wife, and devotes the rest of his life to his son, a young lad at the time of his mother's departure. Years later, when this father's sacrifices have enabled him to become a young surgeon of much promise, she tries to win a share of his love, but the youth, without repulsing her, finds no place in his heart for her, his father having adequately filled the place of both parents.

To do that, he has to begin a new life in the lowest of menial positions, and endure much, but his task, as he sees it, is to make a man of his boy—and he does it. And being a man is the only way in which the boy can repay, for his skill at last proves unequal when stronger hands than his own beckons to his father.

Warner digs deeply into one's sympathies with his portrayal of Stephen Sorrell, and Hugh Williams gives an excellent characterization of the son as a young man. Donald Calthorp is distinguished and human as a surgeon. Margot Grahame and Winifred Shotter, respectively, as the mother and sweetheart of the boy, are satisfactory.

Dramatic Film in Warner Guaranteed Creepy

By ZORA D. UNKOVICH

As you watch fanatical Victoria Van Brett ruthlessly destroy the will of those about her in "Double Door," guaranteed creeper based on the stage play, in the Warner, horror envelops you, horror of the insidious cruelties devised by a mind perverted through pride in a family name.

A sensational plot and fantastic devices are not the means employed to get hold of your emotions, make taut your nerves. It's the terrible hate against all signs of happiness, the unnatural, inhuman emotion of the head of the Van Brett household that makes you shudder.

You hate Mary Morris, long for her retribution, as she plays the part of Victoria. If her presence is not on the screen, her spirit is; you are always expecting to hear her cold voice, draw back at her mad eyes. For she is mad, there is no doubt of it, this lady of one of the "best" families.

Her step-brother Rip (Kent Taylor), dares to marry a nurse, Anne Darrow (Evelyn Venable), but their life is one of unhappiness in the dour old mansion. Anne, fearful of the life before her, rebels but as she and Rip are about to seek their freedom in a home of their own, Victoria imprisons her. The tables, though, are finally turned, and the picture ends with a horrible fate suffered by the insane Victoria.

Anne Revere makes Caroline Van Brett, younger sister, a character who will draw your pity and sympathy. She was once punished by the "Double Doors" and her terror of them is typical of the theme of the picture.

After the horror and tension which, without a break, mark the feature film, comedies, silly as "The New Dealers" and a "Looney Tune" are, offer the necessary letdown. Together with a Pathe News and N. V. A. short they complete the bill.

Odds and Ends

AMONG THE most unusual of the season's books is "It's a Small World," a book about midgets by Burnet Hershey and Walter Bodin. The authors have done a skillful job on this strange theme, and you finish the book with the feeling that you have been privileged to gaze at another world. I know far more about midgets than I do about my everyday companions. And I am not referring to intellects, either.

Among the characters in "It's a Small World" is Frank Halpert. Halpert lives in Brooklyn and is employed by a Wall street brokerage house. His clothes, all custom-made, from his 6½ hat to his five-inch shoes, are faultless.

He has much charm, say the authors, and has many warm friends among men and women of normal size. Several of these are attractive and marriageable women with whom he is frequently seen in public. They treat him just as they do any of their other men friends and are careful never to make any reference to the difference in their sizes. Halpert is 4 feet 2 inches tall.

He has never married, a fact which has caused considerable polite curiosity among his acquaintances. There has never been any question of his eligibility. Yet his one romance never reached the knot-tying stage.

Halpert was to have been married to a woman he had known for several years. But their engagement was broken, at his request, and without explanation to the outside world. There is no bitterness, and they remain good friends.

"Why didn't you marry that girl?" a friend asked him one day. "I thought it was all set."

The midget shrugged his shoulders.

"Children," was his reply. "I was thinking of the children that would surely have arrived with the years."

His friend was bewildered, and Halpert smiled.

"You see," he went on, "being a midget has its handicaps."

The other man still failed to get the drift.

"I don't understand you," he expostulated. "I don't see what you have to worry about. I thought that the children of midgets are almost always normally tall."

The midget nodded glumly.

"That's just what worries me," he replied. "Who in blazes wants to go home every night to a houseful of brats who'll be bigger than their father almost before they're out of baby clothes?"

* * *

"TODAY," writes Jerry Cooper, "you printed a column of advice to Leonard Lyons, telling him how to become a success as a columnist. You told him nine things he should do; and then in successive paragraphs you told him he should never do any of those nine things.

"Judging from your advice, I guess the best formula for embryonic columnists is the following: Never know what you want to do. Be sure you don't know how it should be done. And then go ahead and don't do it!"

* * *

FROM his home in Absecon N. J., Mr. Paul Learn objects to the column's slogans for American heiresses. "Change Your Count Before Leaving" and "Wanna Buy a Duke?" he thinks, are not quite appropriate. His suggeston is:

"Be smart, Change Your Earl Every 500 Miles!"

I DON'T know whether Johnny Winkler included this little anecdote in his book on Morgan. But Dick Berger unfolded the yarn the other night, and I thought it pretty cute.

Plenty of years back the elder Morgan paid a visit to the home of the late Dwight W. Morrow, in Jersey. Morgan had a rather large and bulbous nose, and Mrs. Morrow had a secret worry about the situation. Elizabeth and Anne Morrow (the present Mrs. Lindbergh) were both children then, and their mother was afraid they might pass some frightening comment on the Morgan nose.

Tea was served, and the children were introduced to the financial genius. Mrs. Morrow then attempted to hurry them from the room before either child said anything.

Half-way up the stairs Anne turned around.

"Goodby, Mr. Morgan," she cried. "Goodby."

Morgan waved a hand. Mrs. Morrow's heart was in her throat.

"That's a good little girl," she called. "You've said goodby to Mr. Morgan. Now go right to your room."

The child disappeared without another word. Mrs. Morrow heaved a sigh or relief. Thank heaven, neither child had insulted Mr. Morgan by referring to his nose! she turned to the great man with a smile.

"And now, Mr. Morgan," she said, "how many lumps of sugar will you take in your nose! . . .

U. S. CUP GOLFERS BEAT BRITONS IN FOURSOMES, 3-1

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Bush Edges Every Club, Ranks Alone In National, Boston Feat Not Record.

Dykes May Trade Haas, Mexican Boxer Favored, Walker Cup In Balance.

The fact that Guy Bush is tied by only Red Ruffing for the leadership of all the pitchers of both major leagues for the present season, each having a record of five victories and no defeats, draws attention to another distinction held by the Cub right-hander. Among 51 hurlers in the National League who have pitched 20 or more games to decisions, Bush is the only one who can boast an edge over every club he has faced. In a little more than 10 years of Bruin service, the Mississippi Mud Cat has won 139 games against 91 defeats, a percentage of .604, and not a club in the league has been able to break even with him.

Guy Bush

The Reds have been Guy's easiest prey. He has beaten them 22 times in 30 games up to date. The Cards have been his hardest foemen, his margin over them being only two games—sixteen victories against 14 defeats. Against the Dodgers, Bush has won 21 games and lost nine; against the Braves, won 27 and lost 16; against the Giants, won 19 and lost 17; against the Pirates, won 17 and lost 13, and against the Phils, won 17 and lost 14. If Lonnie Warneke wins his next game against Cincinnati, he will parallel Bush's record, as he is tied with the Reds and has a bulge on all the other clubs. However, Warneke has pitched only 70 games to Bush's 230.

FOUR STRAIGHT TRIPLES NOT NEW RECORD

American League dopesters are taking in a bit too much territory in asserting that a new major league record was established by Red Sox batters in a game against the Tigers at Boston this week, when four triples in succession were belted out in the fourth inning by Carl Reynolds, Julius Solters, Rick Ferrell and Bucky Walters. It's a new American League record, all well enough, but it only equals the all-major league mark, which was created in the National 32 years ago. Pittsburgh pitchers were the victims of that slugging spree, four Brooklyn batters in succession socking them for three-baggers in the third inning of a game played on August 23, 1902.

The Cubs in 1902 and the Reds in 1926 were other National League clubs to make four triples in one inning, but the hits did not come in succession in either instance. Prior to the recent four in a row by the Red Sox, the high mark in the American League for triples in one inning was three. Four times that total was made in succession—by the A's in 1903, by the White Sox in 1905 and 1920, and by the Senators in 1920. The White Sox and Tigers in 1922 and the Yankees in 1924 and 1928 also made three, but not consecutively.

HAAS MAY GO TO TIGERS FOR DOLJACK

One of the first moves of Jimmy Dykes, the new White Sox manager, in his plan to shake up the disappointing club may be the trading of Outfielder George Haas for Frank Doljack, utility fly chaser of the Tigers. Chicago expected to go along this season with Al Simmons, Evar Swanson and Haas as the regular outfield, but in the first two weeks of the season the entire trio didn't make as many hits as Zeke Bonura, the rookie first baseman. Haas has continued in his spring slump, and the Pale Hose chiefs may decide to get rid of him and acquire a younger man for his place.

George Haas

In addition to asking waivers on Pitcher Vic Frasier, the Tiger bosses have expressed a willingness to trade Doljack, and negotiations now are being carried on which are expected to result in a swap for Haas. Doljack went to Detroit from the Wheeling club in 1930. Haas, who was a Pirate in 1923 and 1925 and was farmed to Williamsport, Oklahoma City, Pittsfield and Birmingham between those seasons, was part of the big sale that sent Simmons and Dykes to the White Sox from the A's winter before last.

TIP ARIZMENDI TO SUCCEED CHOCOLATE

Many boxing men in the East, including Tony Canzoneri, who knows about him from personal ring contact, are of the opinion that Baby Arizmendi has the best chance to be the winner of the elimination tournament being held in New York to determine Kid Chocolate's successor as world featherweight champion in the eyes of the Empire State Commission. The Mexican meets Al Roth in one of the two 10-round elimination bouts on the bills for tonight, the other bringing together Mike Belloise and Petey Hayes.

Arizmendi first attracted wide attention when he defeated Fidel La Barba in Mexico City in 1932. He also has won decisions over Freddie Miller, the N. B. A. champion; Tommy Paul, Speedy Dado, Eddie Shea, Young Tommy, Newsboy Brown, Archie Bell and Eddie Shea, losing verdicts to Miller, Dado, Brown and Young Tommy. He is 20 years old.

HARD CONTRACT TO RETAIN WALKER CUP

While finding some encouragement in the tradition that the United States never has been defeated in competition with Great Britain for the Walker Cup, emblematic of international team supremacy in amateur golf, having won it seven times since the start in 1922 by the one-sided total score of 62 to 22, Americans are not blind to the fact that the retention of the trophy in the matches at St. Andrews today and tomorrow is the hardest contract Uncle Sam's representatives have been up against in the entire series.

George Dunlap

Twice before, in 1923 and 1926, the United States golfers managed to win on that difficult course, but only by the tight squeak of 6½ to 5½. This year, a fairly helpful player named Bobby Jones is missing, and in addition the British team is unusually formidable, including such established stars as Hon. Michael Scott, the 56-year-old champion; Cyril Tolley, Roger Wethered, Eric Fiddian, Eric McRuvie, Leonard Crawley, Tony Torrance and Jack McLean, and such newcomerss as Henry Bentley and Sam Mackinlay. Even though the originally threatened handicap of having to use the larger American ball on the windy course is escaped, it will be a huge job to beat that array.

However, it isn't hopeless. The United States team is one of the best ever sent across the sea. Capt. Francis Ouimet has a wealth of talent at his command in Johnny Goodman, American open champion; George Dunlap, amateur king; Max Marston, H. Chandler Egan, Gus Moreland, Lawson Little, Johnny Fischer and Jack Westland. To defeat that group, plus American spirit, will call for a whole lot of golf, and Ouimet's warriors must be conceded a chance to win right up to the finish of what appears likely to prove one of the closest fights in the history of the Walker Cup.

Walker Cup Stars in Action at St. Andrews Golf Course

CHANDLER EGAN

Three stars of the United States Walker Cup golf team, which began play today in the international battle with England over the historic St. Andrews course in Scotland. Egan and Ouimet are veterans, and Dunlap, the American amateur champion, is one of the newer stars. Ouimet and Dunlap were beaten in the foursomes today, while Egan, teamed up with Max Marston, won. International News Photograph Service picture shows the trio during a practice round.

PIE BELIEVES AILING ARM NEARLY FIT

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Pie Traynor sat in the clubhouse late yesterday afternoon and spun his right arm around. After giving it three or four whirls, the Pirate captain smiled and remarked with much feeling:

"I think it is going to be as good as ever."

If Pie Traynor's arm returns to the power it had when he broke in with the Pirates more than a dozen years ago, his career should be extended many seasons, for Traynor "carried a gun" when he reached the Bucs back in 1920.

Traynor disclosed he has been taking X-ray treatments with a view of getting at the seat of the trouble. A trace of pus in his gums was sufficient to justify some injections and these have been given.

OUT TWO WEEKS

Pie, as you may recall, left the lineup in Cincinnati more than two weeks ago. At that time it was announced that he would rest for a few days before returning to his post, but many members of the club felt that Pie would be fortunate if he were able to get back on the job in a month.

An entire month may elapse, at that, before Traynor can take up his third-base duty, but in the event his arm is cured it will have been a month of idleness well spent: When he tossed away his glove in Cincy he was in very bad shape.

The special treatment which Traynor has been getting in the past week has built up Pie's hopes. He actually thinks his arm will be O. K. again. It has been bad for several years.

INJURED AT PLATE

Harold says his arm was accidentally injured by Jimmy Wilson, present Quaker boss, in a jam play at the plate. Jimmy had to dive to make a play on Pie, and in doing so he landed on Traynor's shoulder. Recalling the incident, Pie observed:

"I knew at the time something went wrong, for I could hear a snap at the shoulder. I guess I should have left the lineup then and had it treated, but we were in the race, and I stayed in."

Pitcher Heinie Meine was ordered to bed yesterday after he was found to be suffering with the flu. There has been an epidemic of ailments in the Pirate camp, but it apparently is wearing away.

Rain prevented the contest scheduled yesterday between the Pirates and Phillies. The postponed game will be played at Forbes Field as a part of a doubleheader on Tuesday, June 26.

CHILLY SAUCE

In view of his four hits and sensational fielding of Wednesday one would think that Dick Bartell had had sufficient satisfaction for one series with the Pirates. But Dick was rarin' to go yesterday when the Pirate-Philly game was called off.

This writer went to the Quaker clubhouse to talk with Manager Wilson and some of his boys. Richard the Lionhearted was disrobing after having dressed for action. He shouted:

"Well, you fellows are pretty lucky. We were all set to hand you another trimming if it hadn't rained."

Boss Jimmy also had a few pertinent remarks to make. Quoth Jim:

"When we take a licking, all you can read in the papers is stuff about how terrible the Phillies looked. When we put on a good exhibition, the scribes say the defeated club had an off day and was very bad.

be so hot, but when you see any member of this club loafing it is real news. Nobody has loafed yet, but if anybody would be foolish enough to get lazy he'll be yanked out of his stupor with a fine. It's silly to dress for a ball game and then fail to hustle."

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE INDIAN WOLFMAN—In 1832, a very unusual child was born to a tribe of Hesquiat Indians on the west coast of Vancouver Island, British Columbia. The old custom of naming an Indian according to his prowess or traits soon gave to this child the name of Kilm-ith-ka, which means Wolfman. He ran about on all fours with the agility of a dog. He had no desire for the companionship of man, ate like a wolf, growled menacingly over his food, never attempted to stand erect, and he never articulated a human word. Instead of teeth he grew wolf-like fangs, and his guardian built for him a large kennel, where he lived in semi-domestication. Kilm-ith-ka outlived many of his generation and keepers, and died at the ripe age of 100 years. THE CEMETERY BOY—Fred Hopton, Jr., is the son of Supt. Hopton, Allegheny Cemetery, Pittsburgh. Fred was born in the West View Cemetery, of which his father was superintendent, and says he began where millions leave off! FIRE ON THE SABBATH—On January 11, 1931, an alarm was sent to the Fire Department of Huizen, Netherlands, indicating that the villa De Kruidhof was on fire. The Fire Department refused to respond, saying that it was Sunday and a day of rest. An alarm then was sent to the Police Fire Department of the neighboring city of Naarden, which, disregarding the day of rest, promptly responded.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 11.—(AP.)—American golfers' first venture of the 1934 campaign in international competition was crowned with success today as the United States Walker Cup foursomes won three out of four matches from their British rivals. Eight singles matches will be played tomorrow.

Johnny Goodman, bold, young United States open champion, and his stocky, square-shouldered partner, W. Lawson Little, made a runaway of their match with the crack British team, Roger Wethered and Cyril Tolley, winning, 8 and 6.

The other American victories were scored by 50-year-old H. Chandler Egan and Max Marston, who defeated the Hon. Michael Scott, British captain, and Sam McKinlay, 3 and 2, and Gus Moreland and Jack Westland, who conquered Harry Bentley and Eric Fiddian, 6 and 5.

OUIMET-DUNLAP LOSE

Francis Ouimet, bespectacled captain of the American side, and George T. Dunlap, Jr., American amateur titleholder, were the lone Americans to dip their colors. Waging a losing battle all the way, Ouimet and Dunlap fought gamely and doggedly, but were vanquished by Eric McRuvie and Jack McLean, 4 and 2.

The results of today's matches gave the American players a flying start in their attempt to stretch their string of consecutive team victories to eight. A British team has yet to win in the biennial competition, although they have threatened in 1923 and 1926.

Three victories and one halved match in tomorrow's singles warfare will clinch victory for the United States. The cards:

LIVELY BALL HELPS CUBS WIN HIGH-SCORE GAMES

CARDS SWEEP CLOSER TO LEADERS

Associated Press.

Events of the past two days have confirmed sundry surmises that this year's edition of the Chicago Cubs was built around the new and livelier National League ball and the short right field at Wrigley Field.

A strong wind blowing toward th right field stands made conditions just right for the long hitters of the Cubs and Brooklyn Dodgers the last two days, and 13 home runs have been the net result. Brooklyn got a little the better of the home run rivalry, but the Cubs won both games, pounding out a 12-to-8 decision yesterday, although outhit, 16-14. As a result Chicago stretched its league lead to a game and a half over three rivals.

While Lon Warneke was staggering through to win the game which saw Chuck Klein wallop his eighth homer, Gabby Hartnett his sixth and Tony Cuccinello his second in two days, Pittsburgh's game with the Phillies was rained out and the Cardinals took their second straight from the Giants, 5 to 4.

Jim Mooney's relief pitching after Bill Hallahan had been knocked out in three rounds and some clever base running by Pepper Martin and Joe Medwick gave the Cardinals their eleventh victory in 12 games after they had trailed by three runs at the start. The Cincinnati Reds whipped the fifth-place Braves, 5 to 2.

Lou Gehrig put on a one-man show in the American League's headline game, figuring in every one of the Yankees' scoring spurts that brought them a 13-to-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox. He poled two home runs and two doubles to drive in seven runs before retiring after five innings.

Cleveland's Indians gave Boston a six-run start in the first inning, then came from behind to win, 11 to 10.

The Athletics gained a 5-to-3 victory over Detroit on home runs by Bob Johnson and Pinky Higgins and the four-hit pitching of Roy Mahaffey and Alton Benton.

RAIN CURTAILS M.-A. PLAY

Rain sliced the Mid-Atlantic League's second day program squarely in half, only two of the four scheduled games being played.

In the most exciting of the two contests played, Dayton's scrappy Ducks rallied in the tenth inning against Zanesville to score two runs and beat the Grays, defending champions, 9 to 7, at Zanesville. Going into the ninth inning with a lead of 7 to 4, the Ducks faltered and the Grays knotted the count with a three-run rally. Bergman relieved Bartholomew on the slab for Dayton in the tenth and turned Zanesville back.

At Springfield, the Pirates again failed to find their batting eyes and were beaten by Huntington, 9 to 6. The Pirates collected only five hits from the deliveries of Sunkel, Vandenburg and McLean, while Huntington pounded Trotter and Hardway for 15. A five-run drive in the ninth inning won for the West Virginians.

SOFTBALL ENTRY BLANK

Amateur Softball Tournament Editor,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph:

Please enter my team in your Western Pennsylvania Amateur Softball Tournament.

..... (Team) ..... (Manager).

..... (Address) ..... (Section of City).

..... (State if outside City limits).

(Upon receipt of entry, cards to be filled in with additional information will be sent to managers.)

LEAGUE PLAN FOR SOFTBALL TOURNAMENT

Amateur softball teams which will compete in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's tournament to determine the champions of Western Pennsylvania will find themselves in small leagues during the early stages of the competition, one of the most interesting methods of elimination ever devised to carry on sustained interest over a period of many weeks.

When the entry list closes the teams will be grouped in brackets or groups of eight teams arranged in close territorial proximity. During the first seven weeks they will play a round robin of one game, and at the finish the first two teams in each group or small league will have qualified for the finals, which will be conducted over a span of several weeks to permit of completion of the eliminations in time to allow the senior champion to compete in the National tournament in Chicago, slated for September 6, 7 and 8 under the auspices of the Chicago American, a Hearst newspaper.

PLAY FOR ALL CLASSES

This is a tournament in which teams of all calibers and classifications have a chance to win laurels, for the competition is split up among senior, intermediate and junior teams, and there will be play also for commercial or industrial teams and girls' teams. Senior and girls' teams will be made up of players of any age. Intermediate players must not be more than 21 years old before June 15, and junior players not more than 18 years old prior to the same date.

A. A. Stagg, former coach at the University of Chicago, is president and secretary of the Amateur Softball Association of America, under whose sanction the tournament is being staged. Other members of the advisory committee include Maj. John L. Griffith, president of the National Collegiate Athletic Association; Rt. Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, director of the National Catholic Youth Organization; Nat Holman, of the Young Men's Hebrew Association; Edward L. Hayes, national commander of the American Legion; J. L. Bingham, assistant to the president of the A. A. U.; John Leslie, of the Canadian A. A. U.; Elmer F. Layden, athletic director of Notre Dame and formerly of Duquesne University; Col. Charles J. Dieges, of the Military Athletic League; Edward J. Geiger, sports editor of the Chicago American; James P. Phelan, football coach of the University of Washington; George A. Barton, sports editor of the Minneapolis Tribune; Louis W. Mack, National Chef de Gore, 40 & 8; Grant P. Ward, member of the Ohio Legislature; Herbert P. Reynolds member of the basketball rules committee; Sec Taylor, sports editor of the Des Moines Register and Tribune; Walter Hakanson, director of Y. M. C. A. softball; Harry Berz, president of the Illinois-Western Skating Association; J. J. Lipp, prominent Chicago sports official, and R. K. Atkinson, of the Boys' Club of America.

SEND IN ENTRY NOW

Leo H. Fischer, of Chicago, is president, and M. J. Pauley, of Chicago, secretary-treasurer, of the Association.

A ruling of Avery Brundage, president of the A. A. U., with which the association is affiliated, is that it is not necessary for players in the tournament to obtain A. A. U. sanction to compete. The Softball Association's sanction is sufficient.

Managers of teams, send in your entry NOW.

Hudson Regatta Interests Local Fans

Motor boat racing followers in the Pittsburgh district, keenly alive to the sport this year with the impending William Randolph Hearst-Oakmont Boat Club two-day regatta to be held at Oakmont, Saturday and Sunday, July 14-15, are vitally interested in the staging of the seventh annual Albany-to-New York race on the Hudson River, to be staged tomorrow.

Sixty-two drivers, eight more than last year, already are in the list and additional entries will be received up to post time. Gar Wood, Jr., will drive a boat in the class A race.

REGATTA HUGE TECHNICAL PROBLEM

Technicians will play a big part in the success of the Hearst-Oakmont Boat Club Gold Cup outboard motorboat regatta to be staged in the Allegheny River at Oakmont, Saturday and Sunday, June 14-15, and the committee arranging the event is fortunate in having a number of capable men along these lines on its staff.

E. J. Winkleman, one of the officials, has been particularly active in the preliminary arrangements. It has been his duty to survey and lay out the course and mark the spots for the buoys and pits. John J. Hetrick is chairman of the technical committee. Charles A. Heymers will be the starter and F. B. Cooper will be in charge of the timing, with Fred H. Benjamin chief scorer and J. C. Edgar serving as referee. Dr. J. Procopio is in charge of the first aid committee and Dr. J. Staunton Saling is chairman of the general committee.

Chronometers and other technical instruments are necessary for the proper conduct of the meet. A loud speaker arrangement will keep the crowd informed of everything that transpires during the running of the various heats in the two days' program. Every detail of the regatta will be conducted in conformance with the rules and regulations of the American Power Boat Association, under whose auspices the regatta is sanctioned.

RUNYAN, LOEFFLER OPPOSE ELDRED, PARKS ON LINKS HERE

STAR GOLFERS IN MATCH AT HIGHLAND

By TOM BIRKS

Pittsburgh golfers have an opportunity to watch Paul Runyan, professional from White Plains, N. Y., in action this afternoon when the outstanding money winner of the winter campaign teams up with Emil Loeffler, of the Oakmont Country Club, to oppose Vincent Eldred, of Highland, West Penn open champion, and Sam Parks, Jr., of South Hills, in a four-ball, best-ball, 18-hole medal play match over the links of the Highland Country Club.

Runyan, who arrived in town this morning, was the sensation of the winter tourneys. He is rated as the greatest golfer to arise in these United States since the heyday of Bobby Jones, and is an overwhelming favorite in the national open tourney.

The three other competitors need no introduction to the local golfing fraternity. Eldred can rise to brilliant heights at any time. He is an out and out money player, the bigger the gallery and the tougher the going, the better he plays. Sam Parks was raised on the Highland course. Loeffler can also be depended upon to win a few holes for his nationally known partner. The match is scheduled to get under way at 2 o'clock.

At a meeting held at the Fort Pitt Hotel last night, committees were named to make arrangements for the national public links tournament, scheduled for the South Park course July 30-August 4. The meeting was in charge of J. D. O'Neill, local representative of the public links committee of the U. S. G. A. Another meeting will be held May 2. The committee rosters follow:

Railroad and local transportation—Byers, Haddock, and Viernellier.

Caddies—E. E. McCoy.

Prizes—Gumbert, Jerry Ryan, Heimert, Schafer, Douglas Irwin, George Stanger, George Cottle and Messing.

Scholastic golfers swing into action today with a full program of matches in all four divisions of the Interscholastic Conference. The schedule:

Section II—Sewickley vs. Aspinwall at Harmar; Springdale vs. Shady Side Academy at Field Club; Wilkinsburg vs. University School at Fenhurst.

Section III—Prentwood vs. Bellevue at Highland; Dormont vs. Central Catholic at Stanton Heights; Turtle Creek vs. Mt. Lebanon at St. Clair.

NET LEAGUE RE-ALIGNED

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Stormy weather played havoc with the local college net card yesterday, but failed to prevent the executive committee of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association from convening at the Harvard-Yale-Princeton Club at lunch time and deciding finally on the make-up of the tri-divisional P. T. A. Inter-Club League. The session brought a slight revision of the setup released a fortnight ago, the circuit as currently constituted to consist of three six-team groups.

Upon the urgent plea of Capt. Carlton Hughes that his Stanton Heights followers have grown so numerous that they can compose two squads of first-class caliber, it was determined to grant to the North Aiken aggregation the unprecedented right to place two representative outfits in Division A.

Definite information that "John Brown's Body," the crack contingent of youngsters that came close recently to entering the competition under the Westmoreland Country Club banner, has joined Belmont and will cavort under the title of Belmont Racquet Club, as distinguished from Jim Patin's original Belmont Tennis Club host of Division B, fixed the top sector list as follows: P. A. A., Stanton Heights No. 1, Stanton Heights No. 2, University Club, Rockwood and Belmont.

Lifting of the Stanton Heights Seconds from Division B left a vacancy in that wheel. The hole will be plugged by Westinghouse Seconds, dubbed now for clarity Westinghouse Electrics.

Meanwhile Chairman Bill Clardy announces a widespread response to his call to arms for the annual P. T. A. tennis night pickup doubles-buffet supper affair at the Pittsburgh Golf Club tomorrow. Names of contenders in the qual event will be received by Frank Marcley at the Westinghouse Club, Churchill 0280, until this evening.

In the course of the gathering, Chairman Howard Burgwin and his sanction and schedule committee aim to meet and devise draft of the Inter-Club League card.

The Duquesne-Geneva varsity contest on the Bluff was halted by rain ere it could get well started yesterday, while the Carnegie Tech-W. & J. skirmish, booked for the Skibo lot, failed even to begin. The former joust will not be played, due to the heavy Duquesne program of the next three weeks; an attempt, however, will be registered to update the Plaid-President encounter.

BELTZHOOVER NINE FACES HOMEWOOD

Flushed with its victory over the Parmelee nine, the Homewood-Brushton entry in the City League race swings into action again this evening with the Beltzhoover club providing the opposition. The game is scheduled for the Homewood playgrounds.

It was a well-balanced outfit that Bill Dalzell exhibited in the opening game. Lloyd Bell, the outfielder, to whom Dalzell has entrusted the job of leading the team on the field, is a capable player and spends much of his time instructing the other boys on the club.

If there is a weak spot in the lineup, the Parmelee game did not bring it out. Bruce, who pitched and won his game, has had plenty of experience and should win many games for the East Enders. Lefty Brinker has been signed to bolster the slab staff. Ray Bond, Jerry Levey and Beggs all hustled in the infield, while Whitey Latusick, with his pepper behind the bat, puts plenty of life in the club.

At Dormont the Mt. Oliver club is the attraction.

With appropriate ceremonies, the opening game of the West Penn League campaign will be celebrated at Pitcairn this evening, with the Bellevue nine providing the opposition.

The Books and Vaughans turned in triumphs in City League engagements last evening. The Books had their hands full in taming the ambitious Mt. Oliver tossers, 5 to 2, at Olympia Park. Foster was in fine form for the victors and gave up only four hits.

The Vaughans got off to an early lead to defeat Beltzhoover, 8 to 4. O'Connor and Humanic led the Vaughan attack, the latter getting a double and a triple. The scores by innings:

| | | | | | | | | | | R. | H. | E. |

| Mt. Oliver | 0 | 2 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | — | 2 | 4 | 0 |

Batteries—Humanic and Tumelty; Nellis and Lentz.

In the Greater Pittsburgh League, the Verhovays downed the Ambassadors, 3 to 1. Playing at Coshocton, O., the Pittsburgh Crawfords walloped the Coshocton Independents, 11 to 1. The score by innings:

| | | | | | | | | | | R. | H. | E. |
| Crawfords | 5 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 1 | 3 | 1 | 0 | — | 11 | 14 | 2 |

The Homestead Grays will be the attraction at the Salt Works grounds this evening, meeting the J. J. Vaughan Club, of the City League. The game is scheduled for 6:30 o'clock. The Posey aggregation is very popular with North Side fans, and a large crowd is expected to watch the battle.

NINE TO RUN IN PREAKNESS

BALTIMORE, May 11.—(AP.)—Nine fleet 3-year-old colts, including Mrs. Dodge Sloane's Cavalcade, winner of the Kentucky Derby, and his highly regarded stablemate, High Quest, today were named for the forty-fourth running of the $25,000 Preakness over one and three-sixteenths miles at Pimlico tomorrow.

The field, small but select, also includes Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Discovery, the big chestnut son of Display, which finished in second place, three lengths back of Cavalcade, in the Derby, and Mrs. Frank J. Heller's Agrarian, third in the rich Kentucky race.

Bob Smith, trainer for Mrs. Sloane's Brookmeade stable, also named Anarchy, giving the New York and Florida sportswoman a powerful hand for the second important 3-year-old stake of the season. Not more than two of the trio are expected to go to the post, however.

The remainder of the field includes Mrs. F. A. Carreaud's Time Supply, Mrs. Payne Whitney's Spy Hill, Norman Church's Riskulus and George Willing, Jr.'s, Swiftsport.

SPORTS PARTY TONIGHT

A roundup of old-time athletes and sport fans of the East Pittsburgh and Braddock districts will be held tonight at Hungarian Hall, Cable avenue. A program of entertainment has been arranged. Refreshments will be served.

SPORT VIGNETTES

They tell a good story about Alan Gould, brilliant sports editor of the Associated Press, at the Kentucky Derby . . . He arrived at the A. P. office in Louisville the night before the race and sat down to write a story . . . "There's not a blooming thing to write about," he complained as he sat before a typewriter looking into space . . . "Nothing new, nothing that hasn't been written before." . . . Outside fire engines were clanging along making a terrific din . . . Finally Alan complained about the noise. . . . "Wish those danged engines would quit gadding about," he said . . . "The chief must be taking all of his friends out to dinner. Wish he'd cut it out." . . . After a while he asked of a copy boy standing nearby, "Where do you suppose they're going?" . . . "I KNOW where they're going," replied the boy. "They're going to the race track. It's on fire."

Another Derby story . . . About Mack Garner, the veteran jockey, who won the race on Cavalcade after 11 unsuccessful tries . . . Eleven years ago he thought he won on In Memoriam, but the judges posted Zev's number, with Earl Sande up . . . Later, in the Latonia Derby, Garner and In Memoriam won over Zev and Sande in a race which didn't carry the thrill of a Derby victory, and there was a clamor for a third meeting to determine just which was the better horse . . . They met in a two-horse match race at Churchill Downs, and this time they thundered down the stretch and across the wire neck and neck . . . Again Garner thought he had won, but once more Zev's number went up on the board . . . Reporters gathered around the jockeys for statements at the finish . . . There was little Mack, tears streaming down his grimy face, his voice choked with emotion. . . . "Tell 'em," he said, "by God, my horse win!" . . . He was the most unhappy man in America that day . . . Last Saturday his happiness knew no bounds as he finally crowned his racing career with a Derby triumph, 11 years after he thought he had won the same classic.

The Derby influence: . . . A Pittsburgh mounted policeman galloping to the city stables at the end of the day's work . . . "Hey!" from a sidewalk onlooker, "who do you think you are — Cavalcade?" — HARRY KECK.

"First Nights in NEW YORK"

muses the Epicure, "Remind me of life at The Warwick at all times. Celebrities in abundance, the atmosphere of glamour, the anticipation of something new (excepting that at The Warwick there's scarcely ever a whisper of criticism from the sophisticated). There's good reason for the choice of first nighters who call this home. And not the least of these is a famed cuisine and a genuinely whole-souled hospitality."

STOCKS BRACE AS WALL ST. CHEERS UP

NEW YORK, May 11.—(AP.)—Signs of internal strength appeared in the stock market today. The selling waves of yesterday seemed to have subsided to occasional ripples and sentiment, as a whole, was a bit more cheerful.

There was little news of outstanding importance to shares, but observers spoke of an "oversold" condition and the hesitancy of the bears to expand short commitments. There was no rush on the buying side, however, and, during the greater part of the session, the trading pace was the slowest of the week.

Grains were nervous under profit-taking based on forecasts of rain in the drought-stricken districts. Cotton was fairly steady, but silver futures were in supply at sizable declines as Secretary Morgenthau went into another conference with the Senate silver bloc at Washington. Rubber improved moderately. Bonds were somewhat nervous, although federal issues again edged upward. Dollar rates were narrow.

Market students were still of the belief that, until the composite stock average breaks through the low of last October, the major trend cannot be definitely classed as down.

At the same time, brokerage doubts of any substantial increase in business apparently were exemplified by the sale of another exchange seat at a decline of $10,000 under yesterday's final transaction. The latest price for a membership on the "big board" was $100,000. This was comparable with $140,000 on April 12, last.

Statistical services reported a more than seasonal rise of 14.7 per cent in building permit values in April over March. Comparison with the same period a year ago also showed a gain of 32.5 per cent. Permits in 215 cities in the United States during April totaled more than $29,000,000 as against some $25,500,000 in the preceding month.

The recent recovery in commodity prices carried the "Analist" weekly wholesale index up 1.7 points to 111.1 on May 8, the highest point since February 10, 1931. When it stood at 111.8. The advance was said to have been due largely to higher levels for the farm and food products groups. It was explained, however, that the foregoing high levels were attained only in terms of the depreciated dollar.

POOR DEMAND HURTS COTTON

NEW YORK, May 11.—Cotton futures opened barely steady, 2 to 4 points lower, under liquidation owing to favorable weather and on the poor spot demand. May, 11.24; July, 11.36; October, 11.53; December, 11.66; January, 11.71; March, 11.82.

In addition to realizing, there was a little New Orleans and southern selling at the start, but the small offerings were absorbed by trade or commission house buying, and prices firmed up after the higher opening of the wheat market.

The early advance in the wheat market seemed to bring more buying into cotton, while there was an increase in demand from the trade toward the end of the first hour which sent July up to 11.43c and December to 11.72c, or about 3 to 4 points net higher. Business was not active, however, while the advance met a little more realizing, and the market at midday was quiet with July ruling around 11.38c, and the general market was a point or two under yesterday's closing quotations.

LIVERPOOL, May 11.—Cotton—Receipts 18,000 bales including 4,700 American. Spot moderate business done; prices two points higher; quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 6.75; good middling, 6.45; strict middling, 6.30; middling, 6.15; strict low middling, 6.00; low middling, 5.75; strict good ordinary, 5.55; good ordinary, 5.25. Futures closed very steady. May, 5.95; July, 5.96; October, 5.90; December, 5.87; January, 5.87; March, 5.87.

Bureau Sets Wheat Control Date Ahead

WASHINGTON, May 11.—(AP.)—Signing of contracts for the wheat production control campaign will be extended until May 16 to allow farmers in drought states to participate.

Describing the primary purpose of the wheat plan as adjustment of production, George E. Farrell, crief of the wheat section of the farm administration, declared the program has a secondary function in insuring income to farmers under conditions such as the present drought.

N. Y. Market Seats Take Further Drop

NEW YORK, May 11.—Arrangements have been made for sale of a New York Stock Exchange seat at $100,000, off $10,000 from previous transaction.

Sale of a seat yesterday at $110,000 represented a decline of $20,000.

Many Guard Against Want

By B. C. FORBES

EXPECT ERUPTIONS of nervousness until Congress acts definitely on important legislation and adjourns.

The security markets yesterday forenoon had an attack of the jitters. A million shares were thrown over on the New York Stock Exchange in the first two hours, at declining quotations.

Mr. Forbes

Wall street usually ready with a glib explanation for spasms of either weakness or strength, couldn't offer any immediate explanation.

In the afternoon recovery cancelled a considerable part of the earlier declines.

My analysis is that the buying was "better than the selling," to use Wall street parlance, meaning that many of the shares thrown on the market at dwindling prices were quietly absorbed by influential investors and institutions.

High finance is not disposed at the moment to bring about any spectacular improvement in securities. It would rather have lawmakers ponder the unwisdom of enacting legislation calculated to injure security dealings.

After all, what happens on security exchanges has a very potent influence on sentiment and on developments in almost every walk of life. With twenty million or more Americans owning securities, their inclination to buy or hold on to their money is governed materially by a sharp rise or fall in the market value of their possessions.

M. A. LINTON, president of Provident Mutual Life Insurance Company, told me that the bottom has been reached and passed in the insurance business. He cited this significant fact:

More Americans than ever before are investing in annuities.

This form of guarantee against want in old age has long been popular abroad. But when I began to investigate the advantages of investing in an annuity shortly after I came to this country 30 years ago, I discovered that American insurance companies were not seriously interested.

The depression has brought home to many individuals the worthwhileness of annuities. Whereas ordinary life insurance calls for the continuous payment of premiums, continuous outgo, a paid-up annuity insures a regular income after a specified age has been reached.

Hundreds of thousands of individuals and families who could have provided against hardship by investing in an annuity during their years of prosperity, have experienced acute suffering during the last few years.

Apparently, a salutary lesson has been taught. The advantage of establishing trust funds or annuities has been forcefully driven home to many.

This is altogether a healthy development.

ONE AMERICAN automobile company actually sold more than 100,000 automobiles last month. This feat, achieved by Chevrolet, had not been achieved by anyone in three years. The total was fully 40,000 ahead of a year ago.

General Sales Manager William E. Holler remarked to me:

"Surely this reflects constantly bettering business conditions throughout the country."

ONE READER writes:

OUR NATIONAL slogan still must be:

"More jobs."

SUGAR COMES UNDER U. S. CONTROL

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University

NEW YORK, May 11.—Now comes sugar! It has been added to the growing list of "basic commodities" to be controlled by government action through AAA under a bill just signed by the President.

Briefly this astounding measure provides that for at least three years the following provisions shall apply:

Domestic beet and cane producers shall restrict production to a total not to exceed 1,810,000 tons per year. The basis for individual farm "allotments" will be announced by AAA shortly.

Import quotas governing foreign sugars are to be set up by Messrs. Wallace and Tugwell.

Thus the supply available for domestic consumers is to be controlled.

The domestic sugar growers are to be compensated by a bonus payment for being forced to curtail production. This will, in due time, swell the millions of dollars now being distributed by the administration to cotton, corn, hog and wheat farmers.

This bonus is to be "financed" by putting a tax not to exceed ½ cent per pound on sugar refined in this country. Thus another "processing tax" is added to the list.

The tariff on imported sugar is to be reduced ½ cent.

REASONS NOT CLEAR

The reasons for this last feature are not entirely clear. Apparently one idea is to benefit Cuban interests. But whether more sugar will come from Cuba will depend on the import quotas to be fixed. The President himself says that it is to keep prices down to American consumers, but how anyone can keep Cuban sugar down and Colorado or Louisiana sugar up, is more than I can see.

In defending his signature to the act, the President makes this remarkable statement: "This means that the processing or compensatory taxes will not increase, in themselves, the price to be paid by the ultimate consumers, and at the same time our own sugar producers will have the opportunity in the form of benefit payments, a fairer return from their product."

Why say that processing taxes do not "in themselves" raise the prices? Does the consumer care whether the higher price is the result of the tax "in itself" or of something else connected with the tax?

And how can one say that bonus for not producing is a return for products?

MAY OFFSET TAX

The idea seems to be that the reduction of ½ cent in the tariff on imported sugar will in some way offset the tax of ½ cent on all sugar. But the sugar is all the same, and must sell at one price. We can't give the domestic beet sugar people a high price to cover increased costs, and "at the same time" sell Cuban cane sugar for less.

And where is the $63,000,000 to be raised by the processing tax to come from? Who pays this tax? We know where a similar tax on cotton has come from. It shows up in our cost of living.

Processing taxes must come out of either consumers or producers. If the domestic sugar producers are to benefit by a "fairer return," then domestic consumers are going to pay.

There is a possibility that this year the demand for sugar will be curtailed by small fruit crops, reduced purchasing power, etc. Maybe the "quotas" will prove too large. In that case, the producers will lose. But then the experiment would be made more drastic next year.

So the process of "regimentation," with the quotas, allotments and taxes goes merrily on.

DROUGHT CUTS WHEAT CROP

WASHINGTON, May 11.—(AP.)—Roosevelt farm officials, with an apprehensive eye on the drought-seared Midwest, conceded a "highly abnormal" crop situation today, but asserted there still should be enough food to go around.

Latest official figures, taking no account of the havoc caused by heat, wind and lack of rain in the last 10 days, related that even on the basis of previous conditions many crops would be the worst in years.

Secretary Wallace pointed out, however, that the forecast of a winter wheat crop of only 461,371,000 bushels would find a possible carryover of 247,000,000 bushels.

The outlook for winter wheat alone as of May 1 was reported yesterday by the Department of Agriculture as 170,590,000 bushels short of the average harvest for 1922-1931.

Hay crops and pasture were described by yesterday's report as in the poorest condition of any May 1 in half a century, and the condition of rye was at a record low.

'BREAK' FOR PENNSYLVANIA

HARRISBURG, May 11.—(AP.)—Crop reports indicate that the Pennsylvania farmer is "getting a break" with his winter wheat.

While the Department of Agriculture estimates the probable national yield of winter wheat at 461,471,000 bushels, because of drought 31,000,000 bushels below the figure indicated a month ago, the federal-state crop reporting service says Pennsylvania's prospects have decreased only slightly in that time.

WEATHER AIDS RETAIL TRADE

NEW YORK, May 11.—(AP.)—The volume of retail and wholesale buying rose this week with the temperature, said the Dun & Bradstreet weekly trade review today.

The agency reported that along with the "sudden spurt" in retail distribution, the rate of industrial operations reached new high ground for the year in several divisions. It continued:

"The sudden revival of activity, following the languishing pace of April, has brought fresh evidence that the weather has been the major retardative factor to progress during the last few weeks.

"The accelerated pace at which merchandise now is passing into consumers' hands has removed the fears of a few weeks ago that inventory losses would be suffered, as stocks of the slowest selling items already have been lowered to such an extent that disposal of the balance will not be difficult as the peak of the spring buying movement is not expected to be reached until the latter part of May.

"The long-awaited arrival of warm weather brought the heaviest volume of buying that most retailers have experienced in more than a month."

Loans to Brokers Decline $27,000,000

TIRES RAISED 5 TO 15%

AKRON, O., May 11.—(AP.)—An irregular price increase ranging from 5 to 15 per cent on third and fourth line automobile tires was announced by the major rubber companies, effective today.

The increase will average about 10 per cent on third and 15 per cent on fourth line tire brands, the B. F. Goodrich Company said. The increase is "an industry move" to adjust prices before the new retail code "floor prices" become effective Monday, the announcement said.

Chickie's Daughter

By ELENORE MEHERIN

CHAPTER LXVII

Pippin repeated, dazed: "Hildegarde Kamla has arrived in New York? Who told you?"

Kathleen stood before her mirror, smoothing the coil of her smokey black hair.

"Letters have come from her, post marked New York. By now, they've probably had a grand reunion."

"How do you know she comes to America for Kevin?"

Kathleen shrugged. "He's been home five months. She's written at least twice a week. Every time Bob Nolan sees me he twits me about the nice German sister-in-law I'm going to have. Seeing that Bob is married to a German and a friend of Hildegarde's, he should know. They were both nurses in the clinic!"

Said Pippin with more heat than caution: "Kevin hasn't the slightest intention of marrying her!"

"Well—it's a very remarkable coincidence that Kevin goes East at the very moment Hildegarde arrives. As a matter of fact, he's kept clear of women since he's been home. The first few weeks he gave Jane Carew a tumble or two; he hasn't taken a girl out since, except you and, of course, that's perfectly safe and won't involve him any."

Pippin offered quetly, but her heart made a vast thunder in her ears: "We don't even know that Kevin ever cared for Hildegarde! More than likely it's all a lot of gossip!"

Rehearses Love Words

Pippin scarcely saw the play that Saturday afternoon. She was rehearsing with a memory grown utterly merciless all the love words Kevin had ever said to her. She shut her eyes stubbornly against any scene where Kevin wooed the pretty German girl. Not a word of it was true! He told her plain as man could say it, she was the one he loved; she the one he wanted. Let the whole world carry tales. She knew!

So she continued writing. Every day she wrote him a letter and never mentioned the news she had heard.

Nor did he say anything of a girl named Hildegarde. His letters grew short—hurried. But he was busy. And the letters were exciting. They were very dear.

The following Friday Kathleen said: "Why don't you give Jim Crosby a break? I think he's a peach of a fellow. It wouldn't hurt you to give him a date. Call him up and we'll all go dancing tonight."

But Pippin wouldn't. She had given her promise to Kevin. That promise would be kept.

Saturday she had lunch with Kathleen. Kathleen looked dejected and on the brink of tears.

"I met Bob Nolan and his German bride at the St. Francis last night. They were quite excited that Hildegarde has arrived here. They think Kevin went East just to meet her and laughed when I mentioned the hospital and buying equipment."

Pippin said, cold and very grim: "Is Kevin telling his business to them? He thinks Nolan an old woman gossip!"

Set Against Evidence

She set her face like stone against the evidence. Had he not taken her in his arms and his eyes—his flashing, imperious, beautiful eyes going down like plummets to her very soul? Had he not said, "Love me always, sweetheart!" with his lips closing in sacred tenderness on hers?

The sweet high truth of this holy moment, she would not stain.

But 10 days passed. She received no letters.

"He's busy; he had to go to Boston. I don't need this petty kind of devotion!"

On Friday night, Janina came for dinner. Dr. Fritz Meyer, a friend of David's was also present. Pippin loved to see Janina and Dr. Meyer flaying each other with brilliant, slashing wit. Janina had read and read, but everything took on the color of her vivid, original mind. The conversation would run from Adam and Eve through the Nordic myth to the economic revolution. All of interest to the seeking mind from the hope of immortality to the chance of bridging the stars, they glowingly assailed.

Tonight they touched on morality—new and old.

"The world expects too much of sex," Janina said. "The man attracted by a woman physically imagines that he need only marry her to be happy ever afterwards. By some inexplicable magic, sex is supposed to open the portal to spiritual and intellectual joy. There's no more reason why the love relation should bring happiness than that a partnership in the bond business should.

Seen With Hildegarde

"Love yields enough. We should be grateful for the rich emotional quality it weaves into the tapestry of life. Accept it for what it is—one of the grandest of our hungers: a superb goal to higher effort but don't mistake it as the gate to an everlasting paradise."

Dr. Meyer turned to David and inconsequently said: "I saw our young friend Malone in New York. He is marrying, I suppose?"

"Why, I don't know," David answered blankly. "I haven't heard so."

"But that Miss Kamla who was his friend in Germany is here now. I met them together at dinner and again at the symphony. I think it is a match. A charming, intelligent girl."

Pippin felt her mother's eyes go with a rush over her face. She went on talking to Janina and pretended not to have heard.

They went to the livingroom for coffee. Pippin stole to the garden. It was a clear blue night in the first of May. The sky was all fluttered with silver clouds; the stars blew down to the water.

She leaned against a flowering quince. It was all in radiant bloom. The blossoms gleamed faintly in the moonlight.

She stood there holding her mind cold and her heart still. What of it—a dinner—a symphony? He would do this, of course, for a friend in a strange land.

But with subtle poison a thought crept round and round in her mind. He wouldn't ask her to give up other men.

He said: "I wish I had the right to ask it!"

What Did Kevin Mean?

"Why haven't you the right?"

"I haven't."

She thought that meant he had no money; no assurance for the future. Did it mean something else?

She found Janina standing at her side; Janina's arm about her.

"You haven't been to see me for weeks, Pippin. I get lonesome. You make me feel young. I look at you and fancy you're Chickie and we're two girls together again. You're so like her."

"She was much prettier, Janina, and so much sweeter."

"I like you just as well. I like the hard, independent streak in you. It's a better way to be."

Pippin felt the blood chill about her neck; felt tears come stinging to her eyes. Janina guessed she loved Kevin! Janina was telling her to be strong; not to let herself be hurt; never to admit it no matter how great the pain.

But she was NOT hurt. She believed in him!

---

She rushed home from her classes and took her letters slowly from the box in the upper hall. But now it was 14 days and he didn't write.

She sorted over letters from Bill and two from Gregg sent from ports along his route. She noticed a brown stain along the flap of an envelope—as though it had been burnt. She ran her finger along this.

But she thought, mutinous, of Kevin's hands loitering with love over her face. He cared! Till the end of time she would believe it!

May Have Hold on Him

Kathleen said: "He wrote mother that Hildegarde is in New York. They went to a concert together. I suppose he's preparing us for the blow."

"Why should it be a blow, Kathie? She may be the finest girl in the world. And surely he may take her to a concert without meaning to marry her."

"But she writes her friends that she comes to America because here is her heart. He may be through with her; she may not be through with him. Who knows what hold she has? Do you think a girl is writing across her photograph, 'Think back to our love, always yours!' unless there were more to it than murmurs in the moonlight?"

"It's none of our business!"

Pippin turned to her desk and tore viciously at a letter from Bill. Paragraphs jumped at her.

"So dearest my dear, I'm all discharged and free. I've settled my mother's affairs. You know this stock market, wobbling as it did, made a bit of readjustment necessary. You'd be surprised how smart I was. Now I've nothing to do for the rest of my days but love you and make you glad. Do you doubt that I can? How soon will you believe!

"Save me next Saturday night and be as you were the day I left. How often I've thought of that sweetness. Driving down in the middle of the night as you did, Pippin, told something.

"Let me believe it told what I so long to hear . . . and you do care. Well—a little then! I've bought you a ring—not for anything serious—but just that you may remember a night in the wilderness which was precious but too short. I love you—too much."

BRUNT OF WAR TRANSFERRED TO SOUTH

In December, 1778, the British seized Savannah, Ga. They repulsed disastrously a French-American attack under D'Estaing and Gen. Lincoln October, 1779. In spring, 1780, Charleston, S. C., was besieged by British Gens. Clinton and Cornwallis, forcing Gen. Lincoln to surrender. Other British victories followed, royal authority was re-established in the conquered territories, violators executed. Yet fearless patriots, like Sunter and Marion, kept up a guerrilla warfare.

Congress sent Gen. Gates, Washington' the brave Gen. DeKalb with troops to the South. They met the British near Camden, S. C. (Aug. 16, 1780). The battle ended in disaster for the Americans. Gen. Gates fled. DeKalb was mortally wounded.

After a painting by L. Tiemann in the Pinakothek at Munich, Germany.

ALARIC, THE VISIGOTH AS CONQUEROR IN ATHENS

Alaric, chieftain of the Visigoths (Western Goths inhabiting Dacia, later Western Europe, in contrast to the Ostrogoths or Eastern Goths at the Black Sea), conquered parts of the weakened Roman empire following its definite separation into Western and Eastern empires (395), after the death of the Emperor Theodosius. Alaric devastated Thrace, Macedonia, Thessaly, Illyricum Greece, Athens securing its safety by ransom. He besieged Rome several times, pillaging it in 410. Only death interrupted his victorious advance through Sicily toward Africa. (World History)

THE FOREIGNER WHO GAVE LIFE FOR LIBERTY —THE TRAITOR WHO SOLD LIBERTY FOR GAIN

Above: Dying John DeKalb, the former Bavarian general (born in Alsace). He received 11 wounds when gallantly fighting the superior British forces at Camden, S. C. (Aug. 16, 1780).

American Gen. Benedict Arnold, his pride hurt by a biased Congress, turned traitor. He is depicted (at right) meeting British Maj. Andre (Sept., 1780, at Stony Point on the Hudson) preparing the plot to deliver the fortified West Point to the British, fortunately frustrated by the capture of Andre behind the lines of the Americans. Virtues, sins are not bound by race or nationality.

AIR—APPARATUS FOR LIQUEFACTION

The earth is surrounded by an ocean of invisible gases, the atmosphere. This is a mixture containing (when dry) by volume about: 21% oxygen (supports life through respiration), 78% nitrogen (dilutes oxygen), 0.9% argon, 0.03% carbon dioxide (food for plants), the rest being helium, neon, krypton, hydrogen, ozone, xenon and radium emanation. Besides, there are: Water vapor (prevents excessive evaporation of water in living things), dust (furnishes nuclei for rain and cloud) and bacteria.

Every gas liquefies when cooled and compressed to critical temp. and pressure, resp. These are for air about —140° C. and 39 atm. Above: Air liquefying apparatus. Air is drawn by pump through a purifier (contains NaOH, removes moisture, $CO_2$) and is compressed. The compressed air expands through a jet, cools; cold air returns to compressor, repeats cycle until it liquefies.

THE ATMOSPHERE

CHEESE MAKING—VIEW OF A FACTORY

Casein of milk is precipitated as solid (curd) by dilute acids, alcohol and enzymes like rennet (prepared from lining of calf stomach) or pepsin (from hog stomach). Thus precipitation of casein occurs (milk curdles) when bacterial fermentation changes milk sugar into lactic acid, which makes milk sour. Cheese making is based upon these processes.

Milk is inoculated with lactobacillus bulgaricus; after standing it is heated (84-88° F.) and rennet added. Casein coagulates to curd, is cut, then "cooked" (98-100° F.), separated from the liquid (whey), milled, salted, packed into molds, dipped in paraffin and ripened in a cool place.

Differences in bacteria, fermentation, working, give the different flavors and textures of cheese. Whey, the by-product, is a valuable food.

HOW AIRPLANES ARE KEPT IN AIR

For ages children have known how to fly kites. The wind pressure on the kite surface—sloped by heavy tail and held with a string against the wind—produces upward directed force, lifting the kite. The airplane operates on same principle. The sloped surface is given by the wings; the wind pressure is substituted by the pressure of compressed air under the wings and the suction effect of the partial vacuum above the wings. These pressure and suction effects are created by the swift forward motion of the wings, pulled forward by the motor-powered propeller. Thus the airplane needs great speed to arise and remain in the air. Above: Acting forces in kite and airplane and lifting effect of a modern wing of cambered aerofoil section. The propeller has blades of carofoil section; rotating at given speed, it develops pull equal to air-resistance of plane.

News Reels Gloss Nothing Over

Looking at two little lads playing marbles it is a sad thought to realize that one must grow up to eventually investigate the other.

But, some day they must vote. Voting means politics. And today's politics consists of investigations.

All this furore and turmoil makes us long for the days of Jefferson, Jackson, Calhoun and Webster. Can it be that those men were great because they dressed differently?

Has bushy hair got anything to do with thinking? Do broad foreheads, owl eyes and roman profiles constitute the principal ingredients of overwhelming elections?

Does a facile and flowing delivery indicate economical research and strategical knowledge? It seems not. We have discarded the theory that the tongue was the pendulum of the brain. And that the faster it wagged the quicker you thought. When we wish for the era of Jackson we are not claiming we were there at the time.

Do our former statesmen remain great because all their pictures were stills? Could they have passed the ultimate test of the weekly news reels?

Somehow, an orator never seems tremendous when he is reading his speech like a label on a bottle. The news reels have toppled many a national hero. There is no sadder sight than a distinguished citizen trying to be progressive and alert from memory.

And, if this nation started forth equipped with the weekly news reel, you can bet that many of our greatest ancestors astriding marble horses would now be walking around on foot.

The reels have reduced romance, luster and civilization to the least common denominator.

And the photographers have shattered many a myth. Those boys are imps. They play quoits with halos.

Their close-ups are deadly. They got one of the writer with his teeth looking like the skeleton key to a haunted castle. Prohibition was defeated when the drys consented to lecture for the news reels. A roar of laughter ran around the world that shook Gibraltar like a baked apple balanced on a cafeteria platter.

That's what a news reel does. From now on we go to 'em. But we don't pose for 'em.

ODD FACTS

The only camel caravans between northern and southern China that are never molested by brigands are the "ghost trains" that bring back the bodies of emigrants for burial with their ancestors. These caravans are sometimes a mile long and carry more than 1,000 coffins, four to a camel.

The Arabs have 450 words meaning "line," 822 words meaning "camel," and 1,037 words meaning "sword."

President Roosevelt has received 22,000 telegrams and 1,620,000 letters and packages since taking office about a year ago.

People Demand Congress Vote on McLeod Bill

Cheap Political Trickery Must Not Block This Vital Recovery Measure.

Political trickery of the basest kind has been employed by foes of the McLeod bank bill to prevent its consideration by Congress.

With one-third of the Representatives demanding that this measure to pay depositors in closed banks of the Federal Reserve System in full—be brought out on the floor in its original form, the House Banking Committee hastily "amended the life out of it" and then placed it before the House.

The changes made by the committee completely emasculate the bill.

The action of the committee may completely block a vote on it as it was drawn by Mr. McLeod.

That's politics for you, as practiced by some of our "parliamentarians" at Washington.

We are glad to say, however, that a widespread revolt against these underhand tactics has broken out in Congress.

The leaders of the Democratic party in the House are being besieged to permit the bill to come before the House AS THE PEOPLE WANT IT.

It will take a good deal of nerve, a good deal of effrontery, a good deal of "the public be damned" spirit on the part of the Democratic leadership to turn a deaf ear to that demand.

The people of the United States want the McLeod bill passed, as a matter of simple justice to depositors in these closed banks and as an ESSENTIAL STEP TOWARD RECOVERY.

If you believe in justice, and in RECOVERY, tell your Congressman and your Senator that you expect them to support the McLeod measure.

And tell them also that any Senator or any Representative who resorts to such cheap methods as we have witnessed to defeat the people's will must give an accounting to the people when he comes up for election again.

Do Not Vote Blindly

The Candidates' Attitude on the Campaign Issues Should Be Ascertained.

The Allegheny County Real Estate Owners and Taxpayers' League is opposed to the kind of local government that has come down to us from oxcart days and is not suited to present conditions.

The league has a legislative program which includes, among other things, consolidation of administrative units, such as school districts, townships, boroughs, city and county, to eliminate duplication and excessive costs. It calls for a constitutional convention.

To put these desirable reforms into effect it is necessary, of course, to send to the Legislature men and women who are committed to their support. The league has taken a poll of candidates and knows how they stand in reference to these important questions.

The League for Social Justice also has a legislative program, which has been approved by a number of the social service organizations in the county. This league, too, has taken a poll of the candidates to determine their attitude towards the proposals.

Questionnaires have also been sent to the candidates by other groups.

These things are mentioned as showing that it is unnecessary for the citizens to vote blindly next Tuesday. There are a number of agencies through which to ascertain what the candidates, if elected, will support and what they will oppose.

The number of aspirants for office is so great that it is out of the question for most of the citizens to learn anything about their qualifications, or lack of them, without consulting civic and trade bodies that have looked into the subject.

Alert citizens, conscious of the responsibilities that they assume when they go to the polls, will inform themselves of the character of the candidates and the policies that they represent, before casting their ballots.

Citizens who take their citizenship seriously, as it should be taken, will not vote ignorantly and thus run the risk of entrusting the management of public affairs to persons unfit to be entrusted with them. They will vote intelligently, notwithstanding the fact that the candidates are numerous.

The Dismissal of Smith

The Change in Safety Directors Probably Is for the Good of the Service.

Ralph E. Smith should have resigned as Public Safety Director when his dismissal of Ben R. Marshall as Superintendent of Police was overruled by Mayor W. N. McNair. Having failed to take the broad hint that his policies were unacceptable to the Mayor, he has only himself to blame for his dismissal.

Smith is entitled to a little sympathy, perhaps, because Mayor McNair had said that he would not interfere with his cabinet members in the administration of their departments, and then proceeded to interfere actively with Smith's management of the Safety Department.

On the other hand, it may be said in McNair's justification that in some of the changes that Smith made or attempted to make in the Safety Department he seemed to be actuated more by selfish political motives than by concern for the city's welfare.

The new Safety Director, Archibald Marshall Bell, has not been prominent in public life, and it is difficult at this time to appraise his fitness for the important and difficult job that has been given him. The people will wish him well.

The change is probably for the good of the service.

High School Growth

The Extension of Education in Pennsylvania Should Have Salutary Effects.

The Department of Public Instruction reports that 550,000 boys and girls are enrolled in Pennsylvania's public high schools and that they constitute 27 per cent of the total enrollment in the public schools. In 1925 there were less than 300,000 high school pupils and they represented only 15 per cent of the total enrollment.

This extraordinary increase in high school students in nine years is a gratifying sign of the times. There is a greater demand for education. Young people are extending their school years and learning things that their parents did not learn.

The effects should be salutary. With more widespread knowledge Pennsylvania is bound to have a more intelligent citizenship.

Lend Me Your Money---and I'll Buy Your Goods

Europe's point of view does not change.

In the World War period, when the embattled nations needed our supplies, our Government lent them the money wherewith to pay.

After the peace our Government continued to lend, and Europe continued to buy.

In the debt adjustment our Government forgave the war debts and settled the post-war loans on easy terms which Europe promised to keep.

And for a while longer we had what looked like a flourishing export trade. What we overlooked was the fact that Europe was continuing to buy our goods WITH OUR MONEY—borrowed this time in the form of private loans.

Since then we have had a showdown. Nearly all the debts to our Government and private leaders are in default or in arrears and our "trade" has fallen off.

Some of our internationalists are still talking about bigger and better exports and urging tariff "pacts" with Europe.

But the only "pact" in which Euope is likely to be interested will be the same old idea, "Lend us your money—and we'll buy your goods!"

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 11.—Thoughts while strolling: Gloria Swanson has eyes like Nijinsky. And Lee Tracy's are like Lillian Gish's. Hissing has stopped shots of jumping races at one big movie house. If they'd tear up the car tracks, what a grand street Madison avenue would be! No place serves enough syrup for waffles.

One word description of Alice Brady, professionally, of course—blabby. How tweedy Ed Wynn has become. Genevieve Tobin and Ruth Etting bear a slight resemblance. John Charles Thomas always carries that carved wood cane. Sutton Place never the same since Elizabeth Marbury's passing.

Every fat woman weighed just 105 when she was married. No, sir, dogs don't think. Rex Beach's dog sitting on the under-table foot bell when hungry is just coincidence. Bugs Baer's stuff always make one grumble: Why didn't I think of that? Gene Fowler window shopping.

The gallopingest of all trade names—Brunswick-Balke-Collender. Somebody who loved the place—Elmer Davis is my nomination—should turn out a magazine piece on Madame Laloy's old French restaurant in 39th street. Some of the town's staunchest friendships generated there. Jack Warner is a ringer for Roxy:

One of my favorite people—Julia Kelly. Johnny Farrar's loose walk. And Lawrence Tibbett's stately tread. Play title: "Hunger." The lights come on. Who was it called the glare Broadway's witch fires of illusion? They can carry out the old gag and stagger out of Childs these days if they want.

* * *

One of the delightful angles to Manhattan is the drop-and-pick-up friendships. It is not unusual for friends on account of the city's complexities to be separated a year or several years and begin relations right where left off. Threads do not unravel. In smaller communities friendships, with such absence, trickle out. And once abandoned, are seldom resumed.

* * *

Perhaps no wife so carefully guards her husband as does Mme. Toscanini. And he is one of life's most oscilating paradoxes. A kindly, sensitive fellow, he vents his flurries of rage by breaking his spectacles into bits. She always has a few extra pairs safely cached. An exquisite in sartorial taste, he effects tiny George White bow ties, stiffly pleated shirts and patent leather shoes that must not bear a slight scratch. He professes to despise the uproar of a city, yet will not live anywhere save the Astor in the midst of greatest clamor. A bristle of contradictions, he comes toward the art he loves humbly and with open hands. Then is he the great and lovable Toscanini.

* * *

The magazine Time tells of the day when Geraldine Farrar, Toscanini's close friend, goaded by an endless rehearsal of bickering cried: "Maestro, I am the star of this performance—not you." To which he replied: "Madame, there are no stars in my performances. There are only stars in Heaven!"

* * *

The sudden pyrotechnics of a great star is often beautiful to behold. I once saw Gaby Deslys at a rehearsal at the Winter Garden mount the high horse and ride the company down. She wound up in a chalk-faced fury, kicking, screaming and pulling her hair. It was the only time I actually saw foam bubbling from a person's mouth. When her chameleon caper subsided, the director leaning patiently against a wing said quietly: "Let us go on now!" And like the magic cessation of a furious storm, everything was calm and peaceful again.

* * *

The Englishman Teddy Royce—and where is he?—wore himself down directing rehearsals more than any man I ever saw. Two days before the premiere of one Follies his voice was only a whisper and, a frail fellow, he had lost eight pounds. His meals were only a hastily snatched sandwich and a gulp of hot coffee. The stiffly pompadoured and glum George S. Kaufman represents a newer method of directing. He sits quietly down front, interjecting a soft spoken entreaty now and then and never indulging a tantrum. Both Royce and Kaufman have been successful.

* * *

This sign on a dance hall in deep Harlem doesn't leave much room for argument. It reads: "No loud talking allowed or permitted inside the walls of this inclosure."

* * *

Sometimes I feel I should never open my mouth in public. Last evening I complained sharply of a draft around the shoulders. "Waiter," cried Courtney Ryley Cooper, clapping his hands sharply: "Bring pappy a throw!"

ISN'T IT SO?

Many a well-informed woman has her servant girl to thank for it.

An optimist is a man who thinks two men can agree about farm relief.

The value of a dollar depends upon whether you have a million dollars or five.

The average man's idea of pleasure is merely the indulgence in things he can't afford.

Flannel cakes are not guaranteed from shrinkage—if a healthy boy sits down in front of them.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

We Needn't Be So Shrill About It, Sisters!

All right, all right, girls; I'll admit we're smart.

I'll agree that we're quite as smart as men.

I'll even concede that, maybe, given the time and breaks, we may prove to be smarter.

BUT WHY, OH, WHY MUST WE BE SO SHRILL ABOUT IT?

Why can't a bright woman take her brains comfortably?

A bright man can. A really intelligent man wears his mind as nonchalantly as he does his oldest shoes and slopiest hunting jacket. He doesn't become fussed when he Has A Thought, nor does he consider is necessary to fuss others.

Not so women. Not once in a blue moon does one meet a brilliant woman who isn't self-conscious—and a bit shrill about it.

Take Margot Asquith, Countess of Oxford, as a case in point. Also that lively export from our own shores, Lady Astor. Both of these amazing women can think circles around the average male, and hold their own even among the loftiest male high-brows. Both of them fairly crackle with intelligence. But did either of them ever crackle in silence?

Not so's you'd notice it!

Not only are Mesdames Asquith and Astor pleased when they produce a Bright Idea, but they are also hot and bothered—and plenty pesty. They seem to fear that some one will doubt or dispute their cleverness, and they're taking no chances. There's a spark in their eyes, a slant to their jaws, a rasp in their voices, which not only informs but also warns the listener that Here's A Brainy Jane, and Don't You Forget It!

And, to varying degrees, this is true of almost all Smart Shes. Occasionally one meets a rare woman thinker who isn't excited about it—a Secretary Perkins, Mme. Curie, Amelia Earhart, Eva Le Gallience, Marie Dressler, Jane Adams, that warm-hearted, cool-headed humanist, Dorothy Dix. But most of us act as if our brightness were a dose of hives—and make our audience feel accordingly.

How come? The answer's easy. We have stage fright.

Women have had brains for several million years, and said brains have been functioning plenty. But they never advertised them. To have done so would have been highly inexpedient, as even the simplest femme well knew.

For men like 'em dumb. Nothing so adorns or enhances male smartness as female stupidity.

As a consequence, all really intelligent girls kept it to themselves—or wished they had. Only within recent years has it been profitable or possible for ladies to publicize their cleverness, and, naturally, we're still both puffed up and touchy. Pleased with our new rights—but always prepared to fight for them! And that condition doubtless will continue until we get our sea legs.

But let's take it as easy as we can in the meantime, sisters. After all, a Bright Thought is not a unique phenomenon. Nor are brains actually any more unique than toe-nails—and we hang no wreaths on the female sex when we act as if they were.

To the contrary—the laugh's on us. If we were really as smart as we think we are, we wouldn't be so surprised about it.

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

Matrimonial Sweepstakes

At this dizzy season, when you see a man and a girl looking into each other's eyes "that way," you know that, while their feet may be on the ground, their heads are somewhere 'way up in the stratosphere.

Wisdom comes with age and experience—but what's the use of wisdom to a woman after she has a double chin and the wrong husband?

* * *

Next to good spoon-bread, the softest thing on earth is the heart of a man who has just put his wife on the train for Reno and is feeling sorry for himself. ANY girl can marry him!

* * *

Add things that give you a heartache: Those signs in the tailors' windows, "Shine removed from your old suit." Still, it may mean only that we are getting back to normal and trying to live within the old income, instead of trying to put on a lot of dog, without it.

* * *

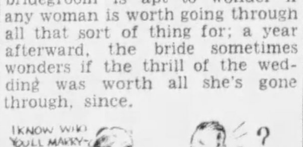
While a young man is wondering what sort of girl he'll choose when he decides to marry, some enterprising little thing always comes along and makes up his mind for him.

* * *

No use trying to tame a wild animal or a wild husband, once either of them has discovered that he can call your bluff and get away with it.

* * *

The day before the wedding, the bridegroom is apt to wonder if any woman is worth going through all that sort of thing for; a year afterward, the bride sometimes wonders if the thrill of the wedding was worth all she's gone through, since.



Don't envy the people who drive the glittering new car until you find out how many payments they owe. Better a rattling old flivver and a receipted bill therewith than an imported streamline with the collector on your trail.

* * *

If a man has a job, nowadays, he can get married right away—if the girl can find a job, too.

Age

Age is a deep pool, still and clear,
Winds cannot ruffle it, year on year;
Never a tempest its calm can stir,
All it holds are the things that were.
Shining, far in its crystal deeps,
Pictures of memory it keeps,
Places and people now passed by,
Here they change not, they can not die.
Age is a deep pool, soundlessly
Shrining the hours that used to be,
Holding safe in its depths unstirred
Smiles long faded, long spoken word.

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

Do you make decisions too quickly?

Asked for an opinion on an important matter, you answer at once—and you are just as impulsive if you are called upon to act.

Later, when you have had time to think it over, you realize how foolish it was of you not to take a little time to consider.

Often you jump into enterprises which cause you embarrassment, annoyance and expense.

Many of your most serious problems have come as a result of your snap judgment.

You agree to meet certain requirements which, if you had given the subject thought, might have ended quite differently since you would have known that it would have been impossible to have met them.

You talk superficially and frequently are chagrined at the nonsensical nature of your statements.

If you are beginning to sense your stupdity and lack of discernment in your comments there may be hope of reform.

Better resolve today to think before you speak.

Nation Will Celebrate 300 Years of Education

By James T. Williams, Jr.

UNDER the leadership of President Roosevelt the American people will celebrate during the year 1935 three centuries of progress in secondary school education in the United States.

This celebration will center in the high schools of the country which will commemorate the founding in 1635 of the first American school of secondary grade. This was the Boston Latin School. It was established one year before the founding of the President"s Alma Mater, Harvard University.

A committee appointed by the department of secondary school principals of the National Education Association has been planning for the last four years a national celebration of this event. All high schools will be urged to take part by presenting to local communities North, East, South and West a graphic portrayal of the contribution which the household of the nation owes to its high schools.

C. O. Davis, professor of secondary education at the University of Michigan, is general chairman of the tercentenary celebration committee, from reports received from various sub-committees which are working on plans for the observance of this anniversary, he is convinced that every high school in the country will take part.

* * *

Education Office Needs New Home

HIGH school teachers and pupils all over the country have been invited to help in the preparations for this celebration and the part which the federal government will take is now under consideration.

There are many things the federal government could do in connection with this observance that would help to make it truly national and worthy of the event it will commemorate. For one thing it might offer to build a suitable home for the Federal Office of Education. This important agency is now housed in a rented building in which it has recently been assigned quarters that are far from adequate.

Visitors to the national capital are surprised to find education so neglected when agriculture, commerce and labor, the public health service and other agencies to promote the public welfare are so generously provided for.

They see the triangle of justice now nearing completion. It will add greatly to the architectural beauty of the federal city. It includes the Archives Building, which will offer a future home to the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States and other state papers which trace the history of the government from its foundation.

* * *

Federal Buildings In Triangle

OTHER buildings in this new triangle between the White House and Capitol which face on Constitution avenue are the Department of Justice, from which the triangle logically takes its name; also the Postoffice Department and the Departments of Commerce and Labor. Across the mall is the largest of all the buildings that house the executive branch of the federal government—the Department of Agriculture.

Before President Roosevelt leaves the White House he will probably be given by Congress the privilege of completing a new triangle between White House and the Lincoln Memorial— the Triangle of the Common Defense.

The first of the buildings that will eventually constitute this triangle has recently been completed. It is the new home of the Public Health Service. In the same area will be buildings to house the War and Navy Departments.

In the protection of the public health and the education of the youth the states hold the right of the line. Theirs is the responsibility for supporting and controling these activities under the leadership of the federal government.

The Federal Office of Education, which is urgently in need of a home, would seem to find a logical location within the proposed Triangle of the Common Defense. Next year would be an appropriate time to start the building of this new home for education. This structure might well be the contribution of the federal government to the observance of three centuries of progress in American secondary school education.

William Bayard Hale's Famous Suppressed Interview With The German Emperor Is Resurrected

By Edwin C. Hill

ONE day, when the world was a very different world from what it is now, the German cruiser Bremen steamed into the North River at New York. In the dead of night, heavy crates were carried board in an atmosphere of the utmost secrecy. Once the crates were below decks, the cruiser turned about and made for the open sea. In mid-Atlantic she hauled to and the crates were thrown overboard. But they wouldn't sink, and it was extremely necessary that they should be made to sink, or be otherwise destroyed to the last vestige.

And so the German cruiser lowered boats and one by one the crates were hauled back from the sea and taken on board again. Eight officers of the Imperial German Navy stripped and went down into the stokehold of the cruiser. They ripped open the crates and fed their contents to the flames of the fire boxes. And these contents were thousands of pages of the Century Magazine for December, 1908, pages which recorded the most blazing indiscretion in the memory of man, the remarks of the then German Kaiser, William the Second of Hohenzollern, to the American journalist, William Bayard Hale.

If that interview had not been suppressed at the urgent request of the Imperial German government, war might have exploded over the world much sooner than it did in 1914, for the Kaiser said things that surely would have fired the national anger of several peoples, including the British and the Japanese.

* * *

Kaiser's Views Of Yellow Peril

THIS interesting fragment of history comes alive again, as I receive a letter from that distinguished American periodical, the Atlantic Monthly, edited by Ellery Sedgwick, a letter accompanied by an article torn from the pages of the Atlantic. This article was written by William Harlan Hale, son of the man who interviewed the indiscreet Kaiser on the imperial yacht Hohenzollern, as the yacht swung at anchor in the harbor of Bergen.

For William Harlan Hale was possessed of the original notes his father made, working all night after his interview with the Kaiser, and also of a copy of the article written from those careful and voluminous notes which was suppressed from the Century Magazine. The revelation is of peculiar interest today because of the present tense situation existing in the Far East, and because of Japan's new and amazing assumption of complete overlordship in the Orient, to the exclusion of all Western Powers.

Striding up and down the deck of the Hohenzollern that night back in 1908, the Kaiser took the Asiatic situation, as it then existed, as his main theme.

"Everybody knows," he said to Dr. Hale, "what must come to pass between Asia and the West, the yellow race and the white. It is imbecile folly for us to close our eyes to the inevitable, to neglect to prepare to meet the inevitable. All the world understands that the gravest crisis in the destiny of the earth's population is at hand."

The Kaiser discussed the Japanese character at great length, saying:

"We know this much about him, he hates the white man worse than the white man hates the devil. The Japanese are devils, that's the simple fact. The danger to us is not Japan, but Japan at the head of a consolidated Asia. That would be the worst calamity that could threaten the world. The particular duty which the White Man owes himself at this moment is to prevent Japan's swallowing China."

There was much more, including a denunciation of the English as traitors to the white race, and about the duty of good Christians to use the sword, and all of it can be found in Editor Sedgwick's Atlantic Monthly. And indiscreet as the Kaiser was, and wrong-headed as he was, there is material in that long-suppressed interview, just brought to light, which gives one pause in this very juncture of world affairs.

For only recently, Sir John Simon, British Minister for Foreign Affairs, notified Japan politely, but firmly, that she will not be permitted to close the door to the Far East and swallow China, and our own State Department, moving deliberately and calmly, invited the Japanese Ambassador, Mr. Saito, to step forward and "clarify" the amazing dictum which sprang from his government.

British Fascist Movement Spreads

SIR OSWALD MOSLEY, aristocratic young English radical and head of the new British Fascist organization, is tempestuously greeted in Albert Hall, London, by 10,000 of his Black Shirt followers. His movement is no longer a joke, and he himself has ceased to be an object of ridicule. Unquestionably, the Fascist movement in England is gaining momentum and force, and it would be no great surprise to behold, in the not distant future, Sir Oswald Mosley as a kind of British Hitler.

However, Mosley and his Black Shirts disclaim religious bias, merely asserting that all religionists must put country first, before their nationality.

In Rome, Mussolini, great man that he is, proves that even great men can sometimes, in a moment of irritation or temper, do funny things. Speaking to thousands of his Fascists, packed in the beautiful Piazza di Venezia, to commemorate the two thousand, six hundred and eighty-seventh birthday of Rome, il Duce was annoyed by a battery of microphones and sound amplifiers which had been arrayed squarely in front of his face.

With a sweeping gesture he brushed them to one side, so forcefully that the delicate mechanisms were broken. The result was that only a few hundred out of the many thousands were able to hear the address and the real purpose of the gathering was lost.
